The following Latin Hymn, dating, it is supposed, from about the 6th or 7th century, was incorporated in the Statutes delivered by Henry VIII. to those of the Cathedrals of the New Foundation here named—Canterbury, Carlisle, Chester, Durham, Gloucester, Peterborough, Rochester, and Worcester—with the injunction that it should be used "by all in our Church before retiring to rest":—

PRECES VESPERI AB OMNIBUS IN ECCLESIA DICENDÆ.

HYMNUS.

Salvator mundi Domine,
Qui nos salvasti hodie
In hac nocte nos protege
Et salva omni tempore.

Adeste nunc propitius,
Et parce supplicantibus:
Tu dele nostra crimina,
Tu tenebras illumina.

Ne mentem somnus opprimat,
Nec hostis nos surripiat:
Nec ullis caro, petimus,
Commaculetur sordibus.

Te, Reformator sensuum,
Votis precamur cordium:
Ut puri castis mentibus
Surgamus a cubilibus.

Deo Patri sit gloria,
Ejusque soli Filio:
Cum Spiritu Paraclito,
Et nunc, et in perpetuum. Amen.

English paraphrase by James Walter Brown:—

O loving Saviour, Lord of all,
Whose care hath kept us safe to day,
Protect us now at evening's fall,
And ever be our guard and stay.

Draw near us through the gloomy night,
And while we pray Thy grace afford:
Our past offence blot from Thy sight,
And lighten Thou our darkness, Lord.

May no vile dream our mind assail,
No crafty foe our sleep invade,
Nor evil thought o'er us prevail
That so our flesh impure be made.

Our hearts lift up this prayer to Thee,
Whose love our every want supplies,
That, when again the morn we see,
Refreshed and pure we may arise.

The paraphrase forms the words of an Anthem composed by Dr. F. W. Wadely, Organist of Carlisle Cathedral, and published by Messrs. Novello.

PREFACE

TO THE ORIGINAL EDITION.

No complete or adequate record of past and present Cathedral Organists of the United Kingdom has hitherto been published. The following pages have, therefore, been compiled to supply this want.

The idea of this book originated in a somewhat imperfect list of Cathedral Organists, which I had gathered from various sources for my own private use. It afterwards occurred to me, however, that an amplification of this material, including short biographical notes concerning those Organists of whom any information could be obtained, might, if published, prove useful as a work of reference to Church musicians and to those interested in the history of this branch of the art of music.

The assistance of the majority of the present Cathedral and Collegiate Organists, and, in some cases, that of the Cathedral Clergy and Chapter Clerks, was accordingly asked, in searching their registers and other documents for further information on this subject; and it is greatly owing to the ready and generous manner in which these gentlemen have responded to my inquiries, that I have been enabled to obtain so complete and authentic a record.

It is difficult to state definitely when the office of Organist in our Cathedrals began to assume an independent and personal character; but, speaking approximately, it may be said to date from about the period of the Reformation.

In the early services of the Church very little practical skill was required for the accompaniment of the plain-song upon the primitive organs then in use, and the duties of Organist were apparently shared, in the majority of cases, by certain of the members of the Choral Establishment in turn. So that, although, in the early records, frequent mention is made of the "Organista," "Pulsator Organorum," "Lusor ad Organa," &c., these, and other distinctive titles applied to the player upon the organs, refer merely to the person filling that office for the time being. At Hereford, in the thirteenth century, the Organist was called "Clerk of the Organs"; at Exeter, at one period, he held the title of "Clerk of the Chapel"; and at St. Paul's he was appointed by the Præcentor "to keep the table and instruct the boys."

In tracing the history of Cathedral Organists an important distinction has to be drawn between Cathedrals of the Old Foundation and those of the New Foundation.

Cathedrals of the Old Foundation are those which retained, after the suppression of the Monasteries by Henry VIII., their original constitution; consequently there was no provision in the Statutes for an Organist as a separate and independent officer.

The following are the thirteen Cathedrals known as those of the Old Foundation:—

Bangor	Lincoln	St. Paul's
Chichester	Llandaff	Salisbury
Exeter	St. Asaph	Wells
Hereford	St. David's	York.
Lichfield

Cathedrals of the New Foundation are those which were re-constituted in the time of Henry VIII. They are fourteen in number. Nine of them—

Canterbury	Durham	Rochester
Carlisle	Ely	Winchester
Dublin (Christ Church)	Norwich	Worcester

had previously been both Monasteries and Cathedrals; the remaining five:—

Bristol	Gloucester	Peterborough

had been simply Monasteries, and their Sees were then for the first time established.

In the Statutes of Henry VIII. for Cathedrals of the New Foundation, provision was generally made for the office of Organist. Exceptions to this, however, occur at Winchester and at Ely, where the Organist was not recognised as a distinct member of the Foundation until the time of the Statutes of Charles I. and Charles II. respectively.

In cases where no provision was thus made for an Organist, the office continued to be held by one or more of the members of the Choir, or by someone who was virtually Organist, but statutably a member of the Choral Establishment, receiving his salary, or the greater part of it, as a Vicar Choral or a Lay Clerk. Sometimes he was one of the Minor Canons or Priest Vicars, where such were included in the Choir, as at Exeter, Hereford, &c. Even at the present time the Organists of Exeter, Lichfield, Salisbury, and Winchester are, according to Statute, Lay Vicars; that of Lichfield receiving, as Organist, the annual salary of £4, as ordered by Bishop Hacket's Statutes, which were first put into force by Bishop Lloyd in 1693.

The office of Master of the Choristers has, since the Reformation, generally been united with that of Organist, especially in Cathedrals of the New Foundation; and where exceptions to this arrangement have occurred, they have, as a rule, only been in the case of individual Organists. At Lincoln—a Cathedral of the Old Foundation—however, the appointment of Master of the Choristers was separated from that of Organist in 1595, and, with one or two exceptions, the two posts were not re-united until the year 1850.

It has been impossible to trace a complete list of the earlier Organists in some of the Cathedrals of the Old Foundation from the fact that, the duty being generally allotted to certain members of the Choral Staff in turn, a very imperfect record exists as to which of these members were in the habit of performing the same. For this reason it may happen that one or two of the earlier names given under these Cathedrals are not those of Organists, and that, on the other hand, some of those whose names should appear as such have been omitted. At certain Cathedrals other circumstances, of course, have precluded the possibility of tracing a complete succession of the Organists.

In the case of Bristol, for instance, a break of nearly a century (1639-1734) occurs. The Cathedral records corresponding to that period were destroyed when the library was burnt during the riots of 1831, and no information concerning the Organists there during that break has been discovered from any other source.

At Llandaff, also, there was no Organ or Choral Service from 1691 until 1851, and the existing record of Organists there previous to 1691 is very imperfect.

During the search for information at Wells two breaks were discovered in the records, one of them being significantly noted—"Per bella civilia." The period of the Civil Wars has, in fact, produced a hiatus in the musical records of many of our Cathedrals and Collegiate Churches, owing to the destruction of the organs and music books by the Parliamentary troops, and the suspension of the Choral Service consequent upon that turbulent period. In 1644, moreover, an Ordinance of Parliament was passed for the entire suppression of Organs and the Choral Service, thereby temporarily depriving Organists and members of the Choir of their appointments. This Ordinance continued in force until the Restoration, when the Choral Service was resumed and Organs were again allowed.

Amongst other Cathedrals from which the information obtained has been somewhat incomplete are Lichfield and Southwell, the latter having no available record of past Organists earlier than 1718, with the exception of one solitary name which occurs at a pre-Reformation period. On the other hand, the lists of Bangor, Durham, Dublin (Christ Church and St. Patrick's Cathedrals), Exeter, Gloucester, Hereford, Norwich, Oxford (Christ Church), Peterborough, Rochester, St. Paul's, Salisbury, Worcester, and King's and Trinity Colleges at Cambridge, will be found nearly complete from a comparatively early date; whilst those of Chester, Ely, Lincoln, Westminster Abbey, the Chapel

Royal, St. George's Chapel at Windsor, and Magdalen College at Oxford may almost be regarded as giving an unbroken succession from about the time of the Reformation.

In the case of the recently established Cathedrals which were previously parish churches, with no endowed musical foundation—viz., Liverpool, Newcastle, St. Alban's, Southwark (St. Saviour's), Truro, and Wakefield, it has not been considered necessary to include the names of the parochial Organists who held office before the establishment of the See.

The biographical notes given under the names of the various Organists refer principally to their appointments and work as church musicians, and are not intended as a complete and exhaustive outline of their musical careers. Consequently, the matter devoted to well-known Organists, whose names are to be found in most of the musical biographies, will often appear to be short in proportion to that given under less distinguished names, much of which is recorded for the first time.

Several anecdotes, interesting extracts from Chapter books, &c. are included, many of which have never before been published.

Very little is mentioned concerning Organs, the subject being an extensive and peculiar one, and almost beyond the scope of the present book.

I desire to tender my grateful acknowledgments to the following who have kindly rendered me much valuable assistance in the compilation of this work :—

Professor Philip Armes, M.A., Mus.D., Organist of Durham Cathedral.

A. W. Wilson, Esq., B.A., Mus.D., Organist of St. Asaph Cathedral.
D. J. Wood, Esq., Mus.D., Organist of Exeter Cathedral.

The following, now deceased, also afforded me their kind help:—
John Naylor, Esq., Mus.D., Organist of York Minster.
J. M. W. Young, Esq., Organist of Lincoln Cathedral.

I cannot conclude these introductory remarks without expressing my deep sense of gratitude to my friend, Mr. John S. Bumpus, for the ungrudging manner in which he has given me the benefit of his long experience in matters relating to the history of Cathedral music, and, moreover, for so readily and constantly placing at my disposal his most interesting and valuable library. The sound advice, voluminous information, and kind encouragement which he has given me throughout the preparation of this work have enabled me to accomplish that which might otherwise have been an impossible task.

My special thanks are also due to Mr. F. G. Edwards, the Rev. H. O. Mackey, and Dr. A. H. Mann, for having read the proofs and for having offered several valuable suggestions.

PREFACE TO THE REVISED AND ENLARGED EDITION

So many new appointments have taken place in the office of Organist at the Cathedrals and Collegiate Churches of the United Kingdom during the past twenty years, that it now seems fully necessary to issue a new edition of this book, bringing the chronological record up to the present time.

The issue of this new edition has also afforded an opportunity, not only for the correction or modification of certain details in the earlier matter, but also for the addition of new material of interest which more recent research has brought to light—especially that of further quotations from the Chapter books and other official records.

The names of several past organists are now included which were missing in the first edition; on the other hand, the names of one or two previously given, also certain appointments which were supposed to have been held by one or two others, have now been omitted, evidence from the records having more recently proved either insufficient or too contradictory to justify their retention.

A more thorough investigation of the Chapter books at Bristol and St. Asaph has necessitated some little modification of the material formerly given regarding these two Cathedrals. At Bristol the records which were supposed to have been destroyed during the Riots of 1831 have since been discovered, thereby supplying an almost complete succession of organists from the Reformation until the present day. Some revision has also been found necessary in the list of earlier organists of Worcester, as a result of the exhaustive investigations of Sir Ivor Atkins, published a few years ago under the title of "Early Occupants of the Office of Organist of the Cathedral Church of Worcester." From this interesting work the author has generously allowed me to quote at pleasure.

Since the publication of the first edition four new Ecclesiastical Sees have been established—Birmingham, in 1905; Chelmsford, in 1914; Coventry, in 1918; and Sheffield, in 1914. The Cathedral churches of these four Sees are therefore now included, with the names of their Organists who have held office since their attainment to Cathedral rank. At present, however, they possess no endowed musical foundation.

To the list of Irish Cathedrals has now been added that of Limerick, which possessed a Choral Foundation from pre-Reformation times to the year of the Disestablishment of the Church of Ireland.

For assistance in the preparation of this new edition I am much indebted to the following gentlemen, some of whom also rendered me kind help in connection with the first publication of the work :—

Dr. W. G. Alcock, M.V.O., Organist of Salisbury Cathedral.
Arthur Baynon, Esq., sometime Organist of St. Michael's College, Tenbury.
Rev. E. Bradley, M.A., Priest-Vicar and Sacrist of Lichfield Cathedral.
Professor J. C. Bridge, M.A., Mus.D., F.S.A., Durham Professor of Music and Organist of Chester Cathedral.
Rev. C. G. Brown, B.A., Canon Residentiary of St. David's Cathedral.
Dr. Ernest Bullock, Organist of Exeter Cathedral.
The Chapter Clerk of Exeter Cathedral.
Dr. E. M. Chaundy, M.A., Organist of Armagh Cathedral.
R. H. P. Coleman, Esq., Mus.B., Organist of Peterborough Cathedral.
E. T. Cook, Esq., Mus.B., F.R.C.O., Organist of Southwark Cathedral.
F. J. W. Crowe, Esq., F.R.A.S., F.R.Hist.Soc., sometime Organist of Chichester Cathedral.
Rev. J. N. Dalton, K.C.V.O., M.A., &c., Canon of St. George's Chapel, Windsor.
Rev. T. H. Davis, B.A., Mus.D., Canon Residentiary, Precentor, and Organist of Wells Cathedral.
W. F. Dunnill, Esq., F.R.C.O., Organist of Birmingham Cathedral.
William Ellis, Esq., Mus.B., Organist of Newcastle Cathedral.
Dr. E. H. Fellowes, M.A., Precentor of St. George's Chapel, Windsor.
F. R. Frye, Esq., Mus.B., Organist of Chelmsford Cathedral.
The Very Rev. Henry Gee, D.D., Dean of Gloucester.
W. H. Goss-Custard, Esq., Mus.B., Organist of the Lady Chapel, Liverpool Cathedral.
Dr. W. H. Grattan-Flood, K.S.G.
Dr. T. W. Hanforth, Organist of Sheffield Cathedral.
Dr. W. H. Harris, Organist of New College, Oxford.
Dr. G. H. P. Hewson, Organist of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin.
Walter Hoyle, Esq., F.R.C.O., Organist of Coventry Cathedral.
P. C. Hull, Esq., F.R.C.O., Organist of Hereford Cathedral.
H. W. Hunt, Esq., Organist of Bristol Cathedral.
*Dr. Haydn Keeton, Organist of Peterborough Cathedral.

Edwin Stephenson, Esq., sometime Organist of Birmingham Cathedral.

Dr. H. C. Stewart, M.A., Organist of Magdalen College, Oxford.

H. C L. Stocks, Esq., Organist of St. Asaph Cathedral.

H. W. Tupper, Esq., Organist of Southwell Cathedral.

Dr. F. W. Wadely, M.A., Organist of Carlisle Cathedral.

T. H. Weaving, Esq., Organist of Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin.

Rev. H. F. Westlake, M.A., M.V.O., F.S.A., Minor Canon and Custodian of the Chapter Records, Westminster Abbey.

Rev. Christopher Wordsworth, M.A., Canon and Chancellor of Salisbury Cathedral.

My sincere thanks are particularly due to that indefatigable antiquary, Dr. W. H. Grattan-Flood, for his kindness in supplying me, not only with the list of Organists of Limerick Cathedral, but with much interesting and valuable information concerning the earlier organists at many other Cathedrals, also for his generous assistance in reading the proofs of this edition.

(See under Hereford.)
JOHN JONES, Mus.D., Dub., 1808	1797	1816
Born 1767. Pupil of Dr. Arnold. Vicar Choral of Armagh Cathedral, 1796; Organist, ditto, 1797. Resigned 1816. Died 1820.

* These blank spaces, which occur from time to time throughout the book, indicate either the period of the suppression of Organs during the Commonwealth or a break in the succession of Organists.

FREDERICK WILLIAM HORNCASTLE 1816 1823

Born in London, 1790 (?). Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Organist successively of Stamford Hill Chapel, Berkeley Chapel, London, and Armagh Cathedral.

Dismissed in 1823. Appointed a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, 1826. Died 1850.

Composer of a Mass, Glees, Songs, Pianoforte pieces, &c. In 1828 Horncastle collaborated with T. Cooke, Stansbury, Parry, Clifton, and Taylor, in a work entitled "The Passions" for the Melodists' Club.

ROBERT TURLE 1823 1872

Younger brother of James Turle, Organist of Westminster Abbey. Born at Taunton, 1804. Appointed Organist of Armagh Cathedral, in succession to F. W. Horncastle. Retired on a pension, 1872. Died at Salisbury, 1877. Composer of Church Music. Two Double Chants by him are still in use.

THOMAS OSBORNE MARKS, Mus.B., Oxon., 1870; Mus.D., Dub., 1874 ... ... 1872 1916

Brother of Dr. J. C. Marks, Organist of Cork Cathedral. Born at Armagh, 1845. Chorister in the Cathedral and afterwards pupil of Robert Turle and Assistant-Organist. Appointed Organist on Turle's resignation. Conductor of the Armagh Philharmonic Society. Died September 11, 1916. Composer of Church Music, Organ pieces, Part-songs, Songs, &c.

GEORGE HENRY PHILLIPS HEWSON, B.A., Mus.D., Dub. 1917 1920

(See under St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin.)

EDRED MARTIN CHAUNDY, M.A., Mus.D., Oxon., 1908 ... ... 1920 ——

Born at Oxford, 1871. Pupil of Dr. C. H. Lloyd and Dr. Plumridge at Oxford.

Organist of Christ Church, Streatham Hill, 1892; Parish Church, Enniskillen, 1895; Pershore Abbey, 1898; Holy Trinity, Stroud, 1899; St. George's, Kidderminster, 1901; St. Mark's, Strandtown, 1905; St. George's, Belfast, 1913; The Abbey, Bangor (Ireland), 1919; and Armagh Cathedral, 1920.

Composer of Church Music, Organ pieces, Chamber Music, &c.

BANGOR.

From the following it appears that there must have been an Organist at Bangor Cathedral as early as 1360, if not before:—

The celebrated Bard, Dafydd ab Gwilym, who wrote in the fourteenth century, makes particular mention of an organ and choir at Bangor in his time, in a commendatory Ode addressed to Hywel, Dean of Bangor. The Ode, which was in Welsh, has the following: "Whose organ, and harmonious choir, are unrivalled in performance." Hywel was made Dean of Bangor in 1359 and Bishop in 1370. This Ode, therefore, must have been written between 1359 and 1370, and the allusion to an organ renders it obvious there must have been an Organist at that time.*

THOMAS BOLTON ... ... —— 1644

Died January 1, 1644. Buried in the Cathedral.

* I am indebted for this, and for much of the information regarding the organists of Bangor Cathedral, to Mr. T. Westlake Morgan, Organist from 1892 to 1906.

A VICAR CHORAL (name unknown) was Organist 1689 1691

Chapter order, October, 1689:—"That Hugh Johnson be one of the singing-men in the choir of the said Cathedral while a Vicar Choral is Organist there and no longer, and that he have a salary of eight pounds per annum payed him during the said time out of the tithe of Llandinam, in the County of Montgomery, pursuant to a late Act of Parliament in that behalf made and provided." *

THOMAS ROBERTS 1691 1705

Born about 1658. Appointed Organist of Bangor Cathedral at a salary of £14.

From his tombstone, once in the North Transept of the Cathedral, it appears that he was the first "Endowed" Organist since the Restoration, the Organists of Bangor having been paid, from that time down to the present, from the tithes of Llandinam, Montgomeryshire, before mentioned. The following was the inscription on his tombstone:—"Here lies in the hope of a joyful Resurrection the body of Thomas Roberts, the first Endowed Organist of this Cathedral since the Restauration, who died on the 18th of May, in the year of our Lord, 1705, and the 48th year of his age."

Christian names Unknown.

(NATHANIEL?) PRIEST 1705 1708

Was nominated for the post by Mr. Hall, Organist of Hereford. In the event of his giving satisfaction and improving the singing at the end of a twelvemonth he was to receive a gratuity of £5 "to reward and encourage his diligence."

Probably the composer of a Service in F, in the books of Canterbury, Oxford, and elsewhere.

(See also under Bristol.)

—— SMITH 1708 1710

—— FERRER 1710 1712

JOHN RATHBONE 1713 1721

Elected in 1713, but drew his salary from August, 1712.

THOMAS RATHBONE 1721 1750

Son of the foregoing.

THOMAS LLOYD 1750 1778

RICHARD JARRED (or GERARD) 1778 1782

The record of his appointment says Jarred; but in 1779 he was paid as R. Gerard. He was probably a relation of the Gerards at St. Asaph Cathedral. He is buried in the Cathedral Yard.

WILLIAM SHRUBSOLE 1782 1784

Born at Canterbury, 1760. Chorister in Canterbury Cathedral. Organist of Bangor Cathedral, 1782. Dismissed in 1784 for "frequenting Conventicles." Appointed the same year Organist of Spa Fields Chapel, Clerkenwell, London. Died in London, January 18, 1806. Buried in Bunhill Fields, Finsbury. Composer of the tune "Miles Lane," which is generally associated with Perronet's Hymn "All hail the power of Jesu's Name."

The first strain of this tune was cut upon his tombstone, in 1892, when it was restored, at the instigation of the late F. G. Edwards, who collected subscriptions for that purpose.

* The Act of King James (1685) for the maintenance of the Bangor Choir and the repair of the Cathedral Church.

Within a month of his appointment at Bangor, he performed his duties in a manner so satisfactory and promising that the Chapter thought proper for his encouragement to allow him £8 8s. towards the expense of his journey and the removal of his harpsichord and other effects from London to Bangor.

EDMUND OLIVE 1784 1793

Afterwards Organist of the Parish Church, Warrington. Died at Warrington, November 18, 1824. Compiler of "Sixteen Psalm tunes, adapted for three voices."

During his appointment at Bangor, Olive was allowed £4 a year extra for keeping the organ in tune.

JOSEPH PRING, Mus.D., Oxon., 1808 ... ... 1793 1842

He was not formally appointed Organist until September 28, 1810, although he had acted since 1793 in place of his relative, Edmund Olive, who had resigned in his favour.

In Dr. W. Hayes's Collection of Anthems (1795) Joseph Pring's name appears amongst the subscribers as "Organist of Bangor Cathedral and Beaumaris."

Born at Kensington, 1776. Chorister in St. Paul's Cathedral. Organist of Bangor Cathedral, 1793. From 1813 to 1819 engaged (together with three of the Vicars Choral) in litigation with the capitular body for the recovery of certain of the tithes belonging to the maintenance of the Cathedral Choir, which had become misappropriated by the Chapter. The suit was heard by Lord Eldon, the eminent Chancellor, whose language is said to have often been more forcible than polite. It was only partially successful, and resulted in a much smaller increase of salary to the musical staff than they were entitled to, under a strict interpretation of the Act.*

Died February 13, 1842. Buried in the Cathedral Yard, Bangor. Composer of Church Music, Songs, &c. Compiler of "A Collection of Anthems used in Bangor Cathedral." Author of a booklet on the opening, construction, &c., of the Menai Suspension Bridge; also of a volume of the proceedings connected with the lawsuit mentioned above.

EPITAPH ON DR. JOSEPH PRING.

Ah! gifted man! his death we all deplore,
The favourite son of Nature, and of Art;
High was his calling, genuine his lore,
With such a genius we felt loth to part.

Dim are the eyes of relatives and friends,
As on the Bangor Choir affection doats;
Delusive fancy from the organ swells
Still to the sorrowing ear his requiem notes!

His master music in the Church below
Is hushed for ever!—Still we hope he plays
Immortal anthems; where the sounds of woe
Shall never damp the sweetness of his lays.

(E. THOMAS, Clynnog.)

[Translated from the Welsh of R. Williams.]

The last stanza only, in Welsh and English, is engraved on Pring's tombstone in the Cathedral Yard. The whole was printed in Welsh and English at the time of Dr. Pring's death, on a black bordered leaflet.†

Dr. Pring was created a Welsh "Pencerdd" in Bardic circles, and he even became acquainted with the vernacular itself.

* It is said that this lawsuit so impoverished Dr. Pring that he and his family were for some time in great need, and could only obtain their necessary sustenance on credit.

† A copy of this, once in the possession of Mr. J. S. Bumpus, was given to Miss Hackett, in 1842, by J. S. Pring, the Doctor's son and successor.

JAMES SHARPE PRING 1842 1868

Son of the foregoing. Born about 1811. Chorister in Bangor Cathedral, and afterwards Assistant-Organist to his father. Organist, 1842, the appointment, however, being made from year to year, probably owing to the alarm of the Dean and Chapter at Dr. Pring's spirited lawsuit. Died June 3, 1868, aged 57. Buried in Glanadda Cemetery, Bangor. Some Chants by him are to be found in Warren's Collection.

He was musical editor of the "Bangor Collection" of Anthems, adapted from various composers (1848). The English words were fitted to the music chiefly by the Very Rev. James Henry Cotton, Dean of Bangor, and formerly Precentor.

Mr. T. Westlake Morgan kindly supplied me with the two following anecdotes of J. S. Pring:—

(a) When the See of Manchester was founded in 1847 and Bishop Lee was consecrated its first Bishop, Mr. Pring, meeting his attached friend, Dean Cotton, in Bangor one day, alluded to the appointment, and remarked: "I say, Mr. Dean, they ought to have made you Bishop of Manchester." "Why, Mr. Pring?" inquired the Dean. "Because Cottonopolis would then have had a Cotton Bishop," was the Organist's reply.

(b) Mr. J. S. Pring suffered some considerable inconvenience on account of his obesity. A story is told of him in connection with a Choral Festival in Bangor Cathedral. He was presiding at the organ (then on the screen), and Owain Alaw (Mr. John Owen, of Chester) was wielding the baton. Coming out of the Cathedral, Mr. Pring, overcome by the Conductor's somewhat rapid "tempi," walked slowly up the incline towards the iron railings which bounded the Precincts; feeling fatigued, he seized hold of the bars of the gateway with both hands, and, steadying himself, rested awhile. Owain Alaw, on coming up, inquired what he was doing. Mr. Pring, with characteristic humour, replied that he was taking "a bar's rest."

ROBERT ROBERTS 1868 1871

Born in St. Anne's Parish, Llandegai, near Bangor, May 24, 1840. Chorister in St. Anne's Church. Pupil of H. S. Hayden (Organist of St. Mary's, Carnarvon, and son of William Hayden, Deputy-Organist of St. Asaph Cathedral). Student of the North Wales College for Schoolmasters, Carnarvon, where he became successively Third Master, Third Master and Music Master, and Music Master only. Assistant-Organist of Bangor Cathedral, 1866; Organist, 1868 (appointed probationally by the year. Died of pleurisy, February 9, 1871. Buried in Glanadda Cemetery, Bangor. Composer of a Welsh Funeral Service, Cantata, "The Siege of Harlech Castle," Part-songs, &c.

A window was erected to his memory, and that of the Principal's two children, in the North Wales Training College Chapel at Carnarvon (now removed to Bangor). He was much beloved and respected, and his death, at the age of thirty, was greatly deplored. At the funeral service, held in the Cathedral, Spohr's "Blest are the departed" was sung, when one of the choristers, William Jones (a great favourite of the deceased Organist), became so affected during the singing of one of the solo portions that he completely broke down, and sobbed aloud.

ROLAND ROGERS, Mus.D., Oxon., 1875 ... ... 1871 1892

Born at West Bromwich, 1847. Organist of St. Peter's, West Bromwich, 1858; St. John's, Wolverhampton, 1862; Tettenhall Parish Church, 1867; and Bangor Cathedral, 1871. Resigned the latter post, 1892, and became Organist of St. James's, Bangor, and Lecturer in Music at the University College of North Wales. Reappointed Organist of the Cathedral, 1906. Composer of Cantatas, "Prayer and Praise," "Florabel," and "The Garden," Church Music, Part-songs, Organ pieces, &c.

TOM WESTLAKE MORGAN 1892 1906

Born at Congresbury, Somerset, 1869. Chorister in King's College, Cambridge, and afterwards Pupil-Assistant to Dr. Mann and Organist of St. Catharine's College. Student at the Royal College of Music. Organist of St. George's Church, Paris, 1889; St. John's, Wilton Road, London, 1890; St. David's, Merthyr Tydvil, 1891; and Bangor Cathedral, 1892. Appointed Examiner to the Welsh Section of the Incorporated Society of Musicians, 1894. Music Master of the North Wales Training College, Bangor, 1895-1897. Collected funds for, and superintended the building of, the large four-manual organ by Hill in the Cathedral, opened in 1897. Composer and editor of Church Music, &c.

ROLAND ROGERS, MUS.D., Oxon. ... ... 1906 ——
(Reappointed.)

BIRMINGHAM.

(ST. PHILIP'S CHURCH.)

SEE ESTABLISHED IN 1905.

ARTHUR ELMORE 1901 1906

Previously a pupil of C. W. Perkins, and Organist of St. Thomas in the Moors and St. Edward's, Birmingham. Left Birmingham and became Organist of the Parish Church, Acock's Green.

EDWIN STEPHENSON 1906 1914

Born at Windermere, 1871. Pupil of Dr. E. Brown of Barrow-in-Furness, and afterwards of Sir Walter Parratt, Dr. C. H. Lloyd, and others at the Royal College of Music. Organist of the Priory Church, Cartmel, 1888; Sunningdale Parish Church, 1891; St. Michael's, Brighton, 1901; Brighton Parish Church, 1905; Birmingham Cathedral, 1906; St. Margaret's, Westminster, 1914.

WILLIAM FREDERICK DUNNILL, F.R.C.O., A.R.C.M. ... ... 1914 ——

Born at Wakefield, March 16, 1880. Deputy-Organist of Wakefield Cathedral, and pupil of J. N. Hardy, 1895-1898. Organ Scholar at the Royal College of Music 1898-1902, studying under Sir Walter Parratt, Sir Frederick Bridge, Dr. Charles Wood, and Dr. Walford Davies. Organist of Christ Church, Surbiton, 1900; St. Luke's, Bromley Common, 1901; Parish Church, Nottingham, 1903; and Birmingham Cathedral, 1914.

BRISTOL.

Much of the additional and amended information now given concerning the Bristol Organists is the result of a long and careful investigation of all the existing Records belonging to the Cathedral by Mr. H. W. Hunt, the present Organist, to whom I owe my grateful thanks. These Records include long-missing books recovered from the house of a late Chapter Clerk after his death, he himself having been unaware of their existence!

THOMAS SENNES 1542 1546
Master of the Choristers (Organist).
Appointed at the Reformation (according to the Statutes of Henry VIII.'s Foundation, dated June 4, 1542), at a Salary of £10 per annum. In these Statutes there is no mention of an Organist, but the Master of the Choristers is required to be skilful in "playing upon the organs."

HUMPHREY WALLEY 1546 1552
Master of the Choristers.

WALTER GLESON 1552 1562
Promoted from Lay Clerk to Clerk, 1547. Master of the Choristers (Organist), 1552. Chapter Clerk from 1556 for many years.
In 1559, PETER BASSETT (Minor Canon) and JOHN PALMER (Lay Clerk) shared the duties of the position, and in 1562 Gleson and Palmer each received payment for the same duties.
In 1563, 1564, and part of 1565, Palmer alone appears as the Organist, although for many years Gleson seems to have made himself useful, especially at Festivals.
JAMES PURVAGE (Lay Clerk) completed 1565. Payment is entered for the office in 1566-1569, but no name is mentioned, and in 1570, just before Farrant's appointment, RICHARD LINSEY (Lay Clerk) carried out the duties. None of these, however, received the full salary of the Organist. Gleson's name appears for the last time in the Computum of 1606.

JOHN FARRANT 1570 1571
(See under Ely.)

ANTHONY PRYNN 1571 1577

HUMPHREY BUSSELL 1578 1578
For nine months.

GILES PAINTER ... ... 1578 ——
Completed the year and continued in 1579.
The Records for 1580-1591 are missing.

ELWAY BEVIN .. ..(?)1589 1637
At the usual Salary of £10, with an augmentation of £3 6s. 8d.
Of Welsh descent. Pupil of Tallis. Vicar Choral of Wells Cathedral, 1575-1588, acting as Organist there, 1578-1588. Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, 1605. He was compelled to forfeit the latter appointment, and that at Bristol, upon its being discovered that he was a Roman Catholic. (Extract from the Bristol Chapter Minutes) "14 Feb., 1637. The said Dean and Chapter capitularly ordered and decreed that Elway Bevin be removed, expelled, and dismissed from his office of Organist and Master of the Choristers." Died 1639, aged 85. Composer of Church Music, &c. His Service in the Dorian Mode is still in use at many of the Cathedrals. Author of "A Briefe and Short Introduction to the Art of Music," dedicated to the Bishop of Gloucester, "unto whom" Bevin appears to have "been much bound for many favours" (1631). It is a quaint and interesting book, and a useful guide to the solution of the ingenious forms of Canon which were largely practised by composers of that time.

In 1614 the word "Organistæ" appears in the Records for the first time.

[EDWARD GIBBONS, Mus.B., is generally said to have been Organist, Minor Canon, and Precentor, but his name does not occur in any of the Chapter documents at Bristol.]

(See also under Exeter.)

ARTHUR PHILLIPS, Mus.B., Oxon.,[1640] 1638 1639

Born 1605. Clerk of New College, Oxford, 1622. Organist of Bristol Cathedral, 1638. Organist of Magdalen College, Oxford, and University Choragus, 1639. During the Rebellion he went abroad, and was Organist to Queen Henrietta Maria. He subsequently returned to England, where it is supposed that he died. Composer of "The Requiem; or, Liberty of an Imprisoned Royalist," "The Resurrection," &c.

THOMAS DEANE 1640 1668

He probably retained his appointment during the period of the Commonwealth.

In 1663 the organ standing in Gloucester Cathedral at the Restoration was sold to him for £65.

PAUL HEATH 1669 1682

Admonished by the Dean and Chapter in 1667, 1678, and 1682.

Chapter Minute of December 13, 1682:—

"It appearing to the Deane and Chapter that Paule Heath, Organist and Master of the Choristers, hath had severall admonitions for keeping a Disorderly Alehouse, Debauching the Choirmen and other disorders there, and neglecting the service of the Church and beeing now Credibly Informed that the said Paule Heath doth still keep ill-order in his house, and hath suffered one Rouch, a barber, to trime in his house on the Lord's Day, commonly called Sunday . . . . the said Deane and Chapter . . . . did . . . . order and Decree to remove, expell and dissmisse the said Paul Heath from his said office and place of Organist and Master of the Choristers."

In 1683 the usual salary is entered, but the Organist's name is not mentioned.

In 1684 appears "de stipendio Pauli Heath Organistæ et Magistro Choristarum ab antiqua debit £10 cum augmentatione et concessa . . . £22."

The same year DAVID EDWARDS is paid £2 as Assistant-Organist.

In 1685 and 1686 payments are mentioned, but no names.

JOSEPH GIBSON 1687 1701

STEPHEN JEFFERIES (Junr.) 1701 1710

Son of Stephen Jefferies, Organist of Gloucester Cathedral. Educated at King's School, Gloucester. Lay Clerk of Gloucester Cathedral, 1696. Admonished there in 1697 "for the neglect of his service in the Quire and his often repair to the Organ loft, and that for the future he refrain so to do without notice first given to Mr. Chanter."

Resigned his appointment at Gloucester in 1700, and became Organist of Bristol Cathedral.

NATHANIEL PRIEST 1711 1734

Probably the —— Priest mentioned as Organist of Bangor Cathedral, 1705-1708, and composer of a Service in F.
(See also under Bangor.)

JAMES MORLEY .. ..(?)1735 1756

Probably the Morley who filled the vacancy as Organist at Worcester Cathedral from September, 1734, to February, 1735. (See under Worcester.)
Buried in the Cathedral Precincts

GEORGE COMBES 1756 1759

Possibly the George Coombes who was Organist of Wimborne Minster in 1743. Reappointed at Bristol in 1765. Died 1769.
In the Burial Register he is mentioned as "the worthy Organist of this Church."

EDWARD HIGGINS 1759 1765

Appointed a Vicar Choral of Christ Church and St. Patrick's Cathedrals, Dublin, 1765. Buried in the North Transept of Bristol Cathedral, 1769. Probably the composer of a Chant in F which appears in several collections.

GEORGE COMBES (Reappointed) 1765 1769

EDWARD ROOKE 1769 1773

Lay Clerk in 1759. Buried in the North Transept.

SAMUEL MINEARD 1773 1777

RICHARD LANGDON, Mus.B., Oxon. 1778 1781

(See under Ely.)

RICE WASBROUGH 1781 1802

Buried in the South Aisle. Near his grave is a monument to him, his wife, and eldest son, John.

JOSEPH KEMP, Mus.D., Cantab., 1809 ... ... 1802 1807

Born at Exeter, 1778. Pupil of William Jackson. Appointed Organist of Bristol Cathedral, 1802. In 1803 he was presented by the Dean and Chapter with a Gold Medal "for his unremitting attention to the improvement of the Choir of this Church." Removed to London and became a teacher there. Died in London, 1824. Composer of an Oratorio, "The Crucifixion," Church Music, "Twenty Double Chants," Cantatas, Glees, &c.

JOHN WASBROUGH 1807 1825

Eldest son of Rice Wasbrough, above mentioned. Died 1825. Buried in the South Aisle. Composer of Church Music. There is a Chant by him in Warren's Collection.

JOHN DAVIS CORFE... ... ... 1825 1876

Son of A. T. Corfe, Organist of Salisbury, and brother of Dr. C. W. Corfe, Organist of Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford. Succeeded John Wasbrough as Organist of Bristol Cathedral, 1825. First Conductor of the Bristol Madrigal Society, 1837-1865. Died 1876. A memorial window to him was placed in the Cathedral by public subscription, October, 1877.

GEORGE RISELEY 1876 1898

Born at Bristol, August 28, 1845. Chorister in the Cathedral, 1852. Afterwards articled pupil to J. D. Corfe. Assistant-Organist of the Cathedral and Organist of various churches in and around Bristol. Organist of the Colston Hall, Bristol, 1870. Organist of the Cathedral, 1876. Resigned 1898. Conductor of the Colston Hall Concerts, and, since Sir Charles Hallé's death, of the Bristol Musical Festival. Conductor of the Bristol Royal Orpheus Glee Society, 1878. Conductor of the Bristol Society of Instrumentalists, 1887. Conductor of the Bristol Choral Society, 1889. For some time Professor of the Organ at the Royal Academy of Music, Conductor of the Queen's Hall Choral Society, and Musical Director of the Alexandra Palace, in London; resigning these appointments later.

PERCY CARTER BUCK, M.A., Mus.D., Oxon. ... 1899 1901

HUBERT WALTER HUNT ... ... 1901 —

Born at Windsor, July 12, 1865. Son of Thomas Hunt, for many years a Lay Clerk of St. George's Chapel, Windsor. Chorister in St. George's Chapel and pupil of Sir George Elvey and Sir Walter Parratt. Organist of Clewer Parish Church, 1883; Christ Church, Clapham, 1886; St. Jude's, South Kensington, 1887; and Bristol Cathedral, 1901. Conductor of the Bristol Madrigal Society, 1915. Editor of the "Male-Voice Chant Book." Mr. Hunt is also an excellent violinist, and has taken a prominent part in many chamber music performances in Bristol and elsewhere.

In 1907 a fine new four-manual organ, by Messrs. J. W. Walker & Sons, took the place of the inadequate instrument in use for some years previously.

CANTERBURY.

There is record of three early organists here:—JOHN STANYS (died 1420), Precentor—"et in suo tempore in ecclesiâ Christi organista": JOHN CRANBROKE (died 1449), Monk for forty-one years—"suisque temporibus organista fuit eximius": and THOMAS CHART (died 1499), "In musicis et organicis bene instructus."

WILLIAM SELBY 1540 1570

Organist and Master of the Choristers.

THOMAS BULL 1570 1580

Master of the Choristers.

MATTHEW GODWIN, Mus.B., Oxon. 1580 1584

(See under Exeter.)

ARTHUR COCK (or COCKE), Mus.B., Oxon. ... 1584 1590

(See under Exeter.)

GEORGE JUXON 1590 1599
Vicar Choral.

GEORGE MARSON (Minor Canon), Mus.B., Cantab., 1601 ... ... 1599 1631-32
His burial register reads thus:—"1631, Feb. 5, George Marson, once one of the Petticanons of this Churche, Master of the Choristers, and Organist alsoe of this Churche." Composer of Church Music. A Madrigal by George Marson is included in "The Triumphs of Oriana."

VALENTINE RÖTHER 1631-32 1640
"Organist in ye Queere."

THOMAS TUNSTALL ... ... 1640 ——
"Organist in ye Queere."

"In 1660, at the time of the Restoration, one pound (£1) was give to FRANCIS PLOMER as Organist of the Sermon House" (the last four words have been crossed out by a pen). Mr. J. M. Cowper, the late Curator of the Library, and a distinguished Canterbury antiquary, to whom I am indebted for much of the information concerning the Organists of Canterbury Cathedral down to the year 1700, was of opinion that Plomer's appointment was Cromwellian, and that he was dismissed with a gratuity of one pound sterling.

THOMAS GIBBES ... ... 1661 (?)1669
Possibly a son of Richard Gibbs, Organist of Norwich Cathedral.
According to the registers he was still Organist in 1664. There is no record of his resignation or death. He probably held the office until the appointment of Chomley, in 1669.

RICHARD CHOMLEY... ... ... 1669 1675
"In 1675, on December 9, Richard Chomley, the Organist, represented to the Chapter of the Cathedral that 'by reason of age and other infirmities' he was willing to surrender his place, and to remove to London or elsewhere. Thereupon it was agreed to pay him the next quarter's wages, to bestow upon him ten pounds towards his expense of removing, and to allow him a pension of twenty-five shillings a year, to be paid quarterly. The salary attached to the office was then forty pounds a year." *

ROBERT WREN 1675 1691
Probably a son of Charles Wren, Organist of Rochester Cathedral.
"On the same day, December 9. 1675, the Chapter elected Robert Wren, 'a member of this Church,' as Chomley's successor. At the time of his election, Wren was one of the Lay Clerks of the Cathedral." † Died 1691 Buried in the Cloisters.

* Article by Mr. J. M. Cowper in the Canterbury Press. † Ibid.

NICHOLAS WOOTTON 1692 1698

Admitted Organist and Lay Clerk, December 1, 1692.

In April, 1698, he was summoned to appear before the Chapter "to answer to such matters as shall then be objected to him." Wootton seems to have failed to comply with this order, as on June 27 it was resolved that "forasmuch as Nicholas Wootton, Organist of this Church, hath left and deserted that place," and for other misdemeanours, "he be removed, and the place be void."

Died April 16, 1700. Buried in the North Aisle of the Cathedral.

DANIEL HENSTRIDGE 1699 1736

(Previously Organist of Rochester Cathedral, and also, possibly, of Gloucester Cathedral. The Daniel Henstridge at the latter Cathedral was more likely, however, to be the father of the above.) Appointed Organist on probation, December, 1698, one of the conditions being that he should take upon himself to teach not more than ten King's Scholars to sing "Tallis his Service"; another, that the new Organist "shall assist Porter* as far as he is capable in instructing him on the organ." Sworn and admitted Organist and Master of the Choristers, June, 1699. Died 1736. Buried in the Cathedral. The Organ parts to some of his compositions (including a Service in D) are still extant in MS. There are some Anthems by him in Croft's "Divine Harmony."

WILLIAM RAYLTON 1736 1757

Pupil of Dr. Croft. Appointed to Canterbury, 1736. Died 1757. Composer of Church Music. His Service in A is still sung at Canterbury, and a Service in E flat and one or two Anthems are in MS. in the Cathedral books. A setting of the opening Burial Sentences by him is to be found in Vincent Novello's Collection of Purcell's Sacred Music, Vol. IV., and was probably intended to precede the setting by Purcell, in the same key (C minor), of the remaining Sentences, which is contained in the same volume.†

SAMUEL PORTER 1757 1803

Born at Norwich, 1733. Chorister in St. Paul's Cathedral, and pupil of Dr. Greene. Organist of Canterbury Cathedral, 1757. Retired 1803. Died at Canterbury, December 11, 1810. Buried in the Cloisters of the Cathedral. A tablet erected there to his memory has recently been restored. A volume of Cathedral Music was prepared by him and published by his son, William James Porter. His Service in D is issued in octavo form by Messrs. Novello.

HIGHMORE SKEATS (Senr.) 1803 1831

Born 1760. Chorister in Exeter Cathedral. Vicar Choral of Salisbury Cathedral. Organist of Ely Cathedral, 1778-1803. Died at Canterbury, June 29, 1831. Buried in St. Martin's Churchyard.

His son (Highmore Skeats, Junr.) succeeded him at Ely, and was subsequently Organist of St. George's Chapel, Windsor.

* This could not be the Samuel Porter mentioned as Organist of Canterbury, 1757-1804.

† It should be remembered that Purcell's familiar music to "Thou knowest, Lord, the secrets of our hearts," is another setting of the Burial Sentence commencing with those words, and was written as a Funeral Anthem for Queen Mary. Dr. Croft was afterwards so impressed with its beauty that he incorporated it into his setting of the Burial Sentences in preference to attempting to set the same words himself.

No one can deny the deep feeling and solemn simplicity of the now familiar Croft and Purcell Sentences; but there are some really beautiful and characteristic touches in Purcell's lesser known and more elaborate settings in C minor (commencing at "Man that is born of a woman"), and they deserve, in conjunction with the opening Sentences by Raylton in the same key, a more frequent hearing.

Composer of Church Music (including a Complete Morning and Evening Service in C, in triple time throughout), Glees, Songs, &c. Editor of Dr. J. Stephens's* Cathedral Music and of a Collection of Songs.

His Anthem, "The righteous souls that take their flight," is included in a Collection of Short Anthems by Dr. Longhurst, and has been sung at the burial of several of the Canons, &c., of Canterbury.

In 1825 (or 1826) James Longhurst, father of Dr. W. H. Longhurst, added "German pedals" to the old organ, then standing on the Rood Screen, and supplied the instrument with seven 16-ft. pedal pipes.† These "German pedals" were supposed to have been the first examples of their kind introduced into Kent. Skeats, then Organist, had a great aversion to them, and would not use them. When anybody wished to hear the pedal pipes he would call his pupil, Jones, saying: "Here, Jones, come and show these things off, I never learned to dance."

THOMAS EVANCE JONES 1831 1872

Born 1805. Chorister in Canterbury Cathedral. Pupil of Skeats. Lay Clerk of Canterbury Cathedral, 1822; Master of the Choristers, ditto, 1830. Succeeded Skeats as Organist, 1831. Died at Canterbury, 1872. Buried in St. Martin's Churchyard. Composer of Church Music. Only one Anthem by him was published—"Unto Him that loved us."

WILLIAM HENRY LONGHURST, Mus.D., Cantuar, 1875
F.R.C.O. 1873 1898

Born at Lambeth, 1819. Chorister in Canterbury Cathedral (under Skeats). Pupil of Stephen Elvey and T. E. Jones. Lay Clerk and Assistant-Organist of Canterbury Cathedral, 1836. Was offered the post of Organist of Carlisle Cathedral, 1842, but declined it. Succeeded Jones as Organist and Master of the Choristers, 1873. Created Mus.D. by the Archbishop of Canterbury, 1875. Retired from post of Organist of Canterbury Cathedral, 1898, after a period of no less than seventy years of active musical service there. Died June 17, 1904. Buried in Harbledown Churchyard. Composer of Church Music, Organ pieces, Violin pieces, a Cantata for Female-voices, "The Village Fair," and a MS. Oratorio, "David and Absalom."

Dr. Longhurst used to relate the following anecdote concerning himself and one of the Cathedral vergers:—"Some few years ago, a certain Canon of the Cathedral sent one of the vergers to me while I was playing the opening voluntary, with a message to inform me that, as there was only one Minor Canon present that (Sunday) morning, he (the Canon) would chant the Litany. "And," said the verger, "would you give him the note?" "Certainly," I replied. To my surprise the verger still lingered on the steps. "All right, A——," I said. He still remained stationary, and at length made the innocent inquiry: "Please, sir, shall I wait for it?"

This was the same verger who, when describing the new organ to some visitors, pointed upwards and told them that "the new hargin was put hup in the Trifolium"; that "the connection between the console and the hargin was done by helectrics"; and "the whole thing was set in motion by hydraulic water!"—From "Reminiscences" [No. 3, by Dr. W. H. Longhurst], recorded in the Monthly Journal of the Incorporated Society of Musicians.

* See sub voce Salisbury.

† At the time of the completion of these large open wood pipes, Dr. Longhurst was a small boy, six or seven years old. Later in life he distinctly remembered being made to crawl into one or two of the largest of the pipes and therein sing a little song. It is not every Cathedral Organist who could say that he had sung a song in one of his own organ pipes!

HARRY CRANE PERRIN, Mus.B., Dub., 1890; F.R.C.O. 1898 1908

Born at Wellingborough, 1865. Pupil of Sir Robert Stewart. Organist of St. Columba's College, Rathfarnham, 1886; St. John's, Lowestoft, 1888. Conductor of Lowestoft Choral Society. Organist of St. Michael's, Coventry, 1892. Conductor of Coventry Musical Society. Choir Inspector and Conductor to Church Choral Association for the Archdeaconry of Coventry. Organist and Master of the Choristers, Canterbury Cathedral, 1898. Resigned 1908, on his appointment as Professor of Music to the McGill University, Montreal. Composer of Church Music, Songs, Pianoforte Music, &c.

SYDNEY HUGO NICHOLSON, M.A., Mus.B., Oxon.

Appointed Organist in 1908, but did not take up duty.

(See also under Westminster Abbey.)

CLEMENT CHARLTON PALMER, Mus.D., Oxon., 1896 1908 ——

Born at Barton-under-Needwood, Staffs, April 26, 1871. Student of the Derby School of Music. Organist of St. Leonard's, Wichnor, 1887, and St. Andrew's, Pau, France, 1888. Assistant-Organist of Lichfield Cathedral, 1890-1897. Organist of Holy Trinity Burton-on-Trent, 1891; Ludlow Parish Church, 1897; Canterbury Cathedral, 1908. Conductor of the Canterbury Cathedral Musical Society. Composer of a Ballad, "Casabianca," for chorus and orchestra, Church Music, Organ pieces, &c.

CARLISLE.

THOMAS SOWTHICK ... ... —— 1587

ROBERT JAMES ... ... 1587 ——

Had previously assisted Thomas Sowthick in "plaing of the orgins."

JAMES PEARSON ... ...

Mentioned in the records from 1610 to 1627.

ROBERT DALTON ... ...

Mentioned in the records at intervals from 1630 to 1644.

JOHN HOWE (Petty Canon and Organist) ... 1665 1693

Admonished by the Dean and Chapter in 1692 for neglect of duty. A certain John Howe was Mayor of Carlisle in 1683.

TIMOTHY HOWE (Petty Canon and Organist) ... 1693 1734

Son of the preceding.

ABRAHAM DOBINSON 1734 1749

CHARLES PICK 1749 1781

THOMAS GREATOREX 1781 1784

Son of Anthony Greatorex, Riber Hall, Matlock. Born at North Wingfield, Derbyshire, 1758. Pupil of Dr. B. Cooke. Lived for some time with his patron, the Earl of Sandwich, at Hinchinbrook House, near Huntingdon. Organist of Carlisle Cathedral, 1781. Resigned, 1784, and lived at Newcastle. Afterwards travelled in Italy. On his return to England was appointed Conductor of the Concerts of Ancient Music, in succession to Joah Bates; and, in 1819, Organist of Westminster Abbey. For some years Conductor of the Birmingham and York Festivals. He was also an eminent Mathematician and Astronomer. Fellow of the Royal and Linnæan Societies. Died 1831. Buried in the West Cloister, Westminster Abbey.

At the time of his death (July, 1831), Westminster Abbey was being prepared for the Coronation of William IV.; but, out of respect for Greatorex's memory, the Dean caused the coverings placed over the organ to be temporarily removed. George IV., when Prince Regent, once said to Greatorex: "My Father is Rex, but you are a Greater Rex."

THOMAS HILL 1785 1833

"Mr. Thomas Hill, the Organist, was reprimanded for Tipling and frequenting the Cockpit." (Chapter Minutes, June, 1817.)

There is a Chant by him in Bennett and Marshall's Collection, 1829.

RICHARD INGHAM 1833 1841

Born 1804. Organist of St. Mary's, Gateshead, and subsequently (1833) of Carlisle Cathedral. Composer of Vocal Music, &c.

JAMES STIMPSON 1841 1842

Born at Lincoln, 1820. Chorister in Durham Cathedral. Articled pupil of Ingham, at Carlisle. Organist of St. Andrew's, Newcastle on-Tyne, 1836; Organist of Carlisle Cathedral, 1841. Subsequently Organist of Birmingham Town Hall, and Organist and Chorus-master of Birmingham Festival. Trained the chorus for the production of Mendelssohn's "Elijah," in 1846. For many years Professor of Music at the Birmingham Blind Institution. Died at Birmingham, 1886. Composer of Songs, Pianoforte pieces, &c. Author of a "Manual of the Theory of Music." Editor of Church and Organ Music, &c.

HENRY EDMUND FORD, Mus.D., Cantuar., 1891 ... 1842 1909

Born at Warlingham, Surrey, August 6, 1821. Chorister in Rochester Cathedral and Assistant-Organist there, under R. Banks, also for some time Organist of Gillingham Parish Church. Organist of Carlisle Cathedral, 1842. Dr. Ford was Organist of Carlisle Cathedral for the long period of sixty-seven years. Created Mus.D. by the Archbishop of Canterbury, 1891. On the attainment of his Jubilee as Organist of the Cathedral, 1892, he was presented with a testimonial at the County Hotel, Carlisle. He retired from active duty as Organist in 1902, and died November 3, 1909. Buried in Carlisle Cemetery.

The specification of a new organ for the Cathedral, by Willis, was drawn up by Dr. Ford and his friend, W. T. Best, who was a native of Carlisle.

E. G. MERCER (Acting-Organist) 1903 1904

Previously Organist of St. Michael's, Chester Square, London. Now Assistant Music Master at Harrow School. Served with distinction in the Great War, and is now Colonel of the Harrow School Corps.

SYDNEY HUGO NICHOLSON, M.A., Mus.B., Oxon.
(Acting-Organist) 1904 1908
(See also under Westminster Abbey.)

The present four-manual organ, a reconstruction and enlargement by Messrs. Harrison & Harrison of the previous instrument, was designed and completed during Mr. Nicholson's Organistship, and under his direction.

THEODORE WALROND, M.A., Oxon., F.R.C.O.
(Acting-Organist) 1909 1910

Born at Glasgow, December 5, 1872. Pupil of Edwin Edwards and Basil Johnson at Rugby School, and of Dr. Harwood, at Oxford. Music Master at Giggleswick School, 1899. Organist of St. Cuthbert's, Carlisle, and Assistant-Organist of the Cathedral, 1906. Organist of Carlisle Cathedral, 1909. Resigned 1910.

FREDERICK WILLIAM WADELY, M.A., Cantab., 1907:
Mus.D., Cantab., 1915 ... ... 1910 ——

Born at Kidderminster, 1882, and received his early musical training from his father. Organist of Wolverly Parish Church, 1895. Organ Scholar of Selwyn College, Cambridge, and Stewart of Rannoch Scholar, 1900-1903. Pupil of Sir Charles Stanford, Sir Walter Parratt, and Dr. Charles Wood at the Royal College of Music and at Cambridge. Organist of St. Andrew's, Uxbridge, 1903; Malvern Priory Church, 1904; Carlisle Cathedral, 1910. Conductor of the Carlisle Symphony Concerts and the Carlisle Musical Society. Composer of two Concert Overtures, a set of Symphonic Variations, various pieces for Chorus and Orchestra, Songs with orchestral accompaniment, Church Music, Organ pieces, Part-songs, &c.

CHELMSFORD,

(ST. MARY'S PARISH CHURCH.)

SEE ESTABLISHED IN 1914.

FREDERICK ROBERT FRYE, Mus.B., Cantab., 1887:
F.R.C.O. ... ... 1876 ——

Born at Brooke, Kent, in 1851. Pupil of A. Legge, Drs. E. H. Turpin, James Higgs, and F. E. Gladstone, and F. Davenport. Organist of New Romney Parish Church, 1870; Chelmsford Parish Church (now the Cathedral), 1876. Conductor of Chelmsford Association of Church Choirs and various Choral Societies. Composer of an Evening Service, Madrigal, Songs, Organ and Pianoforte pieces, &c.

CHESTER.

JOHN BYRCHELEY 1541 1550

He had been Schoolmaster in the Monastery before its suppression.

There are records in the Treasurer's Accounts of payments to him for playing and for mending the "organs." The name of John Byrchley appears as one of the composers in the Baldwin MS. at Buckingham Palace.

THOMAS BARNEYS (or BARNES) ... ... 1551 (?)1558

He was previously a Conduct, or Singing-man, in the Choir.

There are entries in the Treasurer's Accounts of several payments to him for repairs to his house.

RICHARD SAYWELL (or SEWELL) 1558 1567

Previously a Conduct. On White's appointment as Organist, Saywell reverted to his previous office of Conduct.

ROBERT WHITE (or WHYTE), B.A., Mus.B., Cantab., 1560 ... ... 1567 1570

White's name appears as Organist in June, 1567, the stipend being divided between him and Saywell. Several interesting entries concerning his musical services to the Mystery Plays held at Chester may be found in Dr. J. C. Bridge's interesting account of the Organists of Chester Cathedral (Chester Archæological Society's Journal, Vol. XIX.), to which I am indebted for much additional and amended information in the present edition.

(See also under Ely and Westminster Abbey.)

ROBERT STEVENSON, Mus.D., Oxon., 1596 ... 1570 1599

Supplicated for a degree at Oxford in 1583, stating that he had been thirty-three years a student. Was granted the degree of Mus.B. in 1587 and of Mus.D. in 1596. An Anthem, "When the Lord turned again," in the Library of Peterhouse, Cambridge, may have been his Degree exercise. In the Treasurer's Accounts are several entries of payments to him for copying music into the singing books.

THOMAS BATESON, Mus.B., Dub., 1612 ... ... 1599 1609

A distinguished Madrigal writer. Subsequently Organist of Trinity (now Christ Church) Cathedral, Dublin, where he took the degree of Mus.B , the first Musical Degree granted by that University. Died in Dublin, March 11, 1630. Some of his Church Music was published by the Musical Antiquarian Society in its "Anthems by Composers of the Madrigalian Era."

The Treasurer's Accounts at Chester Cathedral contain entries of payments to him for "ye new organ booke belonging to o'r Quier," and "for mending ye organs."

JOHN ALLEN, Mus.B., Oxon., 1612 ... ... 1609 1613

Previously a Chorister and a Conduct. He also received 6s. 8d. for attending to the clock.

He was required to compose a "Song," in seven parts, for his degree.

MICHAEL DONE 1613 1614
Previously a Chorister.

THOMAS JONES, Mus B. (?) 1614 1637
Previously a Chorister.
A document referring to the lease of a farm and tenements (&c.), quoted in the "Cheshire Sheaf," February 11, 1891, commences thus:—

> "This Indenture made the 7 Feb. 1625 [6] between William Trafford, of Bridge Trafford, co. Chester, gent., on the one part, and Thomas Johnes, of the city of Chester, Bachelor of Music, and Anne Johnes, now wife of the same Thomas Johnes on the other part (&c., &c.)."

The locale of his degree cannot be ascertained.

RICHARD NEWBOLD 1637 1643
The Accounts give several entries of payments to him for "teaching ye Choristers."

RANDALL (or RANDOLPH) JEWITT, Mus.B., Dub. 1643 (?)1644
(See under Winchester.)

PETER STRINGER 1661 1673
Born at Chester, October 30, 1617. Successively Chorister and Conduct; afterwards simultaneously Minor Canon, Precentor, Organist, and Treasurer. His name occurs several times in the Accounts in connection with the building of a new organ. Died 1673.
The words of some of his Anthems are included in Clifford's Collection.
He appears to have been Organist of Manchester Collegiate Church (now the Cathedral) for a short time in 1666, although his salary at Chester continued without a break.
The following curious extract from a letter of Dr. Henry Bridgman, Dean of Chester and Bishop of Sodor and Man (he was a Pluralist), illustrates the esteem in which Peter Stringer was held:—

> "Mr. Subdeane Bispham and > "Mr. Chanter Stringer.
> "There is an hon'ble Maid lately deceased at Mr. John Anderson's, being the Hope and Anchor in our Northgate St., within the City of Chester, viz.: The Lady Jane Montgomery, sister to the Right Hon'ble Hughe, Earle of Mount Alexander in the Kingdome of Ireland; who, being a great lover of the ceremonyes of our Church while shee lived, desired to bee buried in our Church when shee dyed. And since shee had the quire so much in her heart living, I adjudged it fitt to bury her in the heart of our quire now shee is dead, her Executors paying to the Cathedrall all customarye dues and justifyable fees which belong unto us. Now, by reason of the late distraction in this Kingdome and my frequent absences from this Church, my memory not well serving mee in every particular thereof, and the R't. Reverend John, Lord Bishop of Chester, having a great kindness for her family, as well as a great love unto Justice, desiring that shee may not bee imposed upon by any kind of exaction: You two being the most antient stagers now resident in this Church, I doe require you, upon virtue of your oathes formerly taken, y't you declare unto mee in writing what the former fees and customes have been in the like case; that as I may not impose upon such hon'ble persons, so neither prejudice our Successors in this Church"; &c., &c.
> "June ye 9th, 1673."

The two "antient stagers" duly replied, giving the required particulars, and not forgetting to add that "If the corps bee sung into the church and to the grave. the least that the Quiremen have usually had was forty shillings."*

JOHN STRINGER 1673 1686
(Son of the foregoing.) A Minor Canon. At the request of the Chapter he served also as Treasurer for a short time.

WILLIAM KAY (KEY, or KEYS) 1686 1699
A Minor Canon. Died 1699. (See also under Manchester and St. Asaph.)

JOHN MOUNTERRATT† 1699 1705

EDMUND WHITE 1705 1715
"Organist and teacher of the boys."
Entries in the Chapter Books unfortunately bear record of serious irregularities of conduct on his part, and he was dismissed April 9, 1715.

SAMUEL DAVIES 1715 1726
An entry in the Bishop's Visitation Book for 1716 describes him as "organista et magister puerorum"

BENJAMIN WORRALL 1726 1727
Previously a Conduct, to which appointment he reverted in 1727, and died in 1730.
He was probably a son (or some other relative) of the Rev. John Worrall, M.A., a Vicar Choral and Minor Canon of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, and afterwards successively Vicar Choral, Dean's Vicar, and Master of the Choristers of Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin.

EDMUND BAKER 1727 1764
A Conduct.
Pupil of Dr. Blow, and for some time Organist of St. Mary's, Shrewsbury, and Organist to the Corporation of that town. Died 1765. Buried in the South Choir Aisle of the Cathedral. One of his pupils at Chester was Charles Burney, afterwards Dr. Burney, the musical historian.
On May 21, 1737, he was admonished by the Dean and Chapter for refusing to sing in an Anthem at Evening Service when requested to do so by the Senior Prebendary.
Baker is mentioned in the following anecdote, related by Burney in his "Commemoration of Handel" (1785):—"When Handel went through Chester, in his way to Ireland, this year 1741, I was at the Public-School in that city, and very well remember seeing him smoke a pipe, over a dish of coffee, at the Exchange-Coffee-house; for being extremely curious to see so extraordinary a man, I watched him narrowly as long as he

* For this and much other interesting information concerning the Organists of Chester Cathedral, I am indebted to Dr. Joseph C. Bridge, M.A., the present Organist.
† In the first edition of this book the name was given as Demonticall. This now appears to have been a serious and inexplicable misquotation of the word from the Records on the part of a local antiquary. (See Dr. J. C. Bridge's account of the Organists of Chester Cathedral already referred to.)

remained in Chester; which, on account of the wind being unfavourable for his embarking at Parkgate, was several days. During this time, he applied to Mr. Baker, the organist, my first music-master, to know whether there were any choirmen in the cathedral who could sing at sight; as he wished to prove some books that had been hastily transcribed, by trying the choruses which he intended to perform in Ireland. Mr. Baker mentioned some of the most likely singers then in Chester, and, among the rest, a printer of the name of Janson,* who had a good base voice, and was one of the best musicians in the choir. At this time Harry Alcock, a good player, was the first violin at Chester, which was then a very musical place; for besides public performances, Mr. Prebendary Prescott had a weekly concert, at which he was able to muster eighteen or twenty performers, gentlemen, and professors. A time was fixed for this private rehearsal at the Golden Falcon, where Handel was quartered; but, alas! on trial of the chorus in the Messiah, 'And with His stripes we are healed,' poor Janson, after repeated attempts, failed so egregiously, that Handel let loose his great bear upon him; and after swearing in four or five languages, cried out in broken English: 'You shcauntrel! tit not you dell me dat you could sing at soite?' 'Yes, sir,' says the printer, 'and so I can; but not at first sight.'"

EDWARD ORME 1765 1776

A Conduct.

Originator of the Chester Musical Festivals, and promoter of several important concerts there. A prominent Freemason. Deputy-Herald of the city. He also served as Sheriff. As one of a talented family of painters he was often in request for painting armorial bearings. Died March 25, 1777, aged 61. Buried in the Cathedral. Compiler of a Collection of Anthems for use in the Cathedral.

JOHN BAILEY 1776 1803

A Conduct. Previously a Chorister and Assistant-Organist to Edward Orme.

Born at Chester, 1749. Died November 26, 1823, aged 73. Buried in the Cathedral.

Composer of some Anthems and Chants which were in use at the Cathedral.

EDWARD BAILEY 1803 1823

A Conduct. Previously a Chorister, and Assistant-Organist.

Brother of the preceding. Born at Chester, 1758. Organist of St. Asaph Cathedral, 1785; Chester Cathedral, 1803. Died November 4, 1830, aged 72. Buried in the Cathedral. Edward Orme and the Baileys were connected by family relationship.

(See also under St. Asaph.)

"A descendant acted as Assistant at the Cathedral within living memory, but he was a poor player, and his fingers stuck to the keys in wrong places so that he was known as Bird-lime Bailey."

(The Organists of Chester Cathedral, Prof. J. C. Bridge, M.A., Mus.D.)

GEORGE BLACK 1823 1824

Composer of a Service in B flat which was in use at the Cathedral.

* In the Chapter Books of Chester his name is given as Joynson.

THOMAS HAYLETT 1824 1841

Retired in 1841. Buried October 6, 1843 (aged 49), in St. John's Cemetery, Chester.

The following amusing anecdote concerning Thomas Haylett is related by his present successor at Chester Cathedral, Dr. J. C. Bridge:—

"One day Haylett, according to custom, had been teaching in Warrington, whence he duly returned in the evening to Chester. Upon opening the door of the coach he discovered the huge figure of a man stretched across two seats. As the occupant seemed disinclined to move his portly figure, Haylett reminded him that the coach was constructed to hold more than one passenger. The traveller then removed his feet, but uttered not a word. Haylett thereupon remarked that it was 'a fine night.' Silence greeted even this meteorological utterance. Similar observations were treated in like manner, with the result that Haylett held his peace, but only till Chester—the destination of the pair—was reached. Addressing his fellow-traveller for the last time, Haylett said to him, 'I think it right to inform you, sir, that you are a d——d disagreeable fellow.' This anathema caused the silent one to remove his muffler and thus unmask his features. The process revealed to Haylett's astonished gaze the face of Canon Slade, one of the Cathedral dignitaries, who was on his way to take up residence. The Canon, however, treated the matter very good-humouredly and often reminded Haylett of the joke."

FREDERICK GUNTON 1841 1877

Born at Norwich, 1813. Pupil of Alfred Pettet (Organist of St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich). Organist of Southwell Minster, 1835. Organist of Chester Cathedral, 1841. Director of the King's School Concerts, &c. Resigned the Cathedral appointment, 1877, at which time he was presented with a testimonial in the form of a handsome piece of plate. Died at Chester, 1888. Buried in Upton Churchyard.

Dr. Anson, upon being appointed Dean of Chester, brought Gunton, his Organist, with him from Southwell. Gunton effected great improvements in the musical services at Chester Cathedral, and the present organ, by Whiteley, was erected under his superintendence. It is said that Mendelssohn, having on one occasion heard Gunton play upon the Cathedral organ, remarked to someone present that his (Gunton's) touch was "like velvet."

JOSEPH COX BRIDGE, M.A., 1878; Mus.D., Oxon., 1885 et Dunelm., 1908; F.S.A., F.R.C.O. ... ... 1877 ——

Born at Rochester, 1853. Chorister in Rochester Cathedral, and afterwards Assistant-Organist there, and Pupil of John Hopkins. Pupil also of his brother, Sir Frederick Bridge, and Assistant-Organist to him at Manchester Cathedral. Organist of Exeter College, Oxford, 1871, where he graduated in Arts and Music. Assistant-Organist of Chester Cathedral, 1876; Organist, ditto, 1877. Was mainly instrumental in re-establishing the Chester Triennial Musical Festivals from 1879 to 1900, of which he was Conductor. Professor of Music to Durham University, 1908. Composer of an Oratorio, "Daniel"; a Cantata, "Rudel"; a Symphony for orchestra, Church Music, Part-songs, &c.

Dr. Joseph Bridge has on more than one occasion acted as Conductor in the place of Sir Charles Hallé at Concerts in Bristol and Manchester.

His researches in connection with the musicians and musical doings of Chester have proved of great historical value.

The choir of Chester Cathedral has always been noted both for its discipline and musical efficiency, and its singing evoked the highest commendation from the American musicians who visited England in 1895.

CHICHESTER.

WILLIAM CAMPION 1542 1554

He received 6s. 8d. for playing on the Organs in the Choir, and 3s. 4d. for playing on the Organs in the Lady Chapel.

THOMAS BRODHORNE 1554 1565

Third Lay Vicar Choral, received in 1556 his usual stipends, "namely, for stalls, and also for beating the organs" in the Cathedral, his emoluments being 23s. 4d.

MICHAEL WOODS ("Organista") ... ... —— ——

There is record of payments to him from 1567 to 1569.

THOMAS WEELKES, Mus.B., Oxon., 1602 ... ... 1602 1623

Born about 1575. Previously Organist of Winchester College, at a salary of 13s. 4d. a quarter. Died, while on a visit to London, November 30, 1623. Buried at St. Bride's, Fleet Street.* Better known at the present time by his Madrigals than by his Church Music. There is an Anthem by him, "O Lord, grant the king a long life," in Barnard's Collection; two were also published by the Musical Antiquarian Society, and others are extant in MS. His Service in F is given in Benjamin Cosyn's Virginal Book.

"The Organist shall remain in the Choir until the last psalm be sung and then go up to the organs, and there having done his duty, return into the Choir again to bear his part all along, under the amercement of iij. toties quoties. This is thought a meet matter in all double choirs, much more is it necessary in all half-choirs, as ours is."—("Statutes of the Dean and Chapter, 1616.")

BARTHOLOMEW WEBB ... ... 1668 (?)1674

JOHN READING 1674 1720

Probably a native of Lincoln, and a relative of John Reading, Organist of Winchester Cathedral, 1675-1692. Composer of Church Music, &c.

There were two other well-known musicians of the same name. One, already mentioned, was Organist of Winchester Cathedral and College; the other was Organist successively of Dulwich College; St. John at Hackney; St. Mary Woolnoth; St. Dunstan in the West; and St. Mary Woolchurch Haw, London.

THOMAS KELWAY ... ... { Próbationer 1720 / Sworn 1733 } 1733 1747

Born at Chichester. Chorister in the Cathedral, and probably a pupil of Reading, whom he succeeded as Organist. Died at Chichester, May 21, 1749. Buried in the South Aisle of the Cathedral.

* I am indebted, for the foregoing biographical details concerning Weelkes, to the researches of the Rev. E. H. Fellowes, M.A., Mus.D. (See his Paper read before the Musical Association on May 16, 1916.)—J. E. W.

Kelway's gravestone having been lost sight of for many years, was found and replaced, and the inscription re-cut, about 1846. This circumstance gave rise to the following pleasing sonnet by Mr. Charles Crocker, a former well-known Verger of Chichester Cathedral:—

"Kelway! thy memory, fresh as vernal day,
In many a heart's most secret holiest cell,
Where love of sacred song delights to dwell,
Lives—and shall live while music holds her sway
Within these hallowed walls, where day by day,
Year after year, he plied the wondrous art
Which bids the spirit from its prison start,
And soar awhile to happier realms away.
His strains full oft—still fall upon the ear
Of those who tread yon aisle, while, at their feet,
His name and record of his hope appear.
Peace to his ashes—be his slumbers sweet,
Till that glad morn when he shall wake to hear
The angel choir in nightless Heaven's bright sphere."

("The Organists and Composers of St. Paul's Cathedral." By J. S. Bumpus. Foot-note, p. 246.)

Seven Services and nine Anthems in his own handwriting are in the Cathedral Library. His Evening Services in B minor, A minor, and G minor are still in frequent use. His brother, Joseph Kelway, was one of the most celebrated organists of his time.

THOMAS CAPELL ... ... {Probationer 1744 / Sworn 1747} (? 1794

RICHARD HALL (Deputy) ... ... 1771 ——

THOMAS TREMAINE (Deputy) ... ... 1771 ——

A Thomas Tremain composed six Concertos for Strings, Oboes, and Horns in 1790.

WILLIAM WALOND 1794 1801

Probably a son of William Walond, Mus.B., of Oxford. Deputy-Organist, 1775. Organist, 1794. Resigned his post at the Cathedral in 1801 and lived for some time in the city in extreme poverty, his only means of subsistence being a small annuity raised upon the sale of some houses. Died February 9, 1836. Portions of his compositions are to be found in the Cathedral Choir books.

JAMES TARGETT ... ... Probationer 1801 1803

Born near Kidderminster, October, 1778. Chorister in Chichester Cathedral, and afterwards Organist there. Died May 15, 1803, aged 24.

John Marsh, a distinguished amateur of Chichester, edited "Three Anthems and a Hymn in four parts, composed by the late James Targett."

There are also three Chants by him in Marsh's "Cathedral Chants."

THOMAS BENNETT ... ... {Probationer 1803 / Sworn 1817} 1848

Born at Fonthill, 1779. Chorister in Salisbury Cathedral. Organist of St. John's Chapel, Chichester, and afterwards of the Cathedral. Died March 21, 1848. Buried in the Cathedral Yard. Published "Sacred Melodies," "Cathedral Selections," and "An Introduction to the Art of Singing."

HENRY R. BENNETT ... ... { Probationer 1848 / Sworn 1849 } 1860

Son of the preceding, and elder brother of Alfred Bennett, Organist of New College, Oxford. Chorister in Magdalen College, Oxford. Pupil of his father. Succeeded him at Chichester. Resigned the post at Chichester and became Organist of St. Andrew's, Wells Street, London, exchanging appointments with Dr. Philip Armes. There are Anthems by him in the books of Chichester Cathedral.

PHILIP ARMES, M.A., Dunelm.; Mus.D., Oxon. et Dunelm.; F.R.C.O. 1861 1852

(See under Durham.)

EDWARD HENRY THORNE, Mus.D. Cantuar., 1913; F.R.C.O. 1863 1870

Born at Cranbourne, Dorset, 1834. Pupil of Sir George Elvey, and Assistant-Organist at St. George's Chapel, Windsor, when only 12 years of age. Organist of the Parish Church, Henley-on-Thames, 1853; Chichester Cathedral, 1863; St. Patrick's, Hove, 1870; St. Peter's, Cranley Gardens, London, 1873; St. Michael's, Cornhill, 1875; and St. Anne's, Soho, London, 1891, where his performances of the "Christmas Oratorio," the "St. John" Passion, and other works of Bach, and his Bach Organ Recitals, were notable events among Church musicians and others. Died December 26, 1917. Composer of Church Music, Organ pieces, Part-songs, Pianoforte pieces, &c. His Anthem, "I was glad" was written for the reopening Service at Chichester Cathedral in 1867, after the falling in of the spire.

CHARLES HENRY HYLTON-STEWART 1874 1875

Choral Scholar of St. Catherine's College, Cambridge, 1873. Afterwards took Holy Orders and became Curate of Pebmarsh, Essex, 1875; Precentor of Chester Cathedral, 1877; Vicar of New Brighton (Cheshire), 1889; and Rector of Bathwick, 1904-1916. Hon. Canon of Chester, 1916.

DANIEL JOSEPH WOOD, Mus.B., Oxon., Mus.D., Cantuar.; F.R.C.O. 1875 1876

(See under Exeter.)

THEODORE EDWARD AYLWARD 1876 1886

Great grandnephew of Dr. Theodore Aylward. Born at Salisbury, 1844. Pupil of Dr. S. S. Wesley. Organist successively of St. Matthew's, Cheltenham; St. Columba's College, Rathfarnham, 1866; St. Martin's, Salisbury; Llandaff Cathedral, 1870; Chichester Cathedral, 1876; St. Andrew's Church and the Public Halls, Cardiff, 1886. Composer. Editor of the Sarum Hymnal (1870).

FREDERICK JOHN READ, Mus.D., Oxon., 1891; F.R.C.O. 1887 1902

Born at Faversham, December, 1857. Pupil of Drs. Sloman, Corfe, and Sir Frederick Bridge. Organist of Christ Church, Reading, 1877. Founder of the Reading Orpheus Society, and Conductor of the same since 1882. Organist of Chichester Cathedral, 1887. Professor of Harmony, Royal College of Music, 1886. Examiner for the Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music, 1892. Retired from the appointment at Chichester in 1902, and for some time resident in London. Examiner in Music at Oxford University, 1903-07; London University, 1910-14. Dean of the Faculty of Music, London University, 1912-16. Conductor of the Chichester Musical Society since 1887. Reappointed Organist of Chichester Cathedral, 1921. Composer of Church Music, Cantatas, Madrigals, Part-songs, &c.

FREDERICK JOSEPH WILLIAM CROWE, F.R.A.S., F.R.Hist.Soc. 1902 1921

Born at Weston-super-Mare, December 3, 1862. Chorister of Wells Cathedral and afterwards Assistant-Organist to C. W. Lavington there. Studied singing under Carpi in Milan. For some years special correspondent to the Western Musical News. Organist of Ashburton Parish Church, 1882; St. Mary Magdalene, Torquay, 1890; Chichester Cathedral, 1902. Retired, owing to ill-health, in 1921. Founder and Conductor of the Chichester Cathedral Oratorio Society, the Chichester Orchestral Society, &c. Captain (late R.E. Vol.) in command of the local National Reserve. Author of a series of articles on Cathedral Organists in The Musical Courier, musical editor, &c.

FREDERICK JOHN READ, Mus.D., Oxon.; F.R.C.O. 1921 ——
(Reappointed.)

CORK.

I am indebted to Dr. Richard Caulfield's interesting book, "Annals of St. Fin Barre's Cathedral, Cork," * for much of my information regarding the Organists of Cork Cathedral.

"1633. The Dean and Chapter unanimously decree that the sum of Ten Pounds shall be paid for the completion of a musical instrument, called in English Organs, as is the custom to have in Cathedral Churches.—4th November."

WILLIAM LOVE ... ... —— ——

He is mentioned as Vicar Choral in 1669, and Organist in 1677.

Probably the duties of Organist had, up to that time, been performed by one or other of the Vicars Choral in turn.

* Kindly lent to me by Dr. J. C. Marks, formerly Cathedral Organist.

In 1684 "The Bishop orders the Vicars Choral, Organist, and Choir, to attend the Cathedral daily, and perform the service 'in the best melodies they can, according to Cathedral use.'" *

"1688. The Organist monished to reside 'inter pomœria Ecclesiæ,' or at least in the suburbs of Cork." The same admonition had previously been given in 1686.

THOMAS HOLLISTER (Assistant) 1695 1703

Salary, £10 per annum. Appointed Organist of St. Werburgh's, Dublin, 1720.

WILLIAM TOOLE 1703 1711

Afterwards Organist of Armagh Cathedral, which post he resigned in 1722.

EDWARD BROADWAY 1712 1720

Lay Vicar, 1704. "Master of the Song," 1707. Organist, 1712. Resigned the post of Organist, 1720, and was recommended to the Bishop "for some provision for him as Organist for the time he served."

On the 7th November, 1723, "Mr. Broadway, and his successors, Lay Vicars, are ordered to sing a Solo Anthem every Sunday in the afternoon, and provide a variety of them, and that he instruct two boys to join him in singing said Anthems (&c.)." According to the records he appears to have failed to provide these boys, and an application was made to the Bishop to withhold a portion of his salary. In 1725-26 Broadway petitioned the Bishop for the sum of £30 withheld from him.

WILLIAM SMYTH ... ... 1720 (?)1781

Salary, £20 per annum. At the time of his appointment application was made to the Bishop for funds to purchase some additional stops for the Cathedral organ. Various sums of money were paid from time to time to Smyth, for tuning and cleaning the instrument. In 1781 it was reported to the Chapter that he had left a legacy of £200 for the poor of the parish.

HENRY DE LA MAINE 1781 1796

Son of Laurence De La Maine, a French refugee who settled in Ireland at the time of the Revolution. Died 1796. Two Chants by him are in Joule's Collection, and some Psalm Tunes in Weyman's "Melodia Sacra."

On October 28th, 1791, he presented a memorial to the Dean and Chapter, alleging that he had a right to a fifth part of the emoluments of the Vicars Choral.

JAMES ROCHE 1797 1811

Organist and Master of the boys. Died June 6, 1811. He was, like Smyth, paid for keeping the organ in repair and tune.

JAMES BREALSFORD STEPHENS 1811 1860

Organist and Master of the boys. Died March 3, 1860.

JAMES CHRISTOPHER MARKS, Mus.Doc., Oxon., 1868 1860 1903

Born at Armagh, 1835. Chorister of Armagh Cathedral. Pupil of R. Turle. Assistant-Organist at Armagh Cathedral, 1852, until his appointment to Cork. Conductor of Cork Harmonic Society, 1860-61, and of Cork Musical

* In the following year, however, the Vicars were admonished "for neglect in not ending the daily service in the Choir of the Cathedral according to the statutes of the same, and for the fuller publication thereof," it was ordered "that the monition be fixed over their stalls in the Church (&c.)—13th May." The "notorious neglect of the Vicars Choral" in their attendance at the Cathedral was the subject of a representation to the Bishop in 1720.

Festival in 1862. Conductor of Cork (New) Harmonic Society. Died suddenly at Clifton, July 17, 1903. Composer of an Oratorio, "Gideon" (his degree exercise), Church Music, &c.

Shortly after Dr. Marks's appointment Full Choral Service was re-established in the Cathedral. This had been discontinued since Bishop Wetenhall's time, at the end of the seventeenth century. The present Cathedral was also completed in 1870, and, in commemoration of its consecration, Dr. Marks was publicly invested, by the Dean, with a gold medal.

WILLIAM GEORGE EVELEIGH, Mus.D., Oxon., 1895; F.R.C.O., A.R.C.M. ... ... 1903 ——

Born at Meerut, India, 1868. Pupil of G. E. Bambridge, Sir Julius Benedict, John Hopkins (Rochester), and Dr. J. C. Bridge (Chester). Organist of Holywell Parish Church, 1888; Holy Trinity (Episcopal), Ayr, 1889; Cork Cathedral, 1903. Conductor of the Cathedral Musical Society Examiner for Degrees in Music in the University of Dublin.

Composer of a Cantata, "In Domino Confido," an Opera, "Valkyriur," Church Music, pieces for Organ, Pianoforte, Violin, &c.

COVENTRY.

(THE PARISH CHURCH OF ST. MICHAEL AND ALL ANGELS.)

SEE RE-ESTABLISHED IN 1908.

The Monastic Church of Coventry first became a Cathedral in 1102. In 1180 the See was united with that of Lichfield, Coventry holding the senior title for more than four centuries, and Lichfield from 1661 to 1836. In the latter year Coventry ceased to be a See until 1908.

WALTER HOYLE, F.R.C.O. ... ... 1898 ——

Born at Exeter, 1873. Articled pupil of Dr. D. J. Wood at Exeter Cathedral. Sometime Organist of St. Petrock's, Exeter, and Sub-Organist of the Cathedral. Organist of St. Michael's, Coventry, 1898.

DUBLIN.

The CATHEDRAL of the HOLY TRINITY,

COMMONLY TERMED

CHRIST CHURCH.

An early agreement with an Organist in the Reformation period—after the suppression of the Priory of the Holy Trinity Dublin.

Dated 16 March, 37 Hen. VIII. (1546).

Thomas Lokwod, dean, and the Chapter of the Holy Trinity, &c., in consideration of his instructing the Chorister-children, grant to ROBERT HAYWARD of Dublin, Singing-man for life, a yearly stipend of £6 13s. 4d., twelve pecks of wheat, and eight pecks of malt, payable at the feasts of the Nativity, Easter, Nativity of St. John Baptist, and Michaelmas; a livery coat, a cart-load of wood at Christmas, and the Chamber* by the east of the Churchyard; and the Vicars Choral grant him four pecks of malt in equal portions, at said feasts, his daily finding, table and board, sitting and taking same with them.

Grantee, who is empowered to distrain grantors' lands in Dublin County and City for his stipend, undertakes to play the organ, to keep Our Lady's Mass and Anthem daily, Jesus' Mass every Friday, according the custom of St. Patrick's, and Matins when the organs play on the eight principal feasts and the feasts of "Majus duplex" (grantors finding a blower); to procure, at the expense of the Church, suitable songs; to behave humbly and well to grantors, and soon as he shall have the above Chamber, to instruct the Choristers in Pricksong and Descant to "four minims," and to play Our Lady's Mass, all instruments being ound for them during the time of their child's voice, and to present them to the Chauntor to be admitted; to remain in the service of the Church during his life and not to absent himself without license.

WALTER KENNEDY... ... ... 1586 1595

JOHN FERMER (or FARMER) 1595 1598-9

His name is given in both forms in the Chapter Books. He was also Organist of St. Patrick's Cathedral. On July 18, 1597, "It is ordered that if Mr. John Fermer doe not return by the first of August, 1597, that then all Excuses sett a-part:—his place to bee voyd in this Church for depting (sic) the land without lycence." It is probable, therefore, that this is no less a person than John Farmer, the Madrigal writer, as the latter was living in Broad Street, London, in 1599. In this year he published "The first set of English Madrigals to Foure Voyces." He also contributed to Thomas Este's "Whole Booke of Psalmes," 1592.

RICHARD MYLES 1600 1608

(See under Chester.)

RANDALL (or RANDOLPH) JEWITT, Mus.B., Dub. 1631 1639

(See under Winchester.)

BENJAMIN ROGERS, Mus.B., Cantab., Mus.D., Oxon. 1639 1641

(See under Magdalen College, Oxford.)

RANDALL JEWITT, Mus.B., Dub. (Re-appointed) 1641 1642

JOHN HAWKSHAW (Senr.) 1661 1688

According to the Cathedral records, leases were granted to him in 1645 and 1647, but he is not mentioned as either Vicar Choral or Organist until after the Restoration, when in 1661 he appears to have been elected to the former post, which he held until his death in 1688. His appointment as Vicar Choral of St. Patrick's Cathedral is dated 1660, when he was also made Organist there "during the absence of Mr. Randall Jewet." Jewitt had returned to England on the breaking up of the Cathedral Establishment at the Rebellion (see his appointment at Chester Cathedral). He was evidently expected to resume his duties in Dublin after the Restoration, and, as he failed to do so, Hawkshaw was permanently appointed in his place.

His son (John Hawkshaw, Junr.) is said to have succeeded him as Organist of St. Patrick's Cathedral. One John Hawkshaw, Organist of Armagh Cathedral, is supposed by some authorities to have been this said son; but a comparison of the dates against this name at both Cathedrals leaves the matter doubtful.

THOMAS GODFREY 1688 1689

Also Organist of St. Patrick's Cathedral, 1686. Fled to England, 1689.

THOMAS FINELL was Deputy-Organist ... 1689 1691

He was "Keeper of the Organs" from 1682 to 1694, at a salary of £2 per annum.

THOMAS MORGAN 1691 1691

Appointed January 2, 1691, his salary commencing from Christmas before, but never took up duty. On March 26, 1691, the Proctor was ordered to "transmit five pounds into England to Thos. Morgan for his reliefe and encouragement to use his best to endeavour to attain the perfection of an Organist."

THOMAS FINELL again Deputy-Organist ... 1691 1692

PETER ISAAC(KE) 1692 1694

A native of England. Appointed a Vicar Choral of St. Patrick's, Dublin, 1673; but deprived of that office for neglect of duty, 1688, when he returned to England, and became Organist of Salisbury Cathedral. In 1691 he was invited by the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin, to "come over" and serve as Vicar Choral and Organist of that Cathedral, which post he accepted, and was admitted, 1692, "on account of his extraordinary skill in music." Died 1694.

THOMAS FINELL 1694 1698

Previously Deputy-Organist. Also Organist of St. Patrick's Cathedral, 1689-1691; and again in 1692. Vicar Choral of St. Patrick's Cathedral, 1677, and of Christ Church Cathedral, 1693. It is said that he was admitted on probation as Organist of Christ Church Cathedral on October 10, 1694. Died 1709. Some compositions by him are included in the Music Books of Chester Cathedral.

DANIEL ROSINGRAVE 1698 1727

Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Pupil of Henry Purcell and Dr. Blow. Organist of Gloucester Cathedral, 1679; Winchester Cathedral, 1682; Salisbury Cathedral, 1692; Organist and Vicar Choral of St. Patrick's Cathedral, and Organist and Stipendiary of Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin, 1698. Died in Dublin, 1727. Composer of Church Music.

In 1699 Daniel Rosingrave and Robert Hodge (Master of the Choristers at Christ Church, and predecessor of Rosingrave as Organist of St. Patrick's), were ordered to appear before the Dean and Chapter of St. Patrick's for using "very scurrilous language" and for fighting together at a tavern. Rosingrave, as "ye first and chief aggressor," was fined £3, and Hodge 20s., the former being required to "beg publick pardon" of the latter. At Christ Church, also, Rosingrave was ordered suspension in 1700 for assaulting Thomas Finell, and the Dean and Chapter further ordered "that from henceforth no Vicar or Stipendiary of this Church do wear a sword, under the penalty of expulsion." The suspension order was subsequently annulled by payment of a fine.

In 1679, while Organist of Gloucester Cathedral, he had been admonished "for beating and wounding of John Payn, one of the singing men of this Church."

RALPH ROSINGRAVE 1727 1747

(See under St. Patrick's Cathedral.)

GEORGE WALSH 1747 1765

Appointed a Vicar Choral of St. Patrick's Cathedral, 1760; Organist, ditto, 1760. Died March 2, 1765. Composer of a Morning Service in D, which is still in use at Christ Church, and copies of which are said to exist in some of the English Cathedrals. Sir Robert Stewart thought so highly of it that he added a Communion Service in the same key and style. A fine score copy of "Walsh in D" was in the possession of Mr. J. S. Bumpus.

RICHARD WOODWARD, Mus.D., Dublin, 1771 ... 1765 1777

Son of Richard Woodward, a Vicar Choral of St. Patrick's Cathedral. Born in Dublin, 1744. Vicar Choral of St. Patrick's Cathedral, 1772. Organist of Christ Church Cathedral, 1765. Master of the Choristers at Christ Church and St. Patrick's Cathedrals. Died November 22, 1777. Buried in Christ Church Cathedral. On his monument is inscribed his Prize Canon "Let the words of my mouth."* Composer of Church Music, Songs, &c. His Church Music, which included a Service in B flat and seven Anthems, was published in London in a folio volume, and dedicated to Archbishop Smyth.

SAMUEL MURPHY, Mus.D., Dub. 1777 1780

(See under St. Patrick's Cathedral.)

LANGRISHE DOYLE, Mus.D., Dub., (?)1788 ... 1780 (?)1813

Chorister in Christ Church. Stipendiary, 1775. Organist of Armagh Cathedral, 1776. Master of the Choristers of both Christ Church and St. Patrick's Cathedrals in 1780, and Organist and Stipendiary of Christ Church Cathedral. Elected a Half Vicar of St. Patrick's Cathedral, 1781, and a Full Vicar, 1784. Also Organist of Trinity College Chapel, 1781.

By an Order of November 25, 1805. Warren and Doyle were made joint Organists, and a Patent was made out accordingly. Doyle probably retired in 1813, as the books state that he was "licensed to be absent" in that year.

WILLIAM WARREN, Mus.D., Dub. (Joint-Org., 1805) (Sole Org., 1814) 1841

(See under St. Patrick's Cathedral.)

FRANCIS JAMES ROBINSON, Mus.D., Dub. ... 1816 1841

Assistant-Organist. (See also under St. Patrick's Cathedral.)

JOHN ROBINSON 1841 1844

(See under St. Patrick's Cathedral.)

SIR ROBERT PRESCOTT STEWART, Kn^t. Mus.D., Dub., 1851; Hon. F.R.C.O. 1844 1894

Born in Dublin, December 16, 1825. Chorister in Christ Church Cathedral. Organist of Christ Church Cathedral and Trinity College Chapel, 1844. Organist of St. Patrick's Cathedral, 1852. Resigned the post of Organist, St. Patrick's Cathedral, 1861, in order to obtain a Vicar Choralship there, but the latter office was divided, and he only succeeded to one half. He still, however, played the Sunday afternoon services, by arrangement with his successor, Mr. Murphy, who on these occasions sang for Sir Robert in the choir. Half Vicar Choral of St. Patrick's Cathedral, 1861. Professor of Music in Dublin University, 1862. Knighted 1872. Died in Dublin, Easter Eve, March 24, 1894. Composer of Odes, Cantatas, Church Music, Organ pieces, Songs, Glees, &c. Editor of and lecturer on music.

* Awarded the gold medal of the Glee and Catch Club in 1764.

Inscription on the Brass placed to his memory in Christ Church Cathedral, Christmas, 1896:—

"To the Glory of God, and in Memory of
ROBERT PRESCOTT STEWART, Knt.
Doctor of Music.
Trained as a Chorister in the Cathedral School,
he was appointed Organist at the age of eighteen,
and continued in that post during fifty years.
His name stands foremost among the many who for seven centuries devoted their musical talents to the Service of God within this Ancient Sanctuary.
Upright in life and modest in spirit, he gained the warm affection of a large circle of friends, and universal honour and respect.
A brilliant Organist and Composer, he impressed his genius on the Use and Mode of Services in this Cathedral Church, and enriched its Library with many noble compositions.
Born 1825.
He entered into his Rest on Easter Eve, 1894.

[Here are engraved the opening bars of the Te Deum from Stewart's Service for Double Choir, in E flat.]

A statue, erected to his memory on Leinster Lawn, Dublin, was unveiled by the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland (Earl Cadogan) on March 8, 1898.

JOHN HORAN 1894 1907

Born at Drogheda, February 26, 1831. Pupil of his father. Chorister in Christ Church Cathedral, and frequently deputised as Organist there. Apprenticed to Telford and Telford, organ builders, Dublin. Organist successively of Booterstown Church; St. John's, Sandymount; and St. Andrew's, Dublin. Afterwards Solo Bass of Limerick Cathedral. Organist of Adare Parish Church, 1856; Organist of Tuam Cathedral, 1857; Organist of Derry Cathedral, 1862; Assistant-Organist and Choirmaster of Christ Church Cathedral, 1873; succeeding to the full office on the death of Sir Robert Stewart. Died February 1, 1908. Composer of Services, Anthems, &c.

JAMES F. FITZGERALD, B.A., Cantab. 1907 1913

Born 1873. Educated at Uppingham School, Trinity College, Cambridge, and the Royal College of Music. Assistant-Organist at Christ Church, Dublin, 1901; Joint-Organist, with John Horan, 1904; succeeded to the full office, 1907. Resigned 1913, on taking Orders in the Church of Ireland.

CHARLES HERBERT KITSON, M.A., Cantab., 1903; Mus.D., Oxon., 1902; Hon. F.R.C.O. ... 1913 1920

Born at Leyburn, Yorks, 1874. Organ Scholar at Selwyn College, Cambridge, 1894. Assistant Music Master at Haileybury College, 1897. Music Master at St. Edmund's School, Canterbury, 1899. Organist of St. John the Baptist, Leicester, 1902; Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin, 1913. Professor of Music at University College, Dublin, 1915. Resigned the appointment in Dublin. Now resident in London. Professor of Music at Dublin University, 1920. Author of several musical text-books. Composer of Church Music, Organ pieces, &c. Joint editor (with Dr. C. G. Marchant) of the revised edition of the Irish Church Hymnal.

THOMAS HENRY WEAVING ... ... 1920 ——

Born at Birmingham, 1881. Organ and Harmony Scholar at the Royal Irish Academy of Music, 1897-99; Organist of Straffan Church, 1897; Rutland Square Church, 1899; Christ Church, Kingstown, 1910; Chapel Royal, Dublin, 1917; Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin, 1920. Conductor of the Æolian, Rathmines and Bray Musical Societies. Composer of Church Music, secular, choral, and instrumental music.

DUBLIN.

ST. PATRICK'S CATHEDRAL.

WILLIAM HERBIT ... ... 1509 ——

According to the Chapter books his annual stipend was £3 6s. 8d.

JAMES WHITE, Vicar Choral and Organist ... 1540 1547

WILLIAM BROWNE 1555 1559

Appointed on the restoration of the Cathedral during the reign of Philip and Mary. Retired in 1559.

JOHN FERMER (or FARMER) 1595 1598-99

(See under Christ Church Cathedral.)

ANTHONY WILLIS (or WILKES) ... ... 1606 ——

Appointed a Vicar Choral of St. Patrick's Cathedral, 1639.

RANDALL (or RANDOLPH) JEWITT, Mus.B., Dub. 1631 1642

(See under Winchester.)

JOHN HAWKSHAW (Senr.) 1661 1678

(See under Christ Church Cathedral.)

(?)JOHN HAWKSHAW (Junr.) 1678 1685

Son of the foregoing. He is said to have succeeded his father at St. Patrick's Cathedral, and to have been suspended for neglect of duty in 1685. In this case, however, the John Hawkshaw mentioned under Armagh would scarcely be the same person.

THOMAS GODFREY 1686 1689

(See under Christ Church Cathedral.)

THOMAS FINELL 1689 1691

(See under Christ Church Cathedral.)

WILLIAM ISAAC 1691 1692

Evidently a relative of Peter Isaac, Organist of Christ Church Cathedral.

THOMAS FINELL 1692 1694
Reappointed.

ROBERT HODGE 1694 1698
Previously Organist of Wells Cathedral, 1688-1689. He was elected a Vicar Choral of St. Patrick's Cathedral, 1693, and a Vicar Choral of Christ Church Cathedral, 1695. The Chapter minutes under the date June 9, 1698, state that "Robert Hodge resigns the post of Organist, and Daniel Rosingrave is appointed." Hodge afterwards became Master of the Choristers at Christ Church Cathedral, and died 1709.
(See also under Wells.)

DANIEL ROSINGRAVE 1698 1727
(See under Christ Church Cathedral.)

RALPH ROSINGRAVE 1727 1747
Son of the preceding. Appointed a Vicar Choral of St. Patrick's Cathedral, 1719; Assistant-Organist there, 1726. Organist of Christ Church and St. Patrick's Cathedrals, 1727. Died 1747. Two Services, in C and F, and several of his Anthems are in the Dublin Cathedral books. An old organ book formerly in the possession of Mr. J. S. Bumpus contains a Service in F by R. Rosingrave, with a setting of the Benedicite. Ralph Rosingrave was probably the "young Rosingrave" mentioned as being appointed Organist of Trinity College Chapel in 1705.

RICHARD BROADWAY 1748 1760
Probably son of Edward Broadway, Organist of Cork Cathedral. He was also a Vicar Choral of St. Patrick's Cathedral. Died November, 1760. Composer of an Oratorio, "Solomon's Temple" (1753).

GEORGE WALSH 1760 1765
(See under Christ Church Cathedral.)

HENRY WALSH 1765 1769
Son of the preceding.

SAMUEL MURPHY, Mus.D., Dub. 1769 1780
Appointed a Half Vicar of St. Patrick's Cathedral, 1759; Organist ditto, 1769; Organist of Christ Church Cathedral, 1777; Organist of Trinity College Chapel, 1775; also Stipendiary of Christ Church Cathedral and, in 1766, Master of the Choristers in both Christ Church and St. Patrick's Cathedrals. Died November 9, 1780.

PHILIP COGAN, Mus.D., Dub. 1780 1806
Born at Cork, 1749. Chorister, and afterwards Lay Clerk in Cork Cathedral. Organist of St. John's, Dublin, 1778. Organist of St. Patrick's Cathedral, 1780. Died about 1834. Composer of a Concerto for pianoforte, Sonatas, &c. He is said to have been a clever extemporist on Irish Melodies.

JOHN MATHEWS 1806 1827

WILLIAM WARREN, Mus.D., Dub. 1827 1828
Joint-Organist with Dr. Doyle at Christ Church Cathedral, 1805; sole Organist, ditto, 1814; Organist of St. Patrick's Cathedral, 1827; Organist also of Trinity College Chapel. Died in Dublin, 1841.

FRANCIS JAMES ROBINSON, Mus.D., Dub., honoris causâ, 1852 ... ... 1828 1829

Born in Dublin, 1799. Chorister in Christ Church Cathedral. Assistant-Organist of Christ Church Cathedral, 1816; Organist of St Patrick's Cathedral, 1828. Vicar Choral of Christ Church Cathedral, 1833; Vicar Choral of St. Patrick's Cathedral, 1843. Died October 21, 1872. Composer of Church Music, Songs, &c. Editor of a collection of Irish Melodies. The greatest tenor singer that the Dublin Cathedrals have ever possessed.

JOHN ROBINSON 1829 1843

Brother of the preceding. Born 1812 (?). Chorister in Christ Church Cathedral. Organist of St. Patrick's Cathedral, 1829; Trinity College Chapel, 1834; Christ Church Cathedral, 1841. Died 1844.

RICHARD CHERRY 1843 1844

WILLIAM HENRY WHITE 1844 1852

Organist of the Chapel of Dublin Castle, 1836 to 1845.

SIR ROBERT PRESCOTT STEWART, Mus.D., Dub.; Hon. F.R.C.O. 1852 1861

(See under Christ Church Cathedral.)

WILLIAM MURPHY, Mus.B., Dub. 1861 1878

CHARLES GEORGE MARCHANT, Mus.D., Dub. ... 1879 1920

Born in Dublin, 1857. Chorister in St. Patrick's Cathedral. Organist of Holy Trinity Church, Rathmines; Christ Church, Bray, 1876; St. Matthias', Dublin (for one week only), from whence he was appointed Organist and Choirmaster of St. Patrick's Cathedral. Organist to Dublin University, and Conductor of the University Choral Society. Professor of the Organ at the Royal Irish Academy of Music, &c. Died January 16, 1920. Composer of a Service in A and other Church Music, &c. Joint Editor (with Dr. C. H. Kitson) of the revised edition of the Irish Church Hymnal.

WILLIAM E. HOPKINS was Sub-Organist, 1916-1920.

GEORGE HENRY PHILLIPS HEWSON, B.A., Dub., 1905; Mus.D., Dub., 1914 ... ... 1920 ——

Born in Dublin, 1881. Dublin University Chorister of St. Patrick's Cathedral, and afterwards Sub-Organist there. Organist of Chapel Royal, Dublin, 1907; Armagh Cathedral, 1917; St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, 1920. Professor of the Organ at the Royal Irish Academy of Music. Composer of Church Music, Part-songs, &c.

DURHAM.

JOHN BRIMLEY (or BRIMLEI) 1557 1576

"He was at his post in the Cathedral during the abortive rising in the North in 1569. Oliver Ashe, Curate of St. Giles's, Durham, deposed that whilst a priest named Holmes was saying Mass, when the sacring bell rang, he looked toward the priest but could not discern the elevation; whereupon he looked up to Mr. Brimlei, then in the loft over the quire door, and smiled at him. Examined himself, John Brimlei, Master of the Choristers in the Cathedral Church of Durham, aged sixty-seven, admitted that he was twice at High Mass, but he sang not himself at them, but played the organs, and did divers times help to sing Salvaes at Mattins and Evensong, and played on the organs, and went in procession, as others did, after the Cross. He owned also that he put forward the Service, and instructed the choristers in such things as they did in the Quire pertaining to service at that time. He expressed his contrition, seems to have conformed, and to have been confirmed in possession of his post, for he was at it when death overtook him in 1576. From which it appears that Master John Brimlei had not in him the stuff of which martyrs are made."—(Communicated by Mr. William Brown, of Durham, to Mr. Joseph Bennett.—See Musical Times, June, 1895.) Buried in the Galilee Chapel of the Cathedral. A Kyrie and Credo by Brimley are included in the old Cathedral music books

EPITAPH TO BRIMLEY IN THE "GALILEE."

John Brimlei's body here doth ly,
Who praysed God with hand and voice.
By musicke's heavenlie harmonie,
Dull myndes he maid in God rejoice.
His soul into the heavenes is lyft,
To prayse Him still that gave the gyft.
Obiit Ao. Dni. 1576, Octo. 13

WILLIAM BROWNE (? Senr.) 1576 1587

ROBERT MASTERMAN 1588 1594

WILLIAM SMYTH (Minor Canon) ... ...(?)1594 1599

In 1589 he petitioned the Vice-Dean and Chapter for remuneration for mending the organs, and received the sum of 30s.

Some Anthems and Responses by him are to be found in the Durham books.

WILLIAM BROWNE (? Junr.) ... ... 1599 (?)1609

EDWARD SMYTH 1609 1611

Son of William Smyth. Died 1611. Composer also of Anthems and Responses in the Cathedral books. His name appears as one of the composers in Clifford's Words of Anthems.

—— DODSON was Organist for a year and a half.

RICHARD HUTCHINSON ... ... 1614 (?)1646

Died June 7, 1646.

He was evidently considered a good Organist—"præ-excellens fuit Organista"—but the Chapter Acts bear record to the fact that his character was not altogether exemplary, and he was reprimanded by the Dean for breaking the head of Toby Broking (one of the singing men) with a candlestick, in an alehouse, wounding him very dangerously.

There are three Anthems by him in the Cathedral books and in the Ely and Peterhouse (Cambridge) Collections.

According to the Cathedral Baptismal Registers, John Hutchinson, son of Richard Hutchinson, Organist, was baptized July 2, 1615.

JOHN FOSTER 1651 1677

"April 21, 1677. Joh'es Foster, Organista, naturæ concessit vicesimo die mensis Aprilis, et die sequente sept^bs est."—(Burial Registers.)

ALEXANDER SHAW 1677 1681

Composer of Services in G and E minor, and two Anthems in the Cathedral books.

Extract from an Organ book at Durham: "Prick'd by Alexr Shaw, Orgt.—Mr. Alex^r Shaw was paid to pricking thus far, Oct. 30, 1678 (and again), 1679, by me, Thos. Smith, Treasurer."

WILLIAM GREGGS 1681 1710

Son of J. Greggs (Gentleman), of York. Succeeded Shaw as Organist, 1681. "It was agreed by the Chapter on 1st December, 1686, that Mr. Greggs the Organist have leave for three months to goe to London to improve himselfe in the skill of musicke." Appointed Master of the Song School, 1690. Died October 15, 1710. Buried in the Church of St. Mary-the less, Durham, where an Epitaph on him is to be found on the South Wall. His Anthem, "My heart is inditing," is in the Cathedral books.

JAMES HESLETINE 1710 1763

Pupil of Dr. Blow. Was Organist of St. Katherine's Church at the Tower, London, which post he retained on his appointment to Durham Cathedral, performing the London office by deputy. Died 1763. Buried in the Cathedral. Composer of many Anthems, &c. The greater part of these were destroyed by him in revenge for some slight by the Dean and Chapter of Durham. His Anthem, "Praise the Lord," is extant in the Cathedral books. There is a portrait of Heseltine in the Music School at Oxford.

THOMAS EBDON 1763 1811

Son of Thomas Ebdon, "Cordwainer." Born at Durham, 1738. Chorister in Durham Cathedral. Died at Durham, September 23, 1811. Buried in St. Oswald's Churchyard. His name is still to be seen carved upon a wooden screen in the Cathedral. This screen separates the North Aisle from the Presbytery, and is one of those erected by Bishop Cosin after the Restoration. In the same place is carved the name of Ralph Banks, who was also a Chorister in Durham Cathedral, becoming a pupil of Ebdon and afterwards Organist of Rochester Cathedral.

Ebdon published two volumes of Church Music, six Glees, Songs, Sonatas for the harpsichord, &c. The Evening portion of his Service in C attained a considerable amount of popularity some years ago, and is still a favourite with admirers of Church music of that time. The Communion Service is completed by a Gloria in Excelsis, very unusual for the period.

CHARLES ERLIN JACKSON CLARKE 1811 1813

Born at Worcester, December, 1795. Chorister in Worcester Cathedral. Appointed Organist of Durham Cathedral at the early age of sixteen. Resigned that post, 1813, and became Organist of Worcester Cathedral and Conductor of the Worcester Festivals. Died of paralysis at Worcester, April 28, 1844.

Hackett's "National Psalmist" (1842) contains an Anthem, "May the grace of Christ our Saviour" and a Double Chant in F by him. The words of his Anthem, "Gather yourselves together," are given in Marshall's "Words of Anthems" (1840).

WILLIAM HENSHAW, Mus.D., Dunelm. 1813 1862

Born 1791, Organist of Durham Cathedral, 1813. Died at Clapham, September 30, 1877. Buried in Nunhead Cemetery.

Composer of Hymn Tunes, Chants, &c.

PHILIP ARMES, M.A., Dunelm.; Mus.D., Oxon., 1864: et Dunelm, 1874; F.R.C.O. 1862 1906

Born at Norwich, August 15, 1836. Chorister in Norwich Cathedral, and afterwards in Rochester Cathedral. Assistant-Organist of Rochester Cathedral, under Dr. J. L. Hopkins. Organist of Holy Trinity Church, Gravesend, 1854; St. Andrew's, Wells Street, London, 1857; Chichester Cathedral, 1861; and Durham Cathedral, 1862. Appointed Resident Examiner in Music to Durham University, 1890, and then Professor of Music to the same. Retired from post of Cathedral Organist, 1906. Died February 10, 1908. Composer of Oratorios, Cantatas, Church Music, Organ pieces, Madrigals, &c.

ARNOLD DUNCAN CULLEY, M.A., Cantab., 1898: et Dunelm., 1906; Mus.B., Cantab., 1894 ... 1907 ——

Priest in Orders.

Born March 9, 1867. Studied at the Royal College of Music. Organist of St. Peter's, Hammersmith, 1884; Christ Church, Surbiton, 1889. Organ Scholar of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, 1891. Curate of Chapel Royal, Brighton, 1894. Deputy Priest-Vicar of Exeter Cathedral, 1897. Sub-Organist of Exeter Cathedral, 1900. Minor Canon and Precentor of Durham Cathedral, 1906. Organist and Master of the Choristers, 1907. Conductor of the Durham Musical Society. Composer of Church Music, Part-songs, Songs, &c.

EDINBURGH.

ST. MARY'S CATHEDRAL.

SEE ESTABLISHED IN 1879.

THOMAS HENRY COLLINSON, Mus.B., Oxon., 1877 1878 ——

Born at Alnwick, April 24, 1858. Pupil of Dr. Armes, and Assistant-Organist at Durham Cathedral. Organist of St. Oswald's, Durham, 1876; St Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh, 1878 (prior to its consecration). Lecturer in Church Music to the Episcopal Theological College, 1880. Conductor of Edinburgh Choral Union, 1883. Composer of Anthems, &c.

ELY.

The earliest record of an Organist here is "WM. KYNG, Organist, for one year, 13s. 4d.," 1453 (Precentor's Roll of 1453).

THOMAS BARCROFTE ... ... —— ——

He is said to have been Organist in 1535, but the Cathedral records furnish no proof. An early copy of his Service in G (composed in 1532) is in the Cathedral Library.

CHRISTOPHER TYE, Mus.D., Cantab., 1545 et Oxon., 1548 ... ... 1541 1561

"Magister Choristarum" and Organist. Born about 1500. Probably a Chorister in King's College, Cambridge. Lay Clerk there in 1536, obtaining his degree of Mus.B. in the same year. Took Orders in 1560, and held successively the Rectories of Little Wilbraham, Newton, and Doddington-cum-March. Is said to have been appointed Organist of the Chapel Royal in 1562, but this seems doubtful. Possibly he took occasional duty there (see the anecdote below). Died circa January, 1572-3. A prominent Organist and Composer of the Reformation period. Commenced rhythmical paraphrase of the Acts of the Apostles, and set it to music. It was unsuccessful, and he never completed the task. Early copies of his Evening Service in G minor and of four Anthems are in the Cathedral Library.

According to Anthony Wood: "Dr. Tye was a peevish and humorsome man, especially in his later days, and sometimes playing on the organ in the Chapel of Queen Elizabeth, which contained much music but little to delight the ear, she would send the verger to tell him that he played out of tune, whereupon he sent word that her ears were out of tune."

ROBERT WHITE (or WHYTE), B.A., Mus.B., Cantab., 1560 ... ... 1562 1566

Son-in-law of Dr. Christopher Tye.

Very little is known of his biography, but Morley mentions him in his "Introduction" as one of the famous English musicians of his time. He was probably the Robert White who became Organist of Chester Cathedral, 1567, and of Westminster Abbey in 1570 For his degree of Mus.B. at Cambridge, he was required to compose a Communion Service to be performed in St. Mary's Church on Commencement Day. He was buried at St. Margaret's, Westminster, November 11, 1574. An early copy of his Anthem, "O praise God," is in the Cathedral Library, and there are some Latin Services and Anthems by him in MS. in the Library of Christ Church, Oxford.

(See also under Chester.)

JOHN FARRANT ... ... 1566 (?)1572

He is supposed to have been a son of Richard Farrant. He was probably the John Farrant who took duty for one year at Bristol Cathedral, and subsequently became Organist successively of Hereford Cathedral; Christ Church, Newgate Street, London; and Salisbury Cathedral. Hawkins assigns the post at Christ Church, Newgate Street, to another John Farrant, but it is quite possible that all the above appointments were held in turn by the same person. The Service—Farrant in D minor—which has been attributed to Richard Farrant, is the composition of John Farrant.*

* This fact can be proved by reference to the Ely, Peterhouse (Cambridge), and other MSS., and to various old part-books still extant.

WILLIAM FOX 1572 1579

An old Chapter account of 1572, quoted by Willis ("Survey"), records that his yearly stipend was £13 6s. 8d. Died 1579. Composer of an Anthem, "Teach me Thy way," an early copy of which is in the Cathedral Library. It was published in "The Parish Choir" (1847), and is now included in Novello's 8vo Anthems.

GEORGE BARCROFTE, B.A. 1579 1609

Probably a son of Thomas Barcrofte. Styled "Informator" (Magister Choristarum) and "Vicar Choral" in the Cathedral books, and he may have been a Minor Canon. Early copies of two Anthems in the Cathedral Library are probably by him, and not by Thomas Barcrofte.

JOHN AMNER, Mus.B., Oxon., 1613; et Cantab., 1640 1610 1641

Organist and Master of the Choristers. A "Vicar" like Barcrofte.* Died 1641. Much of his neat handwriting, chiefly of Organ parts, is still extant in the Cathedral books. His compositions include three Services (one of them known as "Cæsar's," from the fact that it was written for his friend Henry Cæsar, D.D., Dean of Ely, in 1614), fifteen Anthems, and "Sacred Hymns in 3, 4, 5, and 6 parts, for Voices and Vyols."

ROBERT CLAXTON 1641 1662

In the Cathedral books called "Lay Clerke." In another list, one of "other instructors in music, and on the viols occasionally." The organ was silenced in 1644, and Claxton's occupation as Organist must then have ceased for some years. He is said, however, to have been "displaced," 1662. Died 1668.

JOHN FERRABOSCO, Mus.D., Cantab., 1671 ... 1662 1682

Probably grandson of Alphonso Ferrabosco, an Italian musician resident in England during Elizabeth's reign. His degree was granted by royal letters patent of Charles II. Died 1682. The Ely books contain fourteen Services and eleven Anthems by him.

"His salary as Organist, and that of his successor Hawkins, was £30 a year. This was augmented by a sum of £6, paid to them as holding the office of cook (!), which was doubtless a sinecure." ("Organs and Organists of Ely Cathedral."—Dr. A. W. Wilson.)

On his death, in 1682, "THOMAS BULLIS, Junr., officiated 6 mo. in ye vacancy." Bullis is mentioned as "Lay Clerke," and is included in the list of "other instructors," like Claxton. The Cathedral books contain three Services and six Anthems by Thomas Bullis, Junr. A Service and five Anthems are attributed to Thomas Bullis, who was probably his father.

JAMES HAWKINS (Senr.), Mus.B., Cantab., 1719 ... 1682-3 1729

Formerly a Chorister in St. John's College, Cambridge. The Cathedral is indebted to this indefatigable musician for its valuable collection of MS. scores and part-books, carefully preserved to this day. He also left behind him a large number of original compositions, those at Ely amounting to as many as seventeen Services and seventy-five Anthems!

* Amner was ordained Deacon on March 1, 1617, at Ely Chapel (the Chapel of the Palace of the Bishops of Ely), Holborn, London, by Bishop Lancelot Andrews.

He lies buried in the South Transept of the Cathedral. The following is the inscription on his tomb :—

"Under this marble
(Among many of his relations)
Lieth the body of James Hawkins, B.M.,
46 Years Organist of this Church;
Eminent in his Profession,
Regular in the discharge of his Duty,
Chearful and friendly in his Deportment.
He died the 18th of October 1729,
In the 67th year of his Age.

THOMAS KEMPTON 1729 1762

Born 1694. Died June 16, 1762. Buried in St. Mary's Churchyard, Ely. Some of his descendants have sung in the Cathedral Choir until recently. Composer of the well-known Service, Kempton in B flat, the autograph score of which, together with those of four other Services and three Anthems, is included in the Cathedral MSS.

JOHN ELBONN 1762 1768

No particulars are known concerning Elbonn, except that he died June 7, 1768, and lies buried near the Western end of the Lady Chapel of the Cathedral.

DAVID WOOD 1768 1774

The Anthem, "Lord of all power and might" is attributed by Page, in his "Harmonia Sacra," Vol. II., to a "David Wood, Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, and Vicar Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral." Possibly Wood resigned the appointment at Ely and went to London.

JAMES ROGERS 1774 1777

Very little is known of him except that he resigned. Most probably, however, he was the James Rodgers who became Organist of Peterborough Cathedral, 1777. He composed an Evening Service in A, in continuation of Boyce (Verse Service). Three Anthems by him were published under the editorship of his pupil, Henry Burdett.

RICHARD LANGDON, Mus.B., Oxon., 1761 ... ... 1777 1778

Grandson of the Rev. Tobias Langdon, a Priest-Vicar of Exeter Cathedral. Organist and Sub-Chanter of Exeter Cathedral, 1753; Organist of Ely Cathedral, 1777; Organist of Bristol Cathedral, 1778; Organist of Armagh Cathedral, 1782. Died at Exeter, September 8, 1803. Buried in St. Paul's Church, Exeter. Composer of "Chanting Services,"* Anthems, Glees, &c. Chiefly known at the present day by the Double Chant in F, usually attributed to him, and published anonymously in his "Divine Harmony."

HIGHMORE SKEATS (Senr.) 1778 1803

(See under Canterbury.)

HIGHMORE SKEATS (Junr.) 1804 1830

Acted as Probationary Organist for the first year.

(See also under St. George's Chapel, Windsor.)

* He appears to have borrowed the idea for these from his predecessors at Ely—Ferrabosco, Hawkins, and Kempton, whose compositions in the books at Ely include Services of this kind.

ROBERT JANES 1831 1866

Born, 1806. "Sol-fa Scholar" (i.e., Chorister) in Dulwich College. Pupil of Dr. Z. Buck at Norwich. Appointed Organist of Ely Cathedral at the age of eighteen. Died at Ely, 1866. Composer of the well-known "Ely Confession" and other Church Music. Editor of a Psalter, which was in use for many years at Ely.

Janes had a very large teaching connection in Norfolk and Suffolk, and in later years was wont to relate how he rode long distances on horseback to fulfil his engagements; also how he had arranged a pair of lamps, attached to his saddle like pistol holsters, to light his lonely road at night through the Fen country. It is said that his income at this time could not have been expressed in less than four numerals. (See "Fifty Years of Church Music," by the Rev. W. E. Dickson, M.A.) He possessed some ability as an amateur printer, and several part-books, set up and printed at his own press, were in use at Ely until 1866.

EDMUND THOMAS CHIPP, Mus.D., Cantab., 1861... 1866 1886

Son of T. P. Chipp, the drum player. Born Christmas-day, 1823. Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Violinist in Her Majesty's Private Band and other Orchestras. Organist successively of Albany Chapel, Regent's Park; Percy Chapel, Tottenham Court Road; St. Olave's, Southwark; St. Mary-at-Hill; Royal Panopticon, Leicester Square; Holy Trinity, Paddington; St. George's Church and Ulster Hall, Belfast; Kinnaird Hall, Dundee, 1866; St. Paul's, Edinburgh, 1866; and Ely Cathedral, 1866. Died at Nice, December 17, 1886. Buried in Highgate Cemetery. Composer of Church Music, Organ Music, &c.

Dr. Chipp was not only a skilful violinist, but an Organist of considerable repute in his day. In an autograph letter, Mendelssohn, who heard him play his Sonata in A (No. 3), bears witness to his excellent rendering of that well-known composition.

(See under St. Asaph.)

In 1907-08 the organ was rebuilt and enlarged by Messrs. Harrison & Harrison, of Durham.

NOEL EDWARD PONSONBY, M.A., Oxon., 1916; Mus.B., Oxon., 1914 ... ... 1919 ——

Born at Cambridge, 1891. Chorister in St. George's Chapel, Windsor. Organist of Royal Naval College, Dartmouth, 1912. Director of Music at Marlborough College, 1915. Organist and Magister Choristarum, Ely Cathedral, 1919.

EXETER.

MATTHEW GODWIN, Mus.B., Oxon., 1585 ... ...(?)1584 1586

Previously Organist of Canterbury Cathedral. Died January 12, 1586. Buried under the North Tower of Exeter Cathedral, with the following Inscription:—

Matthei Godwin adolescentis pii mitis ingeniosii musicæ bacchalaurii dignissimi scientissimi
Ecclesiarum Cathed.: Cantuar: et Exon.; Archimusici.
Æternæ memoriæ posuit G : M : Fr : vixit annos XVII :
menses V: Hinc ad cœlos migravit XII Januarii, 1586.

(Translation by J. S. Bumpus.)

"G. M. Fr. placed this to the eternal memory of Matthew Godwin, a pious, gentle, and clever youth, Bachelor in Music and most skilful chief-musician of the Cathedrals of Canterbury and Exeter. He lived seventeen years and five months, and departed hence to heaven, 12 January, 1586."

ARTHUR COCK (or COCKE), Mus.B., Oxon., 1593 ... 1591 1601

Previously Organist of Canterbury Cathedral (1584-1590).

Supplicated for his degree in 1593, and was mentioned in this connection as Organist of Exeter Cathedral. In 1601 became Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, and Organist without pay "until an Organist's place shall become void." Died January 24, 1604. Some of his compositions are to be found in the Music School, Oxford.

[EDWARD GIBBONS, Mus.B., Cantab. et Oxon., 1592 1609 1644]

According to the Chapter books he was elected a Priest-Vicar, August 8, 1609, but there is no particular mention of him as Organist.

Elder brother of Dr. Orlando Gibbons. Born about 1570. Organist of King's College, Cambridge, 1592. [(?) Organist, Minor Canon, and Precentor of Bristol Cathedral, (?)1599.] Priest-Vicar and Custos of the College of Priest-Vicars of Exeter Cathedral, 1609-1644. Matthew Locke was one of his pupils. An Anthem by him, "How hath the citie sate solitary," is in the Tudway Collection.

At King's College, Cambridge, "Gibbins" (as he was more usually called) received 20s. a quarter as his salary, and 11s. 8d. for the instruction of the Choristers. He had to provide for the making and mending of the Choristers' clothes. At Exeter, in 1634, a complaint was made that he was in the habit of neglecting his duties, and he, with two other Vicars Choral, replied to the charge.

He is said to have assisted Charles I., at the time of the Rebellion, with the loan of £1,000, for which service he was afterwards deprived of his estates and rendered homeless in his eightieth year.

JOHN LUGG (or LUGGE) 1609 1640

There are several documents relating to John Lugg among the Domestic State Papers in the Record Office, London, 1617, in which he is referred to as Organist of Exeter Cathedral. He was suspected of Popish inclinations by the Privy Council, and his Bishop (William Cotton) was requested to examine him upon the matter. In the Bishop's reply to the Privy Council he excuses Lugg on account of his youth, and appends the documents of his examination and Lugg's protestation against Popery.

From these it appears that Lugg's brother (probably the Robert Lugg mentioned under St. John's College, Oxford, p. 156) had been brought up at Lisbon, and was possessed of strong Romish tendencies. John Lugg seems to have retained his post at Exeter, for he is mentioned again as organist in 1630. A number of his compositions are to be found among the MSS. in the Library of Christ Church, Oxford.

It has frequently been stated that HENRY LOOSEMORE, Mus.B., Cantab. (See under Cambridge—King's College), became Organist of Exeter Cathedral after the Restoration; but it can be proved by entries in the records of King's College, Cambridge, that he continued as Organist of the latter uninterruptedly from 1627 until his death in 1670.

In the Chapter records of Exeter, moreover, there is no mention whatever of any Loosemore but John, the organ-builder (probably a brother of Henry), concerning whom there are several entries during the period 1660-1665, in connection with the organ which he was then building for the Cathedral. One such entry, dated 1663, is to the effect that his charges were to be paid by the Dean and Chapter in riding to Salisbury, "to see the organ there, the better to inform himself to make the new organ of this Cathedral." Loosemore's organ was completed in 1665, and was long considered to be one of the finest in the country. It was highly praised by the Hon. Roger North on his visit to Exeter with his brother, the Lord Keeper Guildford. Macaulay's History of England also mentions it in connection with the visit to the Cathedral of William Prince of Orange. After undergoing several alterations and additions from time to time, the instrument was entirely rebuilt in 1891 by Willis.

Epitaph on John Loosemore, in the Cathedral:—

"Hic jacet spe Resurrectionis
Johannes Loosmore (sic), quondam Decano et Capitulo hujus Ecclesiæ Curator fidelissimus, et inter Artifices sui Generis facile Princeps. Sit organum hoc augustum prope situm perpetuum istius Artis et Ingenii Monumentum. Obiit 18 Aprilis an: 1681—ætat: suæ 68."

(Translation by J. S. Bumpus.)

"Here lies, in hope of the Resurrection, John Loos(e)more, formerly the most faithful Curator to the Dean and Chapter of this Church, and by far the chief among the workmen of his kind: may this noble organ, placed near, be a perpetual monument of his art and genius.

"He died 18 April, 1681, in the 68th year of his age."

THEODORE COLEBY (or COLBY) 1665 1674

Previously Organist of Magdalen College, Oxford.

Chapter Act, March 25, 1665. "Imprimis, they appoint Mr. Colby to be Organist of St. Peter's Church and Quire, and did allow him a salary for his paynes of fifty pounds per annum, and ordered a house to bee provided for him." May 26, 1667. "Item, they decreed that the Organist's place be confirmed upon Mr. Colby for the term of his natural life. . . . . and that the said Mr. Colby shall have and receive yearly for his salary the sum of sixty pounds." "A.D. 1667, Sept. 20. Admitted and sworn in the Colledge Hall, by the Custos, as Lay Vicar of the said

Colledge, Theodore Colby" (Registers of the College of Vicars, Exeter). In spite of these increasing emoluments Coleby appears to have experienced money difficulties, for in 1698 two sums—£47 16s. 6d. and £30—were ordered to be lent to him "for and toward the supplying of his present necessities." Absence from duty without leave could hardly be described as a fitting return to the Dean and Chapter for their interest in his welfare, and on Aug. 8, 1674, "Upon Mr. Colby's absenting himself, they pronounced the Organist's place of this Church to be void, and that Mr. Henry Hall should be admitted into the said Organist's place. At the same time "they ordered that thirtie pounds be given for the use of Mr. Colbie's children." Wood (Fasti) describes Coleby as "a German."

HENRY HALL (Senr.) ... ... 1674 (?)1686

Son of Captain Henry Hall, of Windsor. Born about 1655. Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Pupil of Dr. Blow. Organist of Exeter Cathedral, 1674; Organist (and Vicar Choral) of Hereford Cathedral, 1688. Took Holy Orders, 1698. Died 1707. Buried in the Cloister of Vicars' College, Hereford. Some of his Church Music is to be found in the Tudway Collection. He also acquired some celebrity as a poet.* His son (Henry Hall, Junr.) succeeded him as Organist of Hereford Cathedral.

{PETER PASMORE. / JOHN WHITE.}

They are mentioned together as Organists in 1686. The name of the latter, however, appears alone in 1693.

RICHARD HENMAN 1694 1741

Possibly the Richard Henman who was Chorister in the Chapel Royal, and took part in the Coronation of James II. In 1692 a warrant was issued for the allowance of "a livery for Richard Henman, late child of the Chapell Royall, whose voice is changed." (The King's Music, H. Cart de Lafontaine.)

Dismissed from his appointment at Exeter on June 27, 1741, "for his long absence and disorderly life."

An Anthem, "Have mercy," by Henman, in the Ely Collection, is probably his composition.

JOHN SILVESTER 1741 1753

"Silvester's note for pricking services £1 7s. 6d."
(Cathedral Act Books.)

RICHARD LANGDON 1753 1777

(See under Ely.)

WILLIAM JACKSON 1777 1803

Son of a grocer in Exeter. Born May 29, 1730. Pupil of Silvester and afterwards of John Travers in London. Returned to Exeter and established himself as a teacher. Appointed Organist to the Cathedral, 1777. Died July 5, 1803. Buried in the Vestry of St. Stephen's Church, Exeter. Composer of Operas, Odes, Songs, Sonatas, and a quantity of Church Music, including the once popular Service in F. Writer on musical and other subjects; also skilled as a painter. Thomas Gainsborough, the great artist, was one of his intimate friends.

* See the concluding lines of his Ode to Purcell on page 146.

Inscription on the white marble monument to Wm. Jackson, in the Vestry of St. Stephen's Church, Exeter:—

"In the Science of Music an eminent Professor, whose genius united elegant expression with pure and original melody and delicacy of harmonic combination. In painting, in literature, in every liberal study that enlightens the intellect, or expands the heart, his attainments were rare and distinguished: a writer, novel and acute in observation, a correct and discriminating critic: endeared to his select associates by a conversation and demeanour of impressive and fascinating simplicity. Born in this city xxix May, 1730. Died v July, 1803."

JAMES PADDON 1804 1835

Born at Exeter about 1768. Chorister in the Cathedral. Pupil of William Jackson. Organist of the Cathedral, 1804. Died 1835. Buried in the South Aisle of the Cathedral Nave. Composer of Church Music. Editor of Jackson's Cathedral Music.

SAMUEL SEBASTIAN WESLEY, Mus.D., Oxon. 1835 1842

(See under Gloucester.)

ALFRED ANGEL 1842 1876

Born 1816. Chorister in Wells Cathedral and afterwards Assistant-Organist there. Succeeded Dr. Wesley at Exeter Cathedral, 1842. Died at Exeter, May 24, 1876. Buried in the Old Cemetery. Composer of Church Music, Part-songs, &c. His Anthem, "Blow ye the trumpet in Zion," gained the Gresham Prize in 1842.

DANIEL JOSEPH WOOD, Mus.B., Oxon., 1874; Mus.D., Cantuar., 1896; F.R.C.O. 1876 1919

Born at Brompton near Chatham, August 25, 1849. Chorister in Rochester Cathedral, and afterwards Assistant-Organist there. Organist of Holy Trinity, New Brompton (Kent), 1864; Parish Church, Cranbrook, 1866; Parish Church, Lee, 1868; Parish Church, Boston (Lincs.), 1869; Chichester Cathedral, 1875; and Exeter Cathedral, 1876. Conductor of the Western Counties Musical Association, 1877. Died August 27, 1919. Composer of Church Music. Organ pieces, &c.

ERNEST BULLOCK, Mus.D., Dunelm., 1914; F.R.C.O. ... ... 1919 ——

Born in 1890. Pupil of Dr. E. C. Bairstow, at Leeds Parish Church. Assistant-Organist there, 1906-1912; Sub-Organist of Manchester Cathedral, 1912-1915. Served in H.M. Forces as Captain and Adjutant, 1915-1919 Organist of St. Michael's College, Tenbury, February to December, 1919. Composer of Church Music, Organ pieces, Songs, &c.

GLOUCESTER.

ROBERT LICHFIELD (or LEICHFIELD) 1562 1582

Inscription on a stone in the South Transept of the Cathedral:—"Here lyeth under this marbil ston; Robart Liechfield, Organist and Maister of the Choresters of this Cat(h)edral Church 20 yeres. He dyed the 6 of January, 1582."

ELIAS SMITH ... ... —— (?)1620

PHILIP HOSIER 1620 1638

BERKELEY WRENCH 1638 1640

JOHN OKER (or OKEOVER), Mus.B., Oxon. ... 1640 (?)1644

(See under Wells.)

ROBERT WEBB 1662 1664

The Accounts mention that at the time of the building of the organ by Harris (1665), "he was a-lying sick and poverty-stricken." There are several payments recorded in connection with his illness, burial, and his orphan daughter.

THOMAS LOWE 1665 1666

Evidently a relative of Edward Lowe, of Oxford Cathedral.
He came from Salisbury, the Dean and Chapter paying £10 towards his removal.

DANIEL HENSTRIDGE 1666 1673

One Daniel Henstridge is also mentioned as Organist of Rochester Cathedral and afterwards of Canterbury Cathedral; but he is more likely to be the son of this Daniel Henstridge of Gloucester.

CHARLES WREN 1673 1679

Previously Organist of Rochester Cathedral.

DANIEL ROSINGRAVE 1679 1681

(See under Dublin—Christ Church Cathedral.)

STEPHEN JEFFRIES (or JEFFERIES) 1682 1710

Born 1662. Chorister in Salisbury Cathedral and afterwards Assistant-Organist there. Appointed Organist of Gloucester Cathedral at the age of twenty. Composer of one of the melodies played by the Gloucester Cathedral chimes.* Died 1712.
Buried in the Cathedral Cloisters.

* A set of Variations on this melody has been written for the pianoforte together with pieces upon the other chime melodies by a recent Organist of Gloucester Cathedral, Mr. C. Lee Williams, Mus.B., and published by Messrs Novello.

31st Janry, 1684. Jefferies' first monition "for manifold neglect and unreasonable absence from the Church without leave desired or obtained."

8th Feby, 1688. Jefferies' second monition for playing over upon the organ a common ballad, "insomuch that the young gentlewomen invited one another to dance."*

5th Decr, 1699. Jefferies' first admonition for frequent absences, especially on Sunday mornings; but more particularly for not educating the Choristers in the grounds of music.

According to Hawkins ("History of Music," p. 770), there was a story concerning Jeffries amongst the Choirmen of Gloucester, who used to relate that: "To cure him of a habit of staying late at the tavern, his wife drest up a fellow in a winding-sheet, with directions to meet him with a lanthorn and candle in the cloisters through which he was to pass on his way home; but that, on attempting to terrify him, Jeffries expressed his wonder only by saying 'I thought all you spirits had been abed before this time.'" Hawkins also gives the following story as a proof of Jeffries's eccentric character: "A singer from a distant church, with a good voice, had been requested and undertook to sing a solo anthem in Gloucester Cathedral, and for that purpose took his station at the elbow of the organist in the organ loft. Jeffries, who found him trip in the performance, instead of palliating his mistake and setting him right, immediately rose from his seat, and leaning over the gallery, called out aloud to the choir and the whole congregation—'He can't sing it!'"

William Hine 1710 1730

Born at Brightwell, 1687. Chorister in Magdalen College, Oxford. Pupil of Jeremiah Clark.† Succeeded Stephen Jeffries as Organist of Gloucester Cathedral. It is said that, in consideration of his musical skill and gentlemanly qualities, his salary was augmented by £20 a year. Died August 28, 1730. Buried in the Cathedral Cloisters. Some Anthems and an Organ Voluntary by him were published after his death, under the title of "Harmonia Sacra Glocestriensis," edited by his widow. He was joint composer, with Hall, Junr., of the Morning Service known as Hall and Hine in E flat.‡

* "8th Feby, 1688. Mr. Subdean pronounced against Mr. Stephen Jefferies, Organist of this Church, his second monition to depart this Church, for that he, the said Stephen Jefferies, did upon Thursday last in the morning (being the Thanksgiving day), immediately after the sermon ended and the Blessing given, play over upon the organ a common ballad in the hearing of 1500 or 2000 people, to the great scandal of religion, prophanation of the Church, and grevious offence of all good Christians. And further, because though Dr. Gregory (the Senior Prebendary of this Church) did immediately express his great detestation of the same to Mr. Deighton, the Chaunter of this Church, and Mr. John Tyler, the senior singingman of the Choir, informing them of the unspeakable scandal that universally was taken at it, and that they immediately acquainted the said Stephen Jefferies therewith, yet he, the said Stephen Jefferies, in direct despite to religion, and affront to the said Dr. Gregory, did after evening prayer, as soon as the last Amen was ended, in the presence and hearing of all the congregation, fall upon the same strain, and on the organ played over the same common ballad again; insomuch that the young gentlewomen invited one another to dance, the strangers cryed it were better that the organs were pulled down than they should be so used, and all sorts declared that the Dean and Chapter could never remove the scandal if they did not immediately turn away so insolent and profane a person out of the Church."

† "From whom," says Dr. Arnold ("Succinct Account" of Hine—Cath. Mus.), "he imbibed his master's excellence, and became distinguished for his elegant manner of playing the Church Service."

‡ Dr. William Hayes wrote a Communion and Evening Service in continuation of this, the correct title of the whole Service being Hall, Hine, and Hayes.

A tablet to his memory on the Cloister wall bears the following inscription:—

M. S. Gulielmi Hine,
hujusce Ecclesiæ Cathedralis
Organistæ et Choristarum Magistri.
Qui morum candore et eximiâ in arte cœlesti peritiâ omnium amorem et admirationem, venerandi autem
Decani et Capituli gratium (voluntario Stipendii incremento testatum) meritissimo affecutus est. Morte præmatura ereptus
Obiit Aug. 28vo, Anno Christi 1730, ætatis 43.

BARNABAS GUNN 1730 1740

Previously Organist of St. Philip's, Birmingham. Died 1743. His extempore playing is said to have been remarkable. A Te Deum and Jubilate by him are extant in MS. He published "Two Cantatas and Six Songs" (to which Handel was one of the subscribers), and some Sonatas for the harpsichord.

MARTIN SMITH 1740 1782

Father of John Stafford Smith, Master of the Children and Organist of the Chapel Royal. The words of Anthems by him are included in Marshall's Collection.

WILLIAM MUTLOW 1782 1832

Born 1761. Chorister in the Cathedral. Succeeded Martin Smith as Organist, 1782. First conducted the Festival of the Three Choirs, 1790, and continued as conductor of the Gloucester performances until his death in 1832. Buried in the Cloisters. His Verse Anthem, "Unto Thee, O Lord," was included in one of Novello's early Catalogues. A Chant by him is to be found in Dr. Beckwith's Collection.

As a boy, Mutlow was very fat, and it is related of him that he once fell from the Triforium into the Choir, bouncing like an india-rubber ball, and was not in the least hurt. The truth of this story cannot be vouched for.

The following description in Henry Phillips's "Musical and Personal Recollections during Half-a-Century" is said to apply to Mutlow: "A gentleman of eccentric habits and appearance, very short and fat, an epicure of no ordinary stamp, the length of whose arm was as near as possible the measure of his baton." The anecdotes which Phillips relates concerning this "conductor" of a "celebrated triennial festival" should, like many others to be found in his book, be taken cum grano salis. After describing a scarcely credible practical joke which he alleges that Malibran, Braham, and Loder played upon Mutlow at a morning performance of the Festival, by arranging with the band that not a note should be sounded upon his giving the signal to start a certain piece, he (Phillips) goes on to say: "When this little conductor gave a lesson on the pianoforte it was always in a room next to the kitchen: in the middle of the lesson he would say, 'There, go on; I can hear ye, I'm only going to baste the air' (hare); so he walked into the kitchen, did what he proposed, came back, and finished the lesson. The Queen's English was a matter sadly disregarded by this gentleman: . . . when going out he would call to the servant, 'Hann, where's my at?' He was, however, a kind, good-tempered soul, took all that happened in the best part, and when the Festival had terminated said—'Some very droll things have occurred this week; but never mind, come and dine with me, and we'll enjoy the haunch of venison, and drink success to the next Festival in some of the finest port in England.'"

JOHN AMOTT 1832 1865

Born at Monmouth, 1798. Pupil of W. Mutlow. Appointed Organist of the Abbey Church, Shrewsbury, 1820. Succeeded Mutlow at Gloucester. Died February 3, 1865. Buried in Gloucester Cemetery. Composer of Services and Anthems. Compiler of "A selection of Chants, Kyrie Eleison, &c., arranged in Score." A Sanctus and Kyrie in G, by him, were printed in Bunnett's "Sacred Harmony" (1865). One of the compilers of "Annals of the Three Choirs."

SAMUEL SEBASTIAN WESLEY, Mus.D., Oxon., 1839 1865 1876

Son of Samuel Wesley and grandson of the Rev. Charles Wesley, the hymn writer. Born in London, August 14, 1810. Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Organist of St. James's Chapel, Hampstead Road, 1826; St. Giles's, Camberwell, January 12, 1829; St. John's, Waterloo Road, 1829; Parish Church, Hampton-on-Thames, 1830; Hereford Cathedral, 1832; Exeter Cathedral, 1835; Leeds Parish Church, 1842; Winchester Cathedral, 1849; Winchester College, 1850; and Gloucester Cathedral, 1865. Died at Gloucester, April 19, 1876. Buried in the Old Cemetery, Exeter. There is a tablet to his memory in the North Aisle of the Nave at Exeter Cathedral, one also in the North Choir Aisle of Winchester Cathedral, and a stained glass window in the South Chantry of the Lady Chapel at Gloucester Cathedral. Distinguished Church composer and Organist. Composer of Church Music, Odes, Madrigals, Organ pieces, Pianoforte pieces, Songs, &c. Author of pamphlets on Cathedral Music. Editor of a "Selec ion of Psalms and Hymns" and "The European Psalmist" (1872). There is an interesting Organ book at Hereford Cathedral containing the organ part of Wesley's Anthem, "The Wilderness," in the composer's own handwriting. The same book also contains his "Blessed be the God and Father," and "O God, Whose nature and property."

Dr. Wesley was a prominent advocate of reform in musical matters at our Cathedrals, and wrote and lectured with considerable insight and ability on the subject. But his efforts to obtain from the Cathedral authorities a larger amount of interest, and to place the musical service on a higher and more satisfactory footing, were only partly successful during his lifetime; and being a man of unusually sensitive temperament, it is more than probable that the many troubles and disappointments which he experienced in his Cathedral duties, helped in a great measure to shorten his days.

There can be no doubt that these troubles largely accounted for the migratory character of his career as a Cathedral Organist.

The following extracts from a pamphlet by him, entitled "A few words on Cathedral Music and the Musical System of the Church, with a plan of Reform" (London: Rivingtons, 1849), will serve to illustrate one or two of his views:—

"Painful and dangerous is the position of a young musician who, after acquiring great knowledge of his art in the Metropolis, joins a country Cathedral. At first he can scarcely believe that the mass of error and inferiority in which he has to participate is habitual and irremediable. He thinks he will reform matters, gently, and without giving offence; but he soon discovers that it is his approbation and not his advice that is needed. The choir is 'the best in England' (such being the belief at most Cathedrals), and, if he give trouble in his attempts at improvement, he would be, by some Chapters, at once voted a person with whom they 'cannot go on smoothly,' and 'a bore.'

. . . . . .

"He must learn to tolerate error, to sacrifice principle, and yet to indicate, by his outward demeanour, the most perfect satisfaction in his office, in which, if he fail, he will assuredly be worried and made miserable. If he resign his situation a hundred less scrupulous candidates soon appear, not one of whom feels it a shame to accept office on the terms, and his motives being either misunderstood, or misrepresented wilfully, or both, no practical good results from the step."

Referring to the careless performances and to the inferior quality of the music often performed, he says:—

"The illusive and fascinating effect of musical sound in a Cathedral unfortunately serves to blunt criticism, and casts a veil over defects otherwise unbearable. No coat of varnish can do for a picture what the exquisitely reverberating qualities of a Cathedral do for music. And then, the organ! what a multitude of sins does that cover!"

His argument with those who would have nothing but Plain-song in the musical service is thoroughly characteristic and convincing:—

"Some would reject all music but the unisonous Chants of a period of absolute barbarism—which they term 'Gregorian.' All is 'Gregorian' that is in the black, diamond note! These men would look a Michael Angelo in the face and tell him Stonehenge was the perfection of architecture."

Here is another characteristic passage referring to the want of support many composers of eminence have experienced, and their pecuniary embarrassments resulting therefrom:—

"Why should we not have monuments to perpetuate the fame of those who neglect their duty, as well as of those who perform it?"

As a part of his "Plan of Reform" he suggests that the minimum number of lay singers at one Cathedral should be fixed at twelve, with the addition of a few competent volunteer members. He considers it absolutely necessary that there should be a Musical College for the efficient training of Cathedral Organists and Singers, every Cathedral being required to contribute to its support.

The Cathedral Organist "should in every instance be a professor of the highest ability—a master in the most elevated departments of composition—and efficient in the conducting and superintendence of a choral body."

One of the concluding sentences of the pamphlet runs thus:—

"Amongst the dignitaries of the Church are several distinguished persons who are fully alive to the high interests of music, and who do not forget that whatever is offered to God should be as faultless as man can make it. Music should not be compelled to bring her worst gift to the altar! Is it too much to ask of them some public effort in support of Cathedral Music? From whom could it so well come?"

On the recommendation of Mr. Gladstone, Wesley was offered the honour of knighthood, with the alternative of a Civil List pension of £100 per annum, for his distinguished services to Church Music. He chose the latter, remarking that "it was a nice little nest egg." This pension was continued to his widow. The last time Dr. Wesley played the organ in Gloucester Cathedral was on the afternoon of Christmas Day, 1875. Before the Service was over he asked his assistant, Mr. C. E. Clarke, for an old full score of "The Messiah," which he kept in the organ loft, and from it he played, as the concluding voluntary, the "Hallelujah" chorus, an unusual thing for him to do, as he generally extemporized or played one of Bach's Fugues from memory. He never touched the Cathedral organ again, and in April of the following year the gifted brain and clever fingers were at rest. His last words were, "Let me see the sky," a fitting request from a man of such high ideals and noble inspirations.

CHARLES HARFORD LLOYD, M.A., Oxon., 1875; Mus.D., Oxon., 1892; F.R.C.O. 1876 1882

Born at Thornbury, Gloucester, October 16, 1849. Graduated in Arts and Music at Magdalen Hall, Oxford Succeeded Dr. Wesley at Gloucester. Conductor of the Gloucester Festivals, 1877 and 1880. The organ has recently (1920) been rebuilt and enlarged by Messrs. Harrison & Harrison, of Durham, to a specification by Dr. Brewer. This rebuild was the gift of Sir James and Lady Horlick, in memory of their son, who was killed on Active Service.

HEREFORD.

THOMAS MASON ... ... —— ——

Organist in 1581.

Probably a son or other relative of John Mason, Mus.B., Oxon., who was Treasurer of the Cathedral, and died in 1547.

JOHN HODGE ... ... —— ——

JOHN BULL, Mus.D., Cantab. (circa 1591) et Oxon., 1592 ... 1582 (?)1585

Born c. 1563. Chorister in the Chapel Royal, under Blitheman. Organist of Hereford Cathedral, 1582. Admitted a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, 1585. Joint-Organist, with Blitheman, of the Chapel Royal, 1588. Organist, 1591. First Gresham Professor of Music, 1596,* but compelled to resign his Professorship on his marriage in 1607. "Went beyond the seas without license" (Chapel Royal Cheque Book), 1613, and became Organist of the Chapel Royal at Brussels. Organist of the Cathedral of Notre Dame, Antwerp, 1617. Died March 13, 1628. Buried in Notre Dame, Antwerp. Distinguished Organist and Composer of Church Music, Madrigals, Pieces for the Virginals, Organ, &c. To John Bull has been attributed the authorship of the music of our National Anthem, "God save the King," but the authority for this seems doubtful.

In 1601 Bull went abroad for the benefit of his health, having obtained permission to appoint Thomas Bird (son of William Bird, Organist of Lincoln Cathedral and afterwards of the Chapel Royal) as his deputy Gresham lecturer. While travelling through France incognito a famous musician showed him a song in forty parts, challenging anybody to add another part to it. Bull asked to be left alone with the score, which request being granted, he added forty more parts to it. On seeing these additions the famous musician burst into an ecstasy, declaring that the writer must be either the Devil or John Bull!

THOMAS MASON (Reappointed) ... ... 1589 (?)1592

"To be Organist for one whole year." †

JOHN FARRANT‡ 1592 1593

(See also under Ely.

December 24, 1598, he "was sconced for railing and contumelious speeches to Mr. Chotas in the hall at supper time."

* He was unable to deliver his lectures in Latin, according to the custom of his colleagues. An ordinance was therefore made in 1597, permitting him to read them in English. This permission has been extended to all subsequent Gresham Professors of Music.

† The appointment was probably made year by year.

‡ This Organist was a member of the College of Vicars Choral, and consequently in Holy Orders.

Chapter Act Book, December 24, 1593.

"Item tunc et ibidem admiserunt Johannem Fydo, laicum, in musicis peritum, ad officium pulsator organi. Qui in organistam in dicta ecclesia Cathedralis cum omnibus feodis, juribus, et proficuis eidem officio spectantibus fuit admissus, prestitio prius per eundem juramento de renuntiando" (&c.).

Dismissed by the Vicars, February 22, 1594.

"Item y^e^ said day and place y^e^ Custos and Vicars aforesaid and y^r^ greater number of y^m^ concluded and agreed not to allow Jo Fidow not (sic) to be y^e^ Organist, neither to pay him any wage, therefore neither to admitt him nor to allow him to come to there house and Comons. This Act was made ag^t^ him for y^t^ he gave out most slanderous words ag^t^ y^e^ Custos and company."

Appointed Organist of Worcester Cathedral, 1595-1596. Reappointed at Hereford for a short time (notwithstanding his previous dismissal) in 1597. Eventually returned to Worcester, and was appointed Minor Canon and Assistant-Organist to Thomas Tomkins. After various admonitions he was suspended there in 1633, but he reappears in the Records there in 1639. Died about 1640. His Anthem, "Hear me, O Lord," is to be found in the Peterhouse (Cambridge), and Barnard Collections.

—— GIBBS 1595 1597

JOHN FIDO (or FIDOW).

Reappointed for a short time in 1597.

WILLIAM JUGLOTT (or INGLOTT?) ... ... 1597 -

Inglott may possibly have taken duty here for a time. (See under Norwich.)

HUGH DAVIES (or DAVIS), Mus.B., Oxon.,[1623]* ... 1630 (?)1644

Vicar Choral, and afterwards Custos (or Warden) of the Vicars Choral.

Wood (Fasti., Oxon.) mentions that he was famous for his Church compositions.

An Act in the College books relating to him orders "that he be spared from the Choir so that he be ready in y^e^ Organ loft to play before y^e^ reading of y^e^ first Lesson."

JOHN BADHAM* ... ... 1661 (?)1688

Vicar Choral.

"1678. On April 27 John Badham took to his assistance Mr. R^bt^. Griffiths one of y^e^ Vicars Choral."

HENRY HALL (Senr.)* 1688 1707

(See under Exeter.)

* These Organists were members of the College of Vicars Choral, and consequently in Holy Orders.

HENRY HALL (Junr.) 1707 1713

Son of the foregoing. Succeeded his father in the appointment. Died January 22, 1713.

None of his compositions are extant, but it appears that as a poet he was even more gifted than his father.

EDMUND TOMSON (or THOMPSON) ... ... 1713 (?)1721

HENRY SWARBRICK (or SCHWARBROOK) 1721 1754

Supposed to have been a relative of Thomas Schwarbrook, the organ-builder. Died 1754.

A Morning Service by him in MS. is at Hereford. In a curious old oblong MS. volume of Single Chants written on parchment, formerly in the possession of the late J. S. Bumpus, there is a Chant by "Mr. Henry Swarbrick, Organist of Hereford, in E lami."

RICHARD CLACK* 1754 1779

Vicar Choral. Died 1779. Buried in the Cathedral. According to "Annals of the Three Choirs" he was Conductor of the Hereford Festivals of 1759 and 1765.

The performance of Handel's "Messiah," conducted by him in the Cathedral, at the Festival of 1759, was probably the first instance of the rendering, in a Cathedral, of a complete Oratorio at these Festivals.

WILLIAM PERRY ... ... 1779 (?)1789

The Cathedral records give this name and date; but "Annals of the Three Choirs" states that the music at the Hereford Festival of 1780 "was conducted by Mr Coyle, Organist of Hereford Cathedral. He succeeded Richard Clack."

MILES COYLE ... ... 1789 (?)1805

Previously Organist of Ludlow Parish Church. Conductor of the Hereford Festivals, 1780-1804. Composer of "Six Lessons for the Harpsichord," &c.

The following appeal from him to the Dean and Chapter appears in the Act Books:—

"The Organist in consideration of his time being much occupied with Pupils, requests the Dean and Chapter to dispense with his playing a voluntary before the Communion Service on Holidays, except on Christmas Day, the State Holidays and when the Bishop visits or confirms. Miles Coyle."

CHARLES JAMES DARE 1805 1818

Conductor of the Hereford Festivals, 1807-1816. Resigned 1818. Died 1820. Composer of a Service in G, which always used to be sung at Hereford on Audit Days. There is an Anthem by him, "I will call upon the Lord," in the Music Books at Gloucester Cathedral.

AARON UPJOHN HAYTER 1818 1820

Born at Gillingham, December 16, 1799. Chorister in Salisbury Cathedral, and afterwards pupil of and assistant to A. T. Corfe. Succeeded C. J. Dare as Organist of Hereford. Conductor of the Hereford Festival of 1819. Resigned the post at Hereford, and became Organist of the Collegiate

* See footnote, p. 54.

Church, Brecon. Went to America, 1835. Organist of Grace Church, New York. Organist of Trinity Church, Boston, 1837. Organist (and Musical Adviser) to the Handel and Haydn Society, 1838. Died in Boston, 1873. There is a MS. Evening Service in E flat by him, at Hereford, and an Anthem, "Withdraw not Thou," is included in the Rev. W. Cooke's Words of Anthems, printed for the use of Hereford Cathedral (1825).

His name is mentioned in "Musical and Personal Recollections during Half-a-Century," by Henry Phillips; and the valuable services which he rendered to the Handel and Haydn Society, in Boston, are recorded in the published "History" of that Society, compiled by Charles C. Perkins, and issued in Boston, 1886.

JOHN CLARKE-WHITFELD, Mus.B., Oxon., 1793; Mus.D., Dub., 1795; Cantab., 1799; et Oxon., 1810... 1820 1832

Originally John Clarke, but on the death of his maternal uncle, H. Fotherley Whitfeld, 1814, he adopted his name. Born at Gloucester, December 13, 1770. Pupil of Dr. P. Hayes, at Oxford. Organist of the Parish Church, Ludlow, 1789; Master of the Choristers of Christ Church and St. Patrick's Cathedrals, Dublin, 1793; Organist of Armagh Cathedral, 1794; Trinity and St. John's Colleges, Cambridge, 1799; Hereford Cathedral, 1820; University Professor of Music, Cambridge, 1821. Retired from the post at Hereford, 1832. Died at Holmer, near Hereford, February 22, 1836. Buried in the East Walk of the Bishop's Cloister, Hereford Cathedral. Composer of an Oratorio, "The Crucifixion and Resurrection," Church Music, Glees, Songs, &c.

SAMUEL SEBASTIAN WESLEY, Mus.D., Oxon. ... 1832 1835

(See under Gloucester.)

JOHN HUNT 1835 1842

Born at Marnhull, Dorset, December 30, 1806. Chorister in Salisbury Cathedral, and afterwards pupil of A. T. Corfe. Lay Vicar of Lichfield Cathedral, 1827, and Organist of the Church attached to St. John's Almshouses in that city. Succeeded Dr. S. S. Wesley at Hereford, 1835. Conductor of the Hereford Musical Festivals. Died November 17, 1842, from the results of a fall over a dinner wagon, laden with plates and glasses, which had carelessly been left in a dark part of the Cloisters after an Audit dinner. His adopted nephew, a Chorister in the Cathedral, died three days afterwards from the effects of the shock of his uncle's death, and both bodies were buried in the same grave. There is a window to his memory and that of his nephew in the North Aisle of the Choir of the Cathedral.

A volume of his Glees and Songs, with a memoir prefixed, was published by subscription in 1843. His Tune, "Hereford" and a Double Chant are included in Hackett's "National Psalmody."

GEORGE TOWNSHEND SMITH 1843 1877

Son of Edward Smith, a Lay Clerk of St. George's Chapel, Windsor. Born at Windsor, November 14, 1813. Chorister in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, under Skeats. Pupil of Dr. S. S. Wesley. Organist of the Old Parish Church, Eastbourne; St. Margaret's, Lynn. Succeeded J. Hunt, at Hereford, 1843. Conductor and Hon. Secretary of the Hereford Festivals. Died suddenly, August 3, 1877. There is a stained glass window to his memory in the Cathedral. Composer of Church Music. A Jubilate by him was written expressly for and performed at the Hereford Festival of 1855; and an Anthem, "O how amiable," was composed for and produced at the re-opening Service at Hereford Cathedral, after its restoration, in 1863.*

LANGDON COLBORNE, Mus.B., Cantab., 1864; Mus.D., Cantuar., 1883 ... ... 1877 1889

Born at Hackney, September 15, 1835. Pupil of George Cooper. Organist of St. Michael's College, Tenbury, 1860; Beverley Minster, 1874; Wigan Parish Church, 1875; Dorking Parish Church, 1877, succeeding J. Townshend Smith at Hereford the same year. Conductor of the Hereford Festivals. Died September 16, 1889. There is a stained glass window to his memory in the Cathedral. Composer of an Oratorio, "Samuel," Church Music, Part-songs, Songs, &c.

GEORGE ROBERTSON SINCLAIR, Mus. D., Cantuar., 1899 ... ... 1889 1917

Born at Croydon, October 28, 1862. Student at the Royal Irish Academy of Music. Chorister in, and afterwards Assistant-Organist at, St. Michael's College, Tenbury. Pupil of Dr. C. Harford Lloyd, and Assistant-Organist of Gloucester Cathedral. Organist of St. Mary-le-Crypt, Gloucester, 1879; Truro Cathedral, 1881; Hereford Cathedral, 1889. Conductor of the Hereford Festivals, Hereford Choral Society, Hereford Orchestral Society, Birmingham Festival Choral Society, &c. Died suddenly at Birmingham, February 7, 1917. Composer of Church Music, &c.

The new organ in Truro Cathedral, by Willis, was built under Dr. Sinclair's direction; and during his appointment at Hereford the sum of £2,300 was raised through his energy, and the Cathedral organ rebuilt (also by Willis) from his specification.

PERCY CLARKE HULL, F.R.C.O.... ... ... 1918 ——

Born at Hereford, October 27, 1878. Chorister in Hereford Cathedral under Drs. Colborne and Sinclair. Pupil of Dr. Sinclair and afterwards Assistant-Organist of the Cathedral, 1896-1914. Interned as a prisoner in Germany, 1914-1918. Returned to England and was appointed Organist of Hereford Cathedral on Armistice Day, 1918. Conductor of the Hereford Festivals from 1921, Hereford Choral Society, Herefordshire Orchestral Society, Lecturer in Music at Hereford Training College.

* For the same occasion there were also written Ouseley's eight-part Service in C and his Anthem, "Blessed be Thou"; also Goss's "Stand up and bless." During the work of restoration (1842-1850) the Choral Services were entirely abandoned in the Cathedral, and were held in All Saints' Church. On Easter Day, 1850, the Services were resumed in the Nave, and on June 30, 1863, the Cathedral was re-opened in its entirety.

LICHFIELD.

It is much to be regretted that so little information is available regarding the pre-Restoration Organists of Lichfield Cathedral. None of the Chapter Books survived the siege of the city and Cathedral during the period of the Civil Wars, and only scanty evidence can be gathered from other sources. Even the earlier post-Restoration Organists are so insufficiently distinguished in the Books from the Vicars Choral as to make a complete record of them impossible. I am, however, much indebted to the Rev. E. Bradley, M.A., Priest-Vicar, Sacrist, and Deputy-Librarian, for the few additional items of information which appear in the present edition.

According to Bishop Hacket's Statutes, "the Organist is reckoned as one of the Lay Vicars, whose salary as an Organist is to be £4 for himself, and 6s. 8d. for an Organ blower." These Statutes are still in force at the present day, in regard to the Organist, his salary being £4 per annum, largely augmented by that of a Vicar Choral and by other perquisites.

MICHAEL ESTE, Mus.B., Cantab., 1606 ... ...(?)1618 (?)1638
(His name is variously given as ESTE, EST, EASTE, and EAST.)

Supposed to be son of the famous printer and music publisher, Thomas Este. Appointed Vicar Choral and Master of the Choristers of Lichfield Cathedral about 1618. Probably also took duty as Organist. Composer of Church Music, Madrigals, "Duos and Fancies for Viols," &c. Contributor to 'The Triumphs of Oriana." A work by him, entitled "The Sixt Set of Bookes, wherein are Anthemes for Versus, and Chorus of 5 and 6 parts; apt for Violls and Voices," is dedicated to Dr. John Williams, Bishop of Lincoln. This worthy prelate, who was a perfect stranger to Este, had settled upon him an annuity for life, in return for the pleasure he had experienced in hearing some of the composer's Motets. A number of Este's Anthems, with accompaniment for viols, were published by the Musical Antiquarian Society in 1845, under the editorship of Dr. E. F. Rimbault.

HENRY HINDE ... ...(?)1637 1641

In a book entitled "The Life of Elias Ashmole, Esq.," occurs the following entry in his diary:—

"Mr. Henry Hinde, Organist of the Cathedral [Lichfield], who died the 6th of August, 1641, taught me the virginels and organ."

There is an Anthem by him, "Sing Praises," in Barnard's Collection.

WILLIAM LAMB (Senr.) ... ...(?)1662 1688

Probably the first Organist appointed after the Restoration. He was Organist in 1683. "Mr. Lamb, Senior, died March 2, 1688." This information occurs on the fly-leaf of the Primus Contra-Tenor part of Barnard, at Lichfield.

(?) WILLIAM LAMB (Junr.) ... ... (?)1688 ——

He was Organist in 1690 and in 1694.
(According to the fly-leaf above mentioned.)

A MS. Book at Lichfield contains an Anthem, "Lord, who shall dwell," by Mr. William Lamb, Junr.

From a note in another of the Barnard Part-books, it would appear that Lamb, Junr., unlawfully claimed the authorship of a Service by a composer named Berchinshaw.

GEORGE LAMB ... ... —— 1749

Buried December 23, 1749, according to the Cathedral registers.

In the Muniment Room of the Cathedral there is a deposition of Thomas Cotterell, organ-builder, as to peculations of George Lamb, Vicar Choral and Organist. Mention is therein made of "a little organ in the Lady Choir." This organ is still in the possession of the Dean and Chapter.*

The following lines appear on the front of the organ in blue and gold:—

"Hinc venti dociles resono se carcere solvunt; Et Cantum accepta pro Libertate rependunt."

An English rendering of these lines, by Anna Seward (the "swan" of Lichfield), is given on a sheet of paper pasted to one of the panels:—

"The docile gales, that here imprisoned dwell,
Do thou release from every hollow cell.
They for their freedom shall the gift repay
With sounds respondent to thy dulcet lay."
—ANNA SEWARD, Oct. 15, 1781.

There is also a letter from George Lamb to the Dean and Chapter complaining of Cotterell's dishonesty.

JOHN ALCOCK, Mus.D., Oxon., 1761 ... ... 1750 1760

Born in London, 1715. Chorister in St. Paul's Cathedral. Pupil of the blind Organist, John Stanley. Organist of St. Andrew's, Plymouth, 1737; St. Lawrence's, Reading, 1741; Lichfield Cathedral, 1750; Sutton Coldfield Parish Church, 1761-1786; St. Editha's, Tamworth, 1766-1790; also Private Organist to the Earl of Donegal. He suffered in health through attending to his duties in the damp, neglected Cathedral, and resigned the appointment of Organist; but continued to be a Vicar Choral until his death in 1806. Buried in the Cathedral. Composer of Church Music, Songs, and Instrumental pieces. Author of a novel, "The Life of Miss Fanny Brown."

Alcock had in contemplation the issue of a collection of Church Music by various composers. But upon hearing of Dr. Greene's intention, not only to make a similar compilation, but to supply the principal choirs with copies of the same at his own expense, he generously handed over to Greene all the material which he had then collected for his own work, probably feeling that his own chances of success were small under the circumstances.†

In the Preface to a volume of his own Anthems, published in 1771, occurs the following foot-note, which may be taken as an illustration of the somewhat peculiar and over-sensitive nature of its writer, rather than of any real injustice to him on the part of the Cathedral authorities:—

"'Tis incredible what a number of baſe Artifices have been practiced by ſome People belonging to this Cathedral, in Order to prejudice me, in my Profeſſion, and diſtreſs my Family, for no cauſe whatever: Nay, even my Son,‡ as ſoon as ever he began to play for me, was turned out from being a choriſter, tho' he had been in the choir but two Years, and his Voice, (which was a very uſeful one,) not the leaſt fallen; when many of the Lads

* There must have been two organs in the Cathedral in earlier times, for on a Visitation of Archbishop Laud it was suggest-d by him that the two pairs of organs should be made into a single pair (1635)! His suggestion was not acted upon.

† The late J. S. Bumpus had in his possession a copy of Alcock's "Divine Harmony; or a Collection of Fifty-five Double and Single Chants for Four Voices, as they are sung at the Cathedral of Lichfield" (1752), perhaps the only copy now in existence, at the end of which is sewn up, between some blank pages, an interesting prospective "Advertisement," by Alcock, of his intended compilation of Services and Anthems.

‡ This must have been John Alcock, Mus.B., Oxon., who became Organist of St. Mary Magdalen, Newark-on-Trent in 1758, and of the Parish Church, Walsall, in 1773, and died 1791.

All the Time I was Organiſt, which was upwards of Ten Years, there was not a Book in the Organ-loft fit for Uſe, but what I bought, or wrote myſelf, (for which I never was paid one Halfpenny,) and yet there have been as many Books purchaſed, within theſe few Years, as have coſt, at leaſt, Thirty Guineas."

To use it like a Giant."—Shakespeare.

WILLIAM BROWN 1766 1807

A native of Worcester. Died March 3, 1807, aged 70. Buried (on March 11, 1807) in the North Transept of the Cathedral.

SAMUEL SPOFFORTH 1807 1864

Younger brother of Reginald Spofforth, the Glee writer. Born 1780. Pupil of his uncle, Thomas Spofforth, of Southwell. Chorister in Southwell Minster. Organist of Peterborough Cathedral, 1799; of Lichfield Cathedral, 1807. Died 1864. Buried in the Cathedral Close, Lichfield. His Double Chant in G was once a favourite.

THOMAS BEDSMORE 1864 1881

Born at Lichfield, 1833. Chorister in the Cathedral. Pupil of S. Spofforth, and Assistant-Organist at the Cathedral. Organist, 1864. Held several other appointments in and around Lichfield, in addition to that at the Cathedral. Died 1881. Buried in the Cathedral Close. Composer of Church Music, Songs, Pianoforte pieces, &c. The Cathedral Library contains six Anthems by him.

There is a handsome memorial brass to him on the wall of the North Choir Aisle.

JOHN BROWNING LOTT, Mus.B., Oxon., 1876; F.R.C.O. ... ... 1881 ——

Born at Faversham, 1849. Chorister in Canterbury Cathedral. Pupil of T. E. Jones and Dr. Longhurst, and Organist successively of St. Dunstan's and St. Paul's Churches, Canterbury. Assistant-Organist of Canterbury Cathedral, 1873. Organist of the Parish Church, Margate, 1875. Organist of Lichfield Cathedral, 1881. Conductor of the Lichfield Musical Society. On December 11, 1905, Mr. Lott was presented with a testimonial in recognition of his twenty-five years' services as Conductor of this Society. Composer of Church Music, Part-songs, &c. Joint editor, with Mr. (now Dr.) C. Charlton Palmer, of a series of Arrangements for the Organ.

In 1908 the organ was removed to its present position in the Triforium, at the suggestion of Sir George Martin, the work of reconstruction and enlargement being entrusted to Messrs. Hill & Son. It was reopened with special thanksgiving Services on June 30 of that year.

LIMERICK.

There was a pre-Reformation Foundation for the Vicars Choral, but the post of Organist as a separate office was not provided for until the time of Bishop Adams (1604-1625).

RICHARD FULLER 1601 1642
Possibly the Richard Fuller who was Organist of Salisbury Cathedral from 1595 to 1598.
In 1642 Fuller declared himself a Roman Catholic, and resigned.

RICHARD BURGH was Organist in 1665.

ANTHONY MOSS 1680 1693

JOHN HUSBANDS 1693 1720
Probably a relative of William and Charles Husbands, Organists of Christ Church, Oxford.

ROBERT CORFE (Vicar Choral) 1721 1725

ANTHONY SAMPSON... ... ... 1725 1748

CHARLES OSBORNE 1748 1784

CHARLES GRADY OSBORNE (Vicar Choral) ... 1784 1799

GEORGE WILLIAM OSBORNE 1799 1834
Father of G. A. Osborne, a well-known musician for many years resident in London. The latter took duty at Limerick for his father for about one year, 1834-1835.

GEORGE FREDERICK HANDEL ROGERS 1835 1885
Born 1806. Appointed Vicar Choral, 1861. Resigned, 1885. Died, 1892.
The Choral Foundation ceased, after the Disestablishment of the Church of Ireland, in 1871.

FRANK MUSPRATT ... ... 1885 ——
Born in London, 1860. Pupil of Frederick Gunton, Organist of Chester Cathedral. Afterwards Pupil-Assistant to Sir Frederick Bridge at Westminster Abbey. Organist of St. Mary's, Ealing, 1882; Limerick Cathedral, 1885.

LINCOLN.

I am greatly indebted to the following sources for much of the information given below concerning the Lincoln Organists:—

"A short account of the Vicars Choral, Poor Clerks, Organists, and Choristers of Lincoln Cathedral" (Canon A. R. Maddison), together with a series of papers by the same author, read before the Lincoln Archæological Society, and various extracts from "The Chapter Acts of Lincoln Cathedral" (Canon R. E. G. Coles), kindly supplied to me by Dr. W. H. Grattan-Flood.

JOHN INGLETON ... ... 1439 ——
"Organista." Admitted Junior Vicar Choral, 1439.

JOHN DAVY ... ... —— 1490
Organist, appointed Song-Master, 1490.

JOHN WARCUP (Junior Vicar Choral) ... ... 1490 ——
Appointed "ad officium lusus et custodiam organorum in alto choro."

LEONARD PEPIR (Vicar Choral) 1506 1508
Appointed "ad lusus organorum in alto choro." Vice-Chancellor and Clerk of the Revestry, 1508. Died 1511.

THOMAS ASHWELL 1508 1518
Was Master of the Choristers.

JOHN WATKINS, Mus.B., Cantab., 1516, Vicar Choral, was probably Organist, 1518-1524. He was required to compose a Mass and an Antiphon for his Degree. Clerk of the Revestry, 1527. Died 1542.

JOHN GILBERT, Mus.B., Oxon., 1511 ... ... 1524 (?)1528
Appointed Organist for Life. Previously Song-Master. Appointed Lay Sacrist, 1523.

ROBERT DOVE 1528 1537
Was Vicar Choral, 1520. Song-Master, 1528. Received £2 per annum for playing the Organ at the Mass of the Blessed Virgin, and £1 6s. 8d. for performing the same office at the Mass of Jesus. Died 1537.

THOMAS APPILBY 1538 1539
Song-Master and Organist. Organist of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1539-1541.

JAMES CRAWE (or CROWE) 1539 1541
Song-Master and Organist.

THOMAS APPILBY (Reappointed) 1541 1562
On August 18, 1559, Appilby was appointed Seneschal of the Choristers as a mark of appreciation of his services as Song-Master and Organist.

WILLIAM BYRD (or BIRD) *1563 1572

One of the most eminent musicians of the sixteenth century. Born in 1542 or 1543. Probably a native of Lincoln. Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Pupil of Tallis. Organist of Lincoln Cathedral, 1563-1572. Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, 1569, and afterwards Organist there (?) 1572. It is said that, upon his appointment as Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln allowed him to continue his office at the latter place by means of his deputy, Thomas Butler, who afterwards, upon Byrd's recommendation, succeeded him as Organist. Died July 4, 1623. Composer of Church Music, Madrigals, pieces for the Virginals, &c.

Byrd took out a Patent, with Tallis, for the sole right of publishing music in England.

From certain documents, still extant, he appears to have retained his convictions as a Roman Catholic; but through the influence of powerful friends he was enabled to continue in his appointments.

By an Act of Chapter passed on September 29, 1570, the Organist was directed to set the tune before the commencement of the Te Deum and the "Canticle of Zachary" at Morning Prayer, and before the Magnificat and Nunc dimittis at Evening Prayer, and to accompany the Anthem.

THOMAS BUTLER† 1572 1595

Previously Deputy-Organist (for William Byrd). Appointed Organist and Master of the Choristers on Byrd's recommendation. Salary, £10 per annum. Admonished for negligence, 1595, and shortly afterwards resigned, when WILLIAM BOYS was appointed temporarily.

JOHN HILTON is mentioned as Organist (in 1593 and 1594), but he was probably only deputy to Butler. Afterwards appointed Organist of Trinity College, Cambridge. He was a counter-tenor, and in 1593 the Chapter gave him 30s. for his services in arranging for the acting of two Comedies by the choristers Some Church Music by him is extant in MS.

THOMAS KINGSTON 1599 1616

On the 30th of March, 1611, he was arraigned before the Chapter "for beating the boys and calling Mr. Dye, the Master of the Choristers, an ass (!). He confessed all the misdemeanours charged against him, and submitted to the censure of the Chapter. Whereupon they gave him an admonition, and gave him order to amend upon pain of being turned out and deprived." In 1612, however, he "is ordered never hereafter to meddle with teaching the Quiristers." In 1615 again admonished: "He ys verye often drunke and by means therof he hathe by unorderlye playing on the organs putt the quire out of time and disordered them." Replaced in 1616 by John Wanless(e).

JOHN WANLESS(E) ... ... 1616 —

Admitted Organist by the Chancellor after Evening Prayers. Salary, £20 per annum.

In 1625 the Gate House Chambers in Vicars' Court were assigned to him at a rent of 10s. per annum.

THOMAS WANLESS, Mus.B., Organist of York Minster, 1691, was probably a son.

---

* Byrd was elected Organist of Lincoln Cathedral on February 27, 156$\frac{3}{4}$. I am indebted to Dr. Grattan Flood for the actual date of Byrd's appointment.

† A Thomas Butler was Fellow of New College, Oxford, but was ejected in 1568 for being a Roman Catholic.

THOMAS (?) MUDD ... ... 1662 (?)1663

Possibly the Thomas Mudde given as one of the composers in Clifford's Words of Anthems.

Great complaints were made to Dean Honywood of his drunkenness, as will be seen from the following extracts from letters, written by the Precentor to the Dean:—

"14 March, $166\frac{2}{3}$.

"Mr. Mudd hath been so debauched these assizes, and hath so abused Mr. Derby that he will hardly bee persuaded to stay to finish his worke unlesse Mudd bee removed.* And I have stuck in the same Mudd too;† for he hath abused mee above hope of Pardon. I wish you would be pleased to send us downe an able and more civill organist."

"16 March, $166\frac{2}{3}$.

"Yesterday Mr. Mudd shewed the effects of his last weeke's tipling, for when Mr. Joynes was in the midst of his sermon Mudd fell a-singing aloud, insomuch as Mr. Joynes was compelled to stopp; all the auditorie gazed and wondered what was the matter, and at length some neere him, stopping his mouth, silenced him, and then Mr. Joynes proceeded: but this continued for the space of neere halfe a quarter of an houre. So that now wee dare trust him no more with our organ, but request you (if you can) to helpe us to another; and with what speed may be."

ANDREW HECHT (or HIGHT) .. ... (?)1663 1693

A Dutchman, was therefore appointed in the place of Mudd. Buried in the Cathedral, March 31, 1693. Two of his Anthems in MS., "God is our hope" and "Out of the deep," are included in the Cathedral Library.

A writ appears to have been taken out against him in 1670 by John Jameson, Clericus Rivestriæ (Vestry Clerk), for striking him in the Church; but the suit was afterwards withdrawn.

THOMAS HECHT ... ... 1693 ——

Son of the foregoing. Admitted Organist in 1693, at a salary of £30 per annum, but did not take duty, being afterwards (1695) appointed Organist of Magdalen College, Oxford (see Magdalen College, Oxford), and was admitted in his place, salary £40 per annum, on condition that he taught a Chorister to play the organ from time to time—"Cautionem autem ut unum Choristarum ad Organum pulsandum de tempore in tempus doceat ei imposuerunt." Died February, 1704-5. Buried in the Cathedral. Composer of several Anthems in MS. in the Cathedral Library.

THOMAS ALLINSON (or ALLANSON) 1693 1704-5

GEORGE HOLMES 1705 1721

Probably son of Thomas Holmes (a Lay Vicar of Winchester Cathedral), and grandson of John Holmes (Organist of Winchester Cathedral, and afterwards of Salisbury Cathedral).

Previously Organist to the Bishop of Durham. Succeeded Allinson at Lincoln Cathedral. Appointed a Junior Vicar, 1707. Died 1721.

* Derby was an organ-builder, and at the time was evidently repairing the organ, or building a new one.

† By this little joke the Precentor meant to imply, not that he had indulged in the same dissipated habits as his Organist, but that he had been subjected to the same annoyance from him as had Mr. Derby.

Buried in the Cathedral Cloisters. Composer of several Anthems, two of which, "Arise, shine, O daughter of Zion" (composed on the Union with Scotland, 1706), and "I will love Thee, O Lord," are included in the Tudway and Ely Collections, and an Ode for St. Cecilia's Day. His setting of the Burial Sentences is still sung in Lincoln Cathedral at funerals. It has recently been published under the editorship of Dr. G. J. Bennett.

There is a MS. volume in the British Museum containing Organ Pieces by Purcell, Blow, and Holmes, transcribed by the last-named in 1698, in the Bishop of Durham's Palace.

CHARLES MURGATROYD§ (or MURGETROYD) ... 1721 1741

Appointed, "cum approbatione Chori,"* Organist and Junior Vicar,† having previously been Organist of York Minster.

On June 26, 1731, it was ordered that "the Organist should play a short Voluntary before the Second Lesson." ‡

On March 24, 1733, Murgatroyd was suspended from his post for negligence, and SAMEUL WISE was ordered to play "for the present in his stead." Died September 4, 1741.

WILLIAM MIDDLEBROOK 1741 1756

"Son of Robert Middlebrook of the city of Lincoln." Burghersh Chanter in the Cathedral, 1717, and a Chorister, 1719. Died 1756.

LLOYD RAYNOR§ 1756 1784

Previously a Chorister in the Cathedral, 1746, and Master of the Song School, Newark-on-Trent.

On September 10, 1771, he was "arraigned and reproved for playing one Anthem while Mr. Binns was singing another"; and, "for insolence," was suspended from his office till he apologized. Dismissed from the post September 17, 1784; but afterwards "submitted," and was allowed a pension of £10 a year, which, however, was discontinued after the first year.

JOHN HASTED§ 1784 1794

Resigned the office, 1794.

REGINALD SPOFFORTH, the glee writer, is said to have been Organist, and to have resigned in 1789 (see his "Life"), but this is obviously wrong. He acted for a short time, however, as Deputy-Organist.

GEORGE SKELTON 1794 1850

Son of George Skelton, a blacksmith of Lincoln. Admitted a Burghersh Chanter in the Cathedral, 1782; Chorister, 1785. Succeeded Hasted as Organist, 1794. Resigned 1850.

His son, G. J. Skelton (with whom he resided after his retirement), was Organist of Holy Trinity Church, Hull, and composer of the once well-known Chant Service—Skelton in D.

* The Choir were evidently allowed a voice in the matter of selection of their Organist.

† The title of Junior Vicar is now superseded by that of "Lay Clerk."

‡ This curious and unnecessary interpolation was only abolished during the organistship of J. M. W. Young.

JOHN MATTHEW WILSON YOUNG 1850 1895

Organist and Master of the Choristers.*

Born at Durham, December 17, 1822. Chorister in Durham Cathedral, and afterwards pupil of Henshaw and Assistant-Organist there. For some time Professor of Music at the Training School, York. Succeeded Skelton as Organist of Lincoln Cathedral. Resigned 1895. Died at West Norwood, March 4, 1897. Buried in the Cemetery, East Gate, Lincoln. Composer of a Sacred Cantata, "The Return of Israel to Palestine," Church Music, &c. Compiler of the Lincoln Psalter.

Under Young's régime the musical services at Lincoln Cathedral greatly improved. The organ was considerably enlarged, and pedals were for the first time used.

GEORGE JOHN BENNETT, Mus.D., Cantab., 1893; F.R.C.O. ... ... 1895 ——

Born at Andover, May 5, 1863. Chorister in Winchester College. Student of the Royal Academy of Music under Macfarren, Steggall, and others. Afterwards studied abroad (through the kindness of Messrs. Novello) under Kiel and Rheinberger. On his return to England he was appointed a Professor of Harmony at the Royal Academy of Music. Organist of St. John's, Wilton Road, 1890; Lincoln Cathedral, 1895. Fellow and Member of the Council of the Royal College of Organists. Conductor of the orchestra at the London Organ School, and for some time Conductor of the Church Orchestral Society. Composer of Church Music, Orchestral Music, Organ pieces, Songs, Chamber Music, Pianoforte pieces, &c.

Under Dr. Bennett's direction a new and unusually complete four-manual organ has been erected by Willis, from a specification drawn up by J. M. W. Young, with large additions. It was opened on Thursday, November 17 (St. Hugh's Day), 1898, with a Special Service, followed by two Recitals by Sir Walter Parratt.

LIVERPOOL.

SEE ESTABLISHED IN 1880.

From 1880 until 1910 St. Peter's Church served as the Cathedral. On June 29, 1910, the Lady Chapel of the new Cathedral was consecrated, and the Services were transferred there. An exceptionally large organ is now in course of construction by Messrs. Willis.

FREDERICK HAMPTON BURSTALL, F.R.C.O. 1880 1916

Born at Liverpool, January 29, 1851. Pupil of Dr. Röhner at Liverpool. Organist of Childwall Parish Church, 1870; Wallasey Church, 1876. Elected Organist of Liverpool Cathedral by the Chapter on the formation of the See. Organised a large special choir for Oratorio Services, 1883. Died 1916. Composer of Church Music, an Anniversary Ode for the Liverpool Pageant of 1907, Songs, Pianoforte pieces, &c.

WALTER HENRY GOSS-CUSTARD, Mus.B., Oxon., 1895 1917 ——

Born at St. Leonards-on-Sea, February 7, 1871. Pupil of E. H. Lemare, and others. Organist of Christ Church, Brooklands, Hastings, 1887; Holy Trinity, Hastings, 1887; St. John's, Lewisham, 1902; St. Saviour's, Ealing, 1904; Liverpool Cathedral, 1917. Hon. Organist to the Royal Philharmonic Society, London, 1914-1917. Organist and Choirmaster to St. Mary's Church of the Blind, 1917. Composer of a Setting of Psalm 68, Church Music, &c.

* It appears that the two offices must have been separate from the time of Butler's resignation, 1595, until 1850; that of Master of the Choristers being sub-divided for a short time, after the Restoration, between two of the Lay Clerks, the one teaching vocal and the other instrumental music.

LLANDAFF.

Very scanty records exist of the earlier Organists of Llandaff Cathedral. For some considerable period both the fabric and the establishment had been in a declining state, and in 1691 the Choir was suppressed and the organ destroyed. As a substitute, the National Schoolmaster was appointed to lead the singing, for which he received £4 per annum. At Bishop Ollivant's enthronement, on March 13, 1850, these crippled musical arrangements appear to have been still in force, for we read that "On the opening of the door to the bishop's summons . . . . the National Schoolmaster, heading the procession, gave out a Psalm, which was sung by about a dozen of his scholars, a bass viol being the only instrument then in the possession of the Cathedral. In this way the bishop was conducted to his throne," &c. (Bishop's Charge, 1869). Under the rule of this worthy prelate Choral Service was re-established in 1861.*

—— Rese (Rees) was Organist in 1608.

In that year £7 was granted to him "as his wage to be paid unto him quarterly by even quantities." A marginal note in the records states that "The Chapter did disagree and not consent to this Act."

George Carr ... ... 1629 ——

At a stipend of £8.

Possibly the composer of two Anthems—"I have Lifted up," and "Let Thy loving mercy"—by George Carr, mentioned in Clifford's Words of Anthems.

—— Nixon was Organist in 1672.

"Ordered that Mr. Nixon shall have £4 quarterly."

[Choral Service discontinued from 1691 until 1861.]

A new organ, erected by Gray & Davison at the restoration of the Cathedral, was opened by Sir Frederick Ouseley on September 18, 1861. The present instrument, by Norman & Beard, dates from 1900.

John Bernard Wilkes 1861 1865

Student of the Royal Academy of Music, 1842-1846. Organist successively of Monkland Church, near Leominster; St. David's, Merthyr Tydvil; and Llandaff Cathedral. Composer of the tune "Lyte" to "Far from my heavenly home," in "Hymns Ancient and Modern."

* From a letter addressed by Archbishop Wake to Browne Willis, on November 2, 1721, it seems that the re-establishment of Choral Service at Llandaff had been contemplated in the eighteenth century.

JAMES HAMILTON SIREE CLARKE, Mus.B., Oxon., 1867 (took temporary duty)* 1865 1866

Born at Birmingham, January 25, 1840. Organist of Parsonstown Parish Church, 1862; Zion Church, Rathgar, Dublin, 1863; Carnmony Church, 1864; Queen's College, Oxford, 1866; Kensington Parish Church, 1871; St. Peter's, South Kensington, 1872. Appointed Conductor of the Victorian National Orchestra, Australia, 1889-1891. For some time Director of the music at several of the London Theatres. Died July 9, 1912. Composer of Church Music, Cantatas, Operettas, Incidental Music to various Plays, two Symphonies, and other music for Orchestra, Chamber Music, Organ pieces, Pianoforte pieces, Part-songs, Songs, &c. Author of "A Manual of Orchestration."

FRANCIS EDWARD GLADSTONE, Mus.D., Cantab.; F.R.C.O. 1866 1870

(See under Norwich.)

THEODORE E. AYLWARD 1870 1876

(See under Chichester.)

CHARLES LEE WILLIAMS, Mus.B., Oxon., F.R.C.O. 1876 1882

(See under Gloucester.)

HUGH BROOKSBANK, Mus.B., Oxon., 1874; F.R.C.O. 1882 1894

Born at Peterborough, September 13, 1854. Chorister in St. George's Chapel, Windsor. Pupil of Dr. Keeton at Peterborough. Organ Scholar at Exeter College, Oxford. Organist of St. Alban's, Birmingham, 1881; Llandaff Cathedral, 1882. Died at Cardiff, April 28, 1894. Composer of Church Music, Songs, &c.

GEORGE GALLOWAY BEALE, Mus.B., Dunelm., 1891; F.R.C.O. ... ... 1894 ——

Born in London, 1868. Educated at Marlborough College, and for some time a Chorister there. Pupil of Sir Frederick Bridge. Organist, successively, of St. John's School, Leatherhead, and St. John's Church, Paddington. Succeeded Hugh Brooksbank as Organist of Llandaff Cathedral.

* This should have been mentioned in the First Edition. Clarke was never appointed Organist; in fact, he was an unsuccessful candidate for the appointment in 1866.

LONDON.

ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL.

JOHN REDFORD . . . . (?)1525 circa 1540

Born about 1486. Chorister in St. Paul's Cathedral, afterwards Vicar Choral there, and subsequently Organist and Almoner, the latter appointment including the duties of Master of the Boys. His Anthem, "Rejoice in the Lord alway," is still sung at St. Paul's and elsewhere. An edition in 8vo size, by Sir George Martin, was issued some years ago by Messrs. Novello. Redford composed some pieces for the organ, one or two of which have been published in recent years. He was also author of the Interlude of "Wyt and Science," performed in 1538-39.

His name appears among the Vicars Choral in the "Declaration by the Sub-Dean and Canons of St. Paul's, of allegiance to Henry VIII. and Queen Anne Boleyn," June 20, 1534 * He is mentioned among the distinguished musicians of his time in Morley's "Plaine and Easie Introduction to Practicall Musicke" (1597).

Tusser, in his "Five Hundred Points of Husbandry," gives the following eulogy of him:—

. . . . . .

By friendship's lot to Paul's I got,
So found I grace a certain ſpace
Still to remaine
With Redford there, the like no where
For cunning ſuch and vertue much,
By whom ſome part of muſic's art
So did I gaine.

SEBASTIAN WESTCOTT 1551 1582

In the second year of the reign of Queen Elizabeth (1559) a Visitation was held at St. Paul's in order to carry out the Act of Uniformity. Among the names of those who refused to subscribe is Sebastian Westcott, Master of the Choristers. Although many of the members of the Chapter were deprived, Westcott, as a favourite of Elizabeth, was retained, and in the following Report is named as Organist:—Report presented to Cardinal Moroni by the Rev. Nicholas Sander, May, 1561. (Catholic Record Society: Vol. 1, p. 21, from Vat. Archiv. Arm. lxiv. 28, ff. 252-74.) "Sebastianus, qui organa pulsabat apud D. Paulum Londoni, cum vellit ejici, tamen tum ita charus Elizabethæ fuit ut nihil schismatice agens locum suum in ea ecclesia retineat." * In a Royal Commission granted by Elizabeth in 1585 for the impressing of boys for the Choir of St. Paul's, he is again described as "Maister of the Children," and his name frequently appears in the records of Elizabethan Court Plays as being responsible for the production of Plays by the "Children of Polls." He died on April 5, 1582.

THOMAS GILES (or GYLES) 1582 1590

Father of Dr. Nathaniel Giles (Organist of St. George's Chapel, Windsor). On April 26, 1585, he received a commission from Queen Elizabeth to impress choristers.

* I am indebted to Dr. W. H. Grattan Flood for this information.

THOMAS MORLEY, Mus.B., Oxon., 1588 ... (?)1591 1592

Born about 1557. Chorister in St. Paul's. Pupil of Bird. Probably for some time Organist of St. Giles', Cripplegate. Resigned the post of Organist of St. Paul's on his appointment as a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal in 1592, which he held until 1602. Died in 1604. Composer of Church Music (including a Service for the Burial of the Dead), Madrigals, Canzonets, Lessons for the Virginals. Author of "A Plaine and Easie Introduction to Practicall Musicke, set down in the forme of a dialogue. Divided into three partes. The first teacheth to sing with all things necessary for the knowledge of prickt song. The second treateth of descante and to sing two parts in one upon a plain song or ground, with other things necessary for a descanter. The third and last part entreateth of composition of three, foure, five, or more parts, with many profitable rules to that effect, with new songs of 2, 3, 4, and 5 parts (London, 1597)." This work was dedicated to "the most excellent musician Maister William Birde." In 1598 Morley was granted a patent for the exclusive right of printing music.

(?)EDWARD PEARCE .. .. 1600 ——

In 1588 he was made a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, and resigned on his appointment to St. Paul's as Master of the Boys. There seems to be no special mention of him as Organist. He contributed to Ravenscroft's "Brief Discourse."

JOHN TOMKINS, Mus.B., Cantab., 1607 ... ... 1622 (?)1638

Brother of Thomas Tomkins (see Worcester). Previously Organist of King's College, Cambridge (1606). Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, 1626. Died 1638. Buried in St. Paul's Cathedral. Some Anthems by him are to be found in Barnard's Collection.

An inscription to him in the North Aisle of the Old Cathedral, where he was buried, read as follows:—

Johannes Tomkins, Musicæ
Baccalaureus, organista sui temporis celeberrimus, post-quam
Capellæ regali, per annos duodecim, huic autem Ecclesiæ per novem decem sedulo inserviisset, ad cœlestem chorum migravit Septembris 27, Anno Domini 1638. Ætatis suæ 52.
Cujus desiderium mœrens uxor
hoc testatur marmore.

(See also under Cambridge—King's College.)

ADRIAN BATTEN ... ... (?)1624 1637

Tomkins and Batten appear to have been Joint Organists during the greater part of their period of office.

Chorister in Winchester Cathedral, and pupil of John Holmes. Lay Vicar of Westminster Abbey, 1614. Organist and Vicar Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral, 1624. Died 1637. Voluminous composer of Church Music, much of it being in MS. Batten's music appears to have been among the earliest that was measured out by means of bar-lines.

ALBERTUS BRYAN (BRIAN or BRYNE) ... ... 1638 (?)

Born about 1621. Pupil of John Tomkins. Appointed Organist of St. Paul's Cathedral in 1638, at the early age of seventeen. Deprived of his post during the Civil Wars and reappointed at the Restoration. After the Great Fire (in 1666) he became Organist of Westminster Abbey until 1668, but his signature appears in the St. Paul's books for Organists' Augmentation there in 1669 and until 1670. The year of his death is unknown. Composer of Services, Anthems, and Organ pieces.

In "The Virgin's Pattern" he is described as "that famously velvet-fingered Organist."

PETITION OF ALBERTUS BRYAN TO CHARLES II. FOR HIS ADMISSION AS ORGANIST OF THE CHAPEL ROYAL:—

"To the King's Most Excellent Majesty.

The humble petition of Albertus Bryne,

Sheweth,

That your Majesty's late Royal father, of blessed memory, was pleased in his lifetime to make Choice of your petitioner to be Organist of the Cathedral Church of St. Paul's, London, in which said place he was by your said late Royal father confirmed when your petitioner was about the age of seventeen years.

And since then he hath so industriously practised that Science that he hath very much augmented his skill and knowledge therein.

And therefore most humbly presents himself to serve your Majesty as Organist in your Majestie's Chapel at Whitehall, if your Majesty would be graciously pleased to admit of him accordingly.

And he shall ever pray.

1660."

(Musical Petition to Charles II., from the State Paper Office: never before published. Musical Standard, April 11, 1868.)

Bryan's petition appears to have been of no avail, for his name does not occur in the Cheque Book of the Chapel Royal as Organist.

The "young man, one Albertus Bryan," recommended by Archbishop Sheldon as Organist of Dulwich College, 1671, and who afterwards became Organist of All Hallows', Barking (near the Tower of London), 1676, was evidently a son. He died in 1713.

The Cathedral was destroyed in the Great Fire, 1666.

ISAAC BLACKWELL

Admitted Vicar Choral on February 21, 1687, and signed as Organist November 23, 1687, holding the office of Organist at the Services which took place while the present Cathedral was being built. He contributed two Anthems, "Behold, how good and joyful" and "Let my complaint," to the second set of Dering's "Cantica Sacra," and seven Songs to Playford's "Choice Ayres, Songs and Dialogues." An Anthem by him, "O Lord our Governour," is included in the Ely MSS.

JEREMIAH CLARK 1695 1707

The first Organist of the present Cathedral. Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Organist of Winchester College, 1692. Almoner and Master of the Choristers of St. Paul's,* 1693; Organist of St. Paul's, 1695; Vicar Choral of St. Paul's, 1705, having previously (1699) been admitted on probation. Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, 1700; one of the Organists of the same, 1704. Committed suicide, in consequence of an unsuccessful love affair, by shooting himself, December 1, 1707, at his house in St. Paul's Churchyard. Buried in St Gregory's Vault in the New Crypt of St. Paul's, December 3, 1707. Composer of Church Music, Lessons for the Harpsichord, Incidental Music to various plays, &c.

* It is said that Dr. Blow resigned this post in favour of Clark.

His sister married Charles King, Mus.B., Almoner and Master of the Choristers, 1707-1748, alluded to by Dr. Greene as the "serviceable" composer.

RICHARD BRIND 1707 1718

Chorister in St. Paul's, and eventually Organist. Died 1718. Composer of two thanksgiving Anthems. The words of five of his Anthems are in a Collection by Dr. Croft, entitled "Divine Harmony."

MAURICE GREENE, Mus.D., Cantab., 1730 ... 1718 1755

Born in London, 1696. Son of the Rev. Thomas Greene, Rector of St. Olave's Jewry, Chorister in St. Paul's, and pupil of Brind. Organist of St. Dunstan in the West, 1716; St. Andrew's, Holborn, 1717. Organist of St. Paul's, 1718, and afterwards Vicar Choral of the same. Organist and Composer to the Chapel Royal, 1727. Professor of Music in the University of Cambridge, 1730. Master of the King's Band, 1735. Associated with Michael Festing in the foundation of the Royal Society of Musicians. For some time a friend of Handel, the latter frequently playing on the organ in St. Paul's, which instrument, it is said, greatly pleased him. Greene is supposed to have acted as blower on some of these occasions.* Died December 1, 1755. Buried in St. Olave's, Old Jewry, London, of which his father was formerly Rector. On the demolition of St. Olave's, Greene's remains were removed to St. Paul's and placed in the grave of Boyce, May 18, 1888. Composer of Oratorios, Cantatas, an Opera, Odes, Songs, Catches, Organ and Harpsichord Music, a Service in C, and "Forty Select Anthems," 2 vols. (1743). Commenced a collection of Church Music by various composers, which he gave to Dr. Boyce for completion just before his death.

Greene seems to have been a man of attractive and courteous manners, and a great favourite in society, notwithstanding the fact that he was physically deformed. Upon the death of an uncle—Sergeant Greene—he became possessed of a large estate in Essex, called Bois Hall, where it is said that he spent the greater part of his later years.

JOHN JONES ... (Appointed Christmas Day) 1755 1796

Also Vicar Choral of St. Paul's. Organist of the Temple Church, 1749; Charterhouse, 1753. He held the three appointments—Temple, Charterhouse, and St. Paul's—until his death, February 17, 1796. Buried in the Charterhouse Chapel Cloisters. Composer of "60 Chants, Single and Double, respectfully dedicated to the Dean and Chapter of St. Paul's," Lessons for the Harpsichord, Songs, &c. There are two MS. Services by him in the St. Paul's books. His well-known Double Chant in D was admired by Haydn, who heard it at a Festival of the Charity Children in St. Paul's, 1791, and noted it, in an improved form, in his Diary.

"Jones . . . appears not to have been worthy of the situation, for he was not capable of doing the duty for a length of time after the appointment: and as he could not play from score, he employed himself in arranging the Anthems in two lines. The same book is now in use at the Cathedral."†—(From "A description of the Organ at St. Paul's Cathedral," in The English Musical Gazette, January 1, 1819.)

* We read that on one occasion "their Royal Highnesses the Princess Anne and Princess Caroline came to St. Paul's Cathedral and heard the famous Mr. Handel (their musick-master) perform upon the organ"; . . . Applebee's Weekly Journal, August 29, 1724.

† This was in 1819.

THOMAS ATTWOOD 1796 1838

Born in London, November 23, 1765. Chorister in the Chapel Royal and pupil of Nares and Ayrton, and afterwards studied at Naples and Vienna (in the latter city under Mozart). Some time after his return to England was appointed Assistant-Organist to Reinhold at St. George the Martyr, Queen's Square, Holborn, and one of the Chamber Musicians. and Page, to the Prince of Wales. Succeeded Jones at St. Paul's, 1796, and was appointed Composer to the Chapel Royal the same year, in succession to Dr. Dupuis. Organist of the King's Private Chapel, Brighton, 1821, and Organist of the Chapel Royal, 1836. Died at 17, Cheyne Walk, Chelsea, March 24, 1838, and is buried in the Crypt at St. Paul's. Composer of Church Music, Musical Dramas, Glees, Songs, &c.

Attwood used to say with reference to the Dignitaries of St. Paul's and his appointment there: "It is all very well that they agree to pay me for playing, for if they did not, I should be happy to pay them for letting me play."

Mendelssohn, when in England, frequently accompanied his friend Attwood to St. Paul's, and played on the Organ. It is said that on one occasion, when he was playing at the end of the afternoon service, the vergers experienced such difficulty in dispersing the congregation, that they caused the bellows to be stopped in the midst of his performance, much to his disgust and that of his hearers.

SIR JOHN GOSS, Knt., (Hon.) Mus.D., Cantab., 1876 1838 1872

Born at Fareham, December 27, 1800. Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Pupil of Attwood. Was an unsuccessful candidate for the Organistship of Old Chelsea Church, 1819. Organist of Stockwell Chapel, 1821; St. Luke's, Chelsea, 1824; St. Paul's Cathedral, 1838. Appointed composer to the Chapel Royal, 1856. Knighted soon after the Thanksgiving for the recovery of H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, 1872, and retired from St. Paul's the same year. Died at Clarewood Terrace, Brixton Rise, May 10, 1880. Buried in Kensal Green Cemetery, May 15. Composer of Church Music, Glees, Madrigals, Overtures for Orchestra, Songs, &c. Compiler of Organ Arrangements, Chant and Hymn Books. Author of a Treatise on Harmony and a Catechism of the Rudiments of Music.

Inscription on the Monument to Sir John Goss in the Crypt of St. Paul's Cathedral:—

"In remembrance of Sir John Goss, Knt., Mus.D., Cantab.; Composer to H.M. Chapels Royal, and for 34 years Organist and Vicar Choral of this Cathedral. Born 27th December, 1800. Died 10th May, 1880. His genius and skill are shewn in the various compositions with which he has enriched the music of the Church. His virtues and kindness of heart endeared him to his pupils and friends, who have erected this monument in token of their admiration and esteem."

GEORGE COOPER (Junr.) was Sub-Organist from 1843 to 1876. He succeeded his father in this office.

The Special Musical Services organized from time to time by Mr. Cook, at which can be heard some of the finest examples of English Sacred Music, are an interesting feature to musical people both south and north of the Thames.

MANCHESTER.

The Collegiate Church of St. Mary the Virgin, Manchester, was made a Cathedral in 1847.

As a Collegiate Church it held three separate Charters. The first was granted by King Henry V. on May 22nd, 1421, with the following foundation: A Warden, Four Fellows, Four Singing Priests, and Six Choristers. This was dissolved by Edward VI., and was afterwards re-established by Queen Mary. In 1578 Queen Elizabeth granted a new Charter, with a foundation of—A Warden, Four Fellows, Two Chaplains (Singing Priests), Four Lay Singers, Four Children. The third Charter was that of King Charles I., granted on September 30th, 1635, and provided for—A Warden, Four Fellows, Two Chaplains, Two Clerks, Four Singers (Lay or Clerical), Four Boys, a Sub-Warden, Treasurer, Collector, Registrar, Master of the Choristers, Instructor, and Organist.

The following is a complete succession of Organists from the date of the last-named Charter down to the present time, all the earlier registers of the Church having perished, it is said, in the great Fire of London.*

* I am indebted to Dr. James Kendrick Pyne, a recent Organist of the Cathedral, for much of my information concerning the Organists of Manchester.

The Cheetham College Grace is said to have been composed by Betts.

JOHN WAINWRIGHT... ... ... 1767 1768

Previously Deputy-Organist.

Born at Stockport, 1723. Baptized April 14, 1723. Buried at Stockport, January 28, 1768. Composer of Anthems, Hymns, Chants, &c. His well-known tune to "Christians, awake, salute the happy morn," was first published in his "Collection of Psalm Tunes, Anthems, Hymns, and Chants, for One, Two, Three, and Four voices," in 1766.

ROBERT WAINWRIGHT, Mus.D., Oxon., 1774 ... 1768 1775

Son of the preceding. Born 1748. Organist of the Collegiate Church, Manchester, 1768; St. Peter's, Liverpool, 1775. Died July 15, 1782. Buried in St. Peter's, Liverpool. Composer of an Oratorio, "The Fall of Egypt," a Te Deum, Psalm Tunes, &c.

In 1766 Robert Wainwright competed for the post of Organist at Halifax Parish Church. Dr. Miller, in his "History of Doncaster," relates the following story in connection with that occasion:—

"A new organ by Snetzler had been erected in the Parish Church, and was opened with an Oratorio by Mr. Joah Bates. There were seven candidates for the situation of Organist: among them were Robert Wainwright and F. W. Herschel, then leader of the concerts at Halifax, and an intimate friend of Dr. Miller. Concerning the others we have no information. On the day of trial, August 30, they attended at the church, and the order in which they were to play was decided by lot. The second was drawn by Wainwright and the third by Herschel. Wainwright's execution was so rapid that old Snetzler ran about exclaiming, 'Te tevil, te tevil, he run over te keys like von cat; he vill not give my piphes room for to shpeak.' During this performance Miller said to Herschel, 'What chance have you to follow this man?' He replied, 'I don't know, but I am sure fingers will not do.' In due time he ascended the gallery and drew from the organ such a full volume of slow solemn harmony as Miller could by no means account for. After a short extempore effusion of this character, he finished with the Old 100th tune, which he played better than his opponent had done. 'Aye, aye,' cried Snetzler, 'tish is very goot, very goot inteet; I will luff tish man, for he gives my piphes room for to shpeak.' Herschel being afterwards asked by Miller by what means he had produced so uncommon an effect, answered, 'I told you fingers would not do,' and, taking two pieces of lead from his waistcoat pocket, he said, 'One of these I placed on the lowest key of the organ and the other on the octave above; thus, by accommodating the harmony, I gained the power of four hands instead of two.' Herschel was thereupon appointed, but soon after entered upon other pursuits, and the Musician has been long forgotten in the Astronomer."—(See Parr's "Church of England Psalmody.")

RICHARD WAINWRIGHT 1775 1782

Brother of the preceding. Born 1758. Organist of the Collegiate Church and St. Anne's, Manchester. Succeeded his brother at St. Peter's, Liverpool, 1782. Organist for some time at St. James's, Toxteth Park. Reappointed Organist of St. Peter's, 1813. Died August 20, 1825. Composer of Church Music, Glees, &c.

GRIFFITH JAMES CHEESE 1783 1804

Born May 2, 1751. Organist at Leominster in 1771. On resigning the appointment at Manchester he became a teacher of music in London. Died November 10, 1804. He was blind. Composer of Church Music, Songs, &c. Author of a treatise on playing the Organ and Pianoforte, containing useful information to teachers and people born blind.

WILLIAM SUDLOW 1804 1848

Son of a music dealer in Hanging Ditch, Manchester. Born 1772. Died 1848. Composer of Anthems, Songs, &c. He was also a Violoncellist.

JOSEPH JOHN HARRIS ... { Joint-Organist (with W. SUDLOW) 1831 / Sole Organist 1848 } 1869

Born in London, 1799. Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Organist of St. Olave's, Southwark, 1823; Blackburn Parish Church, 1828; Manchester Cathedral, 1848 (having previously been Choirmaster, and Joint-Organist with Sudlow). Died February 10, 1869. Buried in Harpurhey Cemetery. Composer of Anthems, Glees, a selection of Psalm Tunes, "The Cathedral Daily Service," consisting of the Versicles, Litany, &c., with music, &c. For the occasion of the laying of the foundation stone of the new tower of the Cathedral, in 1864, Harris composed an Anthem, "The Lord is my strength."

JOHN FREDERICK BRIDGE, Mus.D., Oxon.; F.R.C.O. 1869 1875

Now SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE, Knt. (See under Westminster Abbey.)

JAMES KENDRICK PYNE, Mus.D., Cantuar., 1900; F.S.A., F.R.C.O. 1875 1908

Son of James Kendrick Pyne, for fifty-three years Organist of Bath Abbey Church. Born 1852. Appointed Organist of All Saints', Bath, at the age of eleven. Pupil of Dr. S. S. Wesley. Assistant-Organist of Winchester Cathedral, and afterwards of Gloucester Cathedral. Organist, successively, of Christ Church, St. Mark's, and St. Mary-de-Crypt, Gloucester; St. James's, Cheltenham; Aylesbury Parish Church; Christ Church, Clifton; Chichester Cathedral; St. Mark's, Philadelphia, U.S.A. Sub-Organist (appointed by the Chapter) of Durham Cathedral, 1903. Hon. Member of University College, Durham, 1917. Organist and Choirmaster of Newcastle Cathedral, 1918. Composer of Church Music, &c.

NORWICH.

"ADAM the Organist" is mentioned as early as 1333.
In this year xiiis. iiijd. was paid for a robe for him.

HENRY BAKER 1585 1597

WILLIAM COBBOLD 1598 1608

Born at Norwich, January 5, $15\frac{82}{83}$. In 1599 he appears in the Cathedral records as William Cobbald, Organist, his salary being "as in previous years." In 1600-3 the name is spelt Cobold; in 1604-5, Cobhold; and in 1606-8, Cobbold. From 1608 he became a Singing-man in the Cathedral, the post of Organist being transferred to William Inglott. Died at Beccles, November 7, 1639, and was buried in the Parish Church there. Composer of Anthems, Madrigals, &c. Contributor to Este's "Whole Booke of Psalms," also to "Triumphs of Oriana." A Madrigal by him in the latter, entitled "With Wreaths of Rose and Laurel," is eulogised by Burney ("History of Music"). It has been published in 8vo form by Messrs. Novello.

Inscription to Cobbold, upon a stone at the East end of the South Aisle of the Parish Church, Beccles:—

Here lyeth the body of William Cobbold, sometimes Organist of Christ Church, in Norwich, who died the 7th November, 1639.
The body rest below
But the soule above
Sing heavenly anthems
Made of peace and love.

In his Will occurs the following bequest—"to the Canons, Singing-men and Queristers of the Cathedral of Christ Church within the quere, 20s." He also leaves money to the poor in the parishes of the Close, St. Andrew, St. John de Timberhill, and St. George's, Tombland.

William Inglott 1608 1621

Born 1554. First a "Singing-child" in the Cathedral, then "Singing-man." In 1579 he was appointed "Master over the Singing-Children" in succession to his father. His name first occurs in the records as Organist in 1608. Died 1621. Buried in the Cathedral Nave. Composer of pieces for Virginals, &c. Two pieces by him, "A Galliard Ground" and "The Leaves bee greene," are included in the Fitzwilliam Virginal Book. His monument, on the southern pillar of the Organ screen, was repaired at the expense of Dr. Croft, and bears the following inscription:—

Here William Inglott, Organist, doth rest,
Whose art in Music this Cathedral blest;
For Descant most, for Voluntary all,
He passed on Organ, Song, and Virginall.
He left this life at age of sixty-seven,
And now 'mongst Angels all sings first in Heaven
His Fame flies far, his Name shall never die,
See, Art and Age here crown his memorie.

Non digitis, Inglotti, tuis terrestia tangis;
Tangis nunc digitis Organa celsa poli.
Anno Dom. 1621.

Buried the last day of December, 1621.

This erected on the 15th day of June, 1662.

Ne forma hujusce monumenti injuriâ
Temporum penè deleti, dispereat, exculpi
Curavit Gul. Croft, Reg. Capellæ in Arte Musicâ Discipul. præfectus.

Dr. Croft evidently held this musician in high estimation.

A William Juglott (or Inglott) is mentioned as Organist of Hereford Cathedral in 1597 (page 54). It cannot be ascertained if this is the same person or a relative.

Richard Gibbs ... ... (?)1622 (?)1630

Composer of Anthems, &c. (See Clifford's Collection.) There is an Anthem, "Have mercy upon me. O God," by Richard Gibbs, in a Collection of "Easy Anthems for Parish Church Choirs," edited by Sir W. H. Cope. From its style of writing it is probably the work of this same composer.

RICHARD AYLEWARD 1660 1669

Born at Winchester, 1620. Chorister in Winchester Cathedral, where his father was a Minor Canon. Died October 15, 1699. Buried October 18, in the North Aisle of the Cathedral Nave. Dr. Mann, of Cambridge, has in his possession an oblong quarto volume, in the autograph of Dr. Philip Hayes, containing a Service in D, with Responses and Litany, and thirteen Anthems by Ayleward; also a folio Organ book, in Ayleward's autograph, containing two Evening Services, one complete Service in D, and twenty Anthems. Inscription on his tombstone:—

'Here lyeth interred the body of Richard Ayleward, Organist of this place, who was born at Winchester, and died here the 15th of October, An. Dom. 1669.

Here lies a perfect Harmonie
Of Faith, of Truth, and Loyaltie;
And whatsoever Virtues can
Be reckon'd up, was in this Man.
His sacred Ashes here abide,
Who in God's service liv'd and dy'd;
But now by Death advanced higher,
To serve in the Celestial Quire.
God Save the King.''

One of his Anthems, "The King shall Rejoice," was composed for the Restoration Thanksgiving Service held in the Cathedral on May 20, 1660. Some pieces for the harpsichord by him are also extant in MS.

According to the Chapter accounts a THOMAS GIBBS (probably son of Richard Gibbs) was also Organist about this time—see entries against his name in the years 1664 and 1665. He died of the plague, and was buried on July 16, 1666.

THOMAS PLEASANTS 1670 1689

Died November 20, 1689. Buried November 23, in the North Transept of the Cathedral. Composer of Church and other music.

JAMES COOPER ... ... —— (?)1721

Died January 26, 1721. Buried January 29, in the Cathedral Nave (at the foot of Inglott's monument).

HUMPHRY COTTON 1721 1749

Son of Edward Cotton. Organist of St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, 1717-1720. Elected a Freemason of the City of Norwich, August 25, 1722. Died September 19, 1749. Buried September 22, in the South Transept of the Cathedral.

THOMAS GARLAND 1749 1808

Probably born in the Cathedral Precincts. Baptized July 5, 1731. Pupil of Dr. Greene. Organist of the Cathedral for fifty-nine years. Died March 1, 1808. Buried under the Organ Screen in the Cathedral. Composer of the Ordination Hymn, "Come, Holy Ghost, our souls inspire," printed in Bunnett's "Sacred Harmony," 1865, and several Anthems. A new Anthem by him was sung at the reopening of the Organ, after repairs by John Byfield, on November 30, 1759.

JOHN CHRISTMAS BECKWITH, Mus.D., Oxon., 1803 1808 1809

Born at Norwich, December 25, 1750. Articled pupil of Drs. William and Philip Hayes at Oxford. Organist of St. Peter Mancroft, Norwich, 1794. For some years Master of the Choristers at the Cathedral before his appointment as Organist. His powers as an extempore player (especially of fugues) are said to have been exceptional. He was also considered a good painter. Died of paralysis, June 3, 1809. Buried in St. Peter Mancroft Church. Composer of Anthems, Organ pieces, Glees, a Sonata for the harpsichord, Songs, "The First Verse of every Psalm of David, with an Ancient or Modern Chant in score, adapted as much as possible to the sentiment of each Psalm" (1808), &c.

His name, Christmas, is, of course, accounted for by the fact that his birthday fell upon December 25. It is said that Bishop Horne, when President of Magdalen College, Oxford, "usually joined in the singing with a very loud voice, but always came in at the wrong places. Having once complained to a Deputy-Organist, Mr. Beckwith, that he played so loud that he could not hear himself sing: 'Can you not?' said the musician, 'I can hear you very plain indeed, sir.' The President smiled, and said no more."—(Reg. Magdalen College.—Bloxam.)

JOHN CHARLES BECKWITH 1809 1819

Son of the preceding. Born 1788. Died October 11, 1819. Buried in St. Peter Mancroft Church. Was considered an Organist of great ability.

ZECHARIAH BUCK, Mus.D., Cantuar., 1853 ... 1819 1877

Born at Norwich, September 10, 1798. Chorister in Norwich Cathedral, and afterwards articled pupil of J. Charles Beckwith. Was a very successful trainer of boys' voices, also teacher of several well-known organists. Resigned 1877. Died at Newport (Essex), August 5, 1879, and was buried in the Churchyard there. Composer of Anthems, Chants, &c., most of which were published in Dr. Bunnett's "Sacred Harmony" (1865).

Very amusing anecdotes have been related by Dr. Buck's pupils concerning the eccentric but apparently successful methods of voice production which he practised during their period of choristership at Norwich. At first nuts, marbles, and beans were amongst the various articles placed between the teeth to keep the mouth properly open whilst singing. After a little while, however, the boys began to find it difficult to avoid cracking the nuts, and the worthy Doctor, suspecting that this was less the result of accident than design, found it expedient to invent a substitute for them. A kind of mouthpiece was therefore introduced, made of boxwood, to fit in with the teeth, and in the exact shape of the mouth. Each boy was provided with one of these and a small looking-glass (the latter for the purpose of checking all contortions or unnatural expressions of the face), and both these articles were put into regular use at the morning practices, when the actual voice training was gone through. Certain exercises for the proper control of the tongue during singing were practised daily before anything else was attempted. The vocal shake, being an ornament much in use at that period, was assiduously cultivated, and a prize of half-a-crown was awarded from time to time to successful "shakers."

FRANCIS EDWARD GLADSTONE, Mus.D., Cantab., 1879 1877 1881

Born at Summertown, near Oxford, March 2, 1845. Pupil of Dr. S. S. Wesley at Winchester Cathedral. Organist of Holy Trinity, Weston-super-Mare, 1864; Llandaff Cathedral, 1866; Chichester Cathedral, 1870; St. Patrick's, Hove, 1873; St. Peter's, Brighton, 1875; St. Mark's, Lewisham, 1876; Norwich Cathedral, 1877. Resigned at Norwich and was appointed Organist of Christ Church, Lancaster Gate, London, W., 1881. Joined the Roman Catholic Church, and was Director of the Music at St. Mary of the Angels, Bayswater, until 1894. For some time Professor of Harmony and Counterpoint at the Royal College of Music. Examiner, &c. Now resident in Hereford. Composer of Cantatas, Church Music, Organ pieces, Part-songs, Songs, &c.

FREDERICK COOK ATKINSON, Mus.B., Cantab., 1867 1881 1885

Born at Norwich, August 21, 1841. Pupil of Dr. Z. Buck and Assistant-Organist of the Cathedral. Organist of Manningham Church, Bradford; Norwich Cathedral, 1881; St. Mary's Parish Church, Lewisham, 1886. Died at East Dereham, 1897. Composer of Church Music, Part-songs, Songs, Pianoforte pieces, &c.

FRANK BATES, Mus.D., Dub., 1884 ... ... 1886 ——

Born at March, January 13, 1856. For some time Assistant Organist of Leamington Parish Church. Organist of St. Baldred's Episcopal Church, North Berwick, 1874; St. John's, Edinburgh, 1882; Norwich Cathedral, 1886. In 1888 he organised a special choir for the Cathedral, and commenced a series of Musical Services for the people. Conductor of Norwich Diocesan Church Choral Association, Norwich Philharmonic Society, and Norwich Choral Society. Lecturer. Composer of an Oratorio, "Samuel," Church Music, &c.

Owing largely to the efforts of Dr. Bates, a large five-manual Organ, by Messrs. Norman & Beard, was erected in the Cathedral, and opened on December 12, 1899.

OXFORD.

CHRIST CHURCH CATHEDRAL.

Originally built as the Church of the MONASTERY OF ST. FRIDESWIDE; afterwards adopted by Wolsey as the Chapel of his then recently founded CARDINAL COLLEGE, and eventually created both a Cathedral and College Chapel by Henry VIII., the title of the College being altered to CHRIST CHURCH.

JOHN TAVERNER 1526 1530

Born at Boston, Lincs, about 1490. Master of the Choir and Stipendiary of Tattershall Collegiate Church, 1525. Appointed, by Cardinal Wolsey, Informator of the Children and Organist at Cardinal College (now Christ Church Cathedral), Oxford, November, 1526, at a salary of £10 a year, with livery and commons. It is said that, while at Oxford, he narrowly escaped martyrdom for being concerned with heretics. Resigned this appointment, April, 1530. In August, 1538, he and another courtier, named Jones, were appointed by Cromwell to arrange matters for the suppression of the four Friaries at Boston. Died at Boston, the exact year of his death being unknown Composer of Masses, Motets, In Nomines, &c. (Dr. W. H. Grattan Flood, Musical Times, September, 1921).

JOHN BENBOW 1530 1564

From Manchester, succeeded John Taverner.

A Mr. Benbow was one of the Gentlemen of the Chapel Royal until 1592.

BARTHOLOMEW LANT 1564 1605

Wood (Fasti., 1, 175) mentions him as living in 1569.

LEONARD MAJOR 1605 1608

WILLIAM STONARD, Mus.B., Oxon., 1608 ... ... 1608 1630

Composed a Choral Hymn in eight parts for his degree Composer also of Church Music, &c. Died 1630. His name is given as one of the composers in Clifford's Words of Anthems.

EDWARD LOWE 1630 1682

Born at Salisbury about 1610. Chorister in Salisbury Cathedral Organist of Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford, 1630. Probably deprived of this post during the period of the Commonwealth, and reappointed at the Restoration. Appointed Organist of the Chapel Royal, 1660. University Professor of Music at Oxford, 1661. Died July 11, 1682. Buried in the Divinity Chapel of Christ Church Cathedral. Composer of Church Music. Author of "Some short directions for the performance of Cathedral Service," published at Oxford, 1661. Three years later he published a "Review" of his "Short Directions," in which he adapted his original instructions to the Prayer Book of 1662.

WILLIAM HUSBANDS 1682 1690

Probably a son of Charles Husbands, a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, who died 1678. Appointed Chaplain, 1690.

CHARLES HUSBANDS 1690 1691

Probably the Charles Husbands who was a Chorister in the Chapel Royal, and took part in the Coronation of James II.

RICHARD GOODSON (Senr.), Mus.B., Oxon., circa 1682 1691 1718

Born 1655. Chorister in St Paul's Cathedral. Organist of New College, Oxford, 1682. Appointed University Professor of Music, 1682. Died January 13, 1718. Buried in South Aisle of Christ Church. A few of his MS. Compositions are included in the Library of Christ Church and the Music School.

RICHARD GOODSON (Junr.), Mus.B., Oxon., 1716 ... 1718 1741

Son of the preceding. Previously Organist at Newbury. Succeeded his father as Organist of the Cathedral and University Professor of Music, 1718. Died 1741. Buried in Christ Church. MS. Compositions at Christ Church and the Music School.

RICHARD CHURCH 1741 1776

Pupil of William Hine. Organist of St. Peter's-in-the-East, Oxford. Clerk of Magdalen College, 1732-1736. Organist of New College, 1732-1776. Matriculated at Christ Church, 1735. Resigned the Organistship at Christ Church, (?)March, 1776. Died July, 1776. Buried, July 23, in the Churchyard of St. Peter's-in-the-East, Oxford.

"A.D. 1732, Ap. 2. On Thursday last, Mr. Church was chosen Organist of New College. He is also Organist of St. Peter's-in-the-East, Oxford, in which parish he lives, and hath been Organist of the said St. Peter's ever since the organ was placed there from the theatre."—("Hearne's Diary.")

[PHILIP HAYES, Mus.D., Oxon.

(See also under Magdalen College, Oxford.)

He is said Magdalen Register, Bloxam) to have been Organist, 1763-1765, and to have been "ousted by a man named Norris"; but there is no evidence in the Cathedral records to show that he ever held the office. Moreover, it would appear from the following Chapter Order that Norris succeeded Church in the appointment: "17 April, 1776. Mr. Norris the Organist, having agreed that £30 a year shall be paid out of his salary to Mr. Church the late Organist, ordered that the Treasurer do pay the same to Mr. Church accordingly." Amongst the subscribers to Dr. Alcock's "Six and twenty select Anthems," published in 1771, is "Mr. Church, Organist of Christ Church and New College, Oxford."]

THOMAS NORRIS, Mus.B., Oxon., 1765 ... ... 1776 1790

Born at Mere, Wilts, 1741. Chorister in Salisbury Cathedral. Organist of St. John's College, Oxford, 1765. Lay Clerk of Christ Church, 1767; Lay Clerk of Magdalen College, 1771.* He possessed a fine tenor voice, and sang at several of the leading Musical Festivals. Died at Himley Hall, Staffordshire, September 3, 1790, it is said, through over-exertion at the Birmingham Festival. Buried at Himley. Composer of Anthems, Instrumental Symphonies, Glees, &c.

As a chorister "Master Norris" sang at the Worcester Festival of 1761. He afterwards became, as a tenor, one of the chief supports of the Festivals of the Three Choirs. Unfortunately, however, an early love disappointment caused him to give way to intemperate habits, and it is said that at the Musical Festival of 1789 in Westminster Abbey he was quite unable to hold the book from which he was singing.

The following is his inscription in Himley Churchyard:—

"In memory of Mr. Thomas Norris, Bachelor of Music, who came to Himley Hall for the benefit of his health, and breathed his last there on the 3rd of Sept., 1790, aged 50.

"Though human efforts were too weak to save,
The tear of friendship has bedewed his grave;
That tear, by nature to his memory shed,
Honours alike the living and the dead."

WILLIAM CROTCH, Mus.D., Oxon., 1799 .. ... 1790 (?)1807

Son of a carpenter. Born in Green Lane, Parish of St. George's, Colegate, Norwich, July 5, 1775. Showed unusual musical capabilities at a very early age. Pupil of Dr. Randall at Cambridge. Succeeded Norris at Christ Church, Oxford, 1790. Succeeded P. Hayes as Organist of St. John's College, St. Mary's Church, and University Professor of Music, 1797. Afterwards settled in London as a teacher, and became the first Principal of the Royal Academy of Music, 1823. Resigned 1831. Died December 29, 1847. Buried at Bishop's Hull, near Taunton. Composer of Oratorios, "Palestine" and "Captivity of Judah" (two with the latter title), an Ode, Church music, Glees, Organ pieces, &c. Author of "Elements of Musical Composition," Lecturer, &c. Was also skilled in drawing.

* "Unfortunately the Quire of Magdalen College had not often the opportunity of admiring his excellence. When admitted as a Clerk, he was mildly desired by the President, Dr. Horne, to attend at the chapel occasionally. This he understood so literally, as to make his appearance only once a quarter, on the days that the Clerks received their salary. On these rare occasions a servant in livery preceded him with his surplice and hood."—(Magdalen Registers, Bloxam.)

Crotch possessed an unusual facility in the use of his hands, and was able to write as easily with his left as with his right. It is also said that, in order to save time, he would often write down the notes of two separate staves of music simultaneously.

WILLIAM CROSS ... ... (?)1807 1825

Born at Oxford, 1777. Organist of St. Martin's, Oxford; Organist of St. John's College, 1807; succeeded Dr. Crotch as Organist of the Cathedral and of the University Church, (?) 1807. Died June 20, 1825. Composer of Church Music. His familiar Chant in C minor was composed for the funeral of the Rev. Dr. White, Canon of Christ Church.

The Rev. W. H. Havergal remarked of Cross that he was "a good organist, but no musician," a criticism which is justified on reference to the (undated) Collection of Chants compiled by him during his organistship, and also to his edition of Dr. W. Hayes's "Psalms."

WILLIAM MARSHALL, Mus.D., Oxon., 1840 ... 1825 1846

Born at Oxford, 1806. Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Pupil of Braham, Neate, and Horsley. Organist of Christ Church Cathedral and St. John's College, Oxford, 1825; Organist of All Saints', Oxford, 1839; Organist of St. Mary's, Kidderminster, 1846. Died at Handsworth, August 17, 1875. Composer of Church Music, &c. Editor, with A. Bennett, of a Collection of Chants, and a book of Words of Anthems. Author of "The Art of reading Church Music."

During the vacancy, lasting some months, between the resignation of Marshall and the appointment of Corfe, SIR FREDERICK OUSELEY officiated as Organist gratuitously. He was then an undergraduate of Christ Church.

CHARLES WILLIAM CORFE, Mus.D., Oxon., 1852 ... 1846 1882

Son of A. T. Corfe, Organist of Salisbury. Born at Salisbury, July 13, 1814. Pupil of his father. Organist of Christ Church, 1846. Conductor of the University Motet and Madrigal Society, 1848. University Choragus, 1850. Died at Oxford, December 16, 1883. Composer of Church Music, Glees, &c

A stained glass window, designed by Sir Edward Burne-Jones, was presented to the Cathedral by Dr. C. W. Corfe.

Sir John Stainer used to tell the following story concerning Dr. C. W. Corfe. It formed one of his reminiscences of Sir Frederick Ouseley while the latter was an undergraduate at Christ Church:—

"Being a musician of the old type, Dr. Corfe rarely changed his stops during the Psalms; Ouseley and his young friends got so accustomed to one particular quality of tone that they named it the Corfe-mixture. Ouseley knew that Dr. Corfe always, at the close of one Service, prepared his stops for the giving out of the chant at the next; moreover, Dr. Corfe was fond of long walks, and made a point of rushing into the organ loft just in time to place his hands on the keys. This offered a temptation to the undergraduates which was irresistible. Watching Corfe safely out of the Cathedral one morning, Ouseley put in all the pre-arranged stops, and then drew on each manual the most horrible and startling combination he could think of. When evening service commenced, Ouseley and his friends stood behind a pillar to hear the effect. Sure enough, just as the Psalms approached, Dr. Corfe hurried in and placed his hands on the keys. Everybody in the church gave a start, except Dr. Corfe himself, who placidly held down the chord while he, one by one, put in the objectionable registers, and gradually drawing his usual stops, once more reverted to the inevitable 'Corfe-mixture'." (Musical Times, August, 1902.)

CHARLES HARFORD LLOYD, M.A., Mus.D., Oxon.; F.R.C.O. 1882 1892

(See under Gloucester.)

BASIL HARWOOD, M.A., Oxon., 1884; Mus.D., Oxon., 1896; F.R.C.O. 1892 1909

Son of Edward Harwood, J.P Born at Woodhouse, Olveston, Gloucestershire, April 11, 1859. Educated at Charterhouse, and Trinity College, Oxford. Pupil of J. L. Roeckel, Mrs. Roeckel, George Riseley, and Dr. C. W. Corfe. Also studied at the Leipzig Conservatorium. Organist of Trinity College, Oxford, 1878; Organist of St. Barnabas', Pimlico, 1883; Organist of Ely Cathedral, 1887, resigning the latter post on his appointment to Christ Church, Oxford. Conductor of Oxford Orchestral Association, 1892-8, and Oxford Bach Choir, 1896. President of the University Musical Club, 1881 and 1895. Precentor of Keble College, 1892. Choragus of Oxford University, 1900. Retired from the Organistship at Oxford, 1909. Composer of Settings of Psalms 86 and 137, a Motet, Church Music, a Concerto for Organ and Orchestra, Organ pieces, Pianoforte pieces, Songs, &c.

HENRY GEORGE LEY, M.A., Oxon., 1913; Mus.D., Oxon., 1919; F.R.C.O., A.R.C.M. ... ... 1909 ——

Born at Chagford, Devon, December 30, 1887. Chorister in St. George's Chapel, Windsor. Exhibitioner of the Royal College of Music and pupil of Sir Walter Parratt at St. George's Chapel, Windsor. Music Scholar, Uppingham School. Organist of St. Mary's, Farnham Royal, 1905-1906. Organ Scholar of Keble College, Oxford, 1906. Conductor of Keble College Musical Society, 1906-1909. President of the University Musical Club, 1908. Organist of Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford, 1909. Precentor of Radley College, 1915-1917. Professor of the Organ, Royal College of Music, 1919. Composer of Church Music, Orchestral Variations, a String Quartet, a Violin Sonata, Songs, &c.

(For Magdalen, New, and St. John's Colleges, Oxford, see pages 149-158.)

PETERBOROUGH.

RICHARD STOREY ... ... 1541 ——

He was Organist in the time of the Monastery, and continued to hold the office at the Reformation, at a salary of £10 per annum.

RICHARD TILLER ... ... —— 1592

In 1583 Richard Tiller and John Mudd were Organists in turn every half year until 1592.

JOHN MUDD ... (Joint-Organist with Richard Tiller, 1583; sole Organist) 1592 1639

Organist, Vicar Choral, and Epistoler. Probably grandfather or some early relative of the Mudd who was Organist of Lincoln Cathedral. In 1629 he was awarded £4 as "benevolence money." Buried in St. Giles', Cripplegate, London, July 26, 1639. A Complete Service and four Anthems by him are included in the Ely MS. Collection. An 8vo edition of his Anthem, "O God, Who hast prepared," has recently been issued by Messrs. Novello.

DAVID STANDISH 1661 1676

His salary was £20 per annum. Died 1676. Buried in the Cathedral. His epitaph runs thus:—

"David Standish, Deo in Eccleſia Petriburgh. Annos 50. Serviens, & pluſquam 80 Annorum tædio laſſatus, attritas Mortalitatis exuvias depoſuit." Dec. 6, 1676.—(Willis's "Survey.")

WILLIAM STANDISH 1677 1690

Salary, £20 per annum.

In 1680 Thomas Thamer, of London, contracted with the Dean and Chapter to make a new organ for £115, towards which the Dean contributed £15, and each Prebendary £7 15s.

ROGER STANDISH 1690 1713

Salary, £20 per annum. In 1691 he was allowed £8 for pricking eight new books and filling up eight old ones. Died 1713. Buried in the Cathedral

JAMES HAWKINS (Junr.) 1714 1759

Son of James Hawkins, Mus.B., Organist of Ely Cathedral. In 1728 he received notice of dismissal from the Dean and Chapter for insolent and rude behaviour to them, unless he made amends. This he appears to have done.

His Anthem, "O praise the Lord," is to be found in the Ely and Tudway Collections.

GEORGE WRIGHT 1759 1774

Organist and Master of the Choristers.

CARTER SHARPE 1774 1777

Dismissed in 1777 for negligence in the duties of his office.

JAMES RODGERS 1777 1784

Presumably the James Rogers who was Organist of Ely Cathedral, 1774-1777.

(See under Ely.)

RICHARD LANGDON... ... ... 1784 1785

Resigned in 1785.

It cannot be ascertained whether this is the Richard Langdon of Exeter, Ely, Bristol, and Armagh Cathedrals (who may have taken duty here for a time) or some relative to him.

JOHN CALAH 1785 1798

Born 1758. Organist of St. Mary's Church and Master of the Song School, Newark-on-Trent, 1782. Organist of Peterborough Cathedral, 1785. Died 1798. Buried in the "New Building" of the Cathedral. Composer of Church Music, Songs, a Sonata for pianoforte, violin, and 'cello, &c. A Double Chant by him was formerly very popular.

In his entertaining book "Music and Friends" (Vol. III.), William Gardiner of Leicester relates that, during one of his visits to Peterborough, about 1786, he made the acquaintance of John Calah, who presented him with a new Song that he had just published. "I touched the organ," says Gardiner, "which was some hundred years old; the keys were so worn that it was like putting your fingers into a row of ivory spoons. As to execution upon such an instrument, it was impossible."

SAMUEL SPOFFORTH 1799 1807
(See under Lichfield.)

THOMAS KNIGHT 1808 1811
Born 1789. Died November 21, 1811.

EDMUND LARKIN 1812 1837
Appointed at a salary of £45 per annum, afterwards increased to £63, with an additional sum of £6 for tuning the Cathedral Organ and the Harpsichord in the Music Room.
Born 1785. Was also Organist of St. John's Church, Peterborough; afterwards Organist of Stamford Parish Church. Died at Stamford, December 9, 1839.

JOHN SPEECHLY 1837 1869
Born at Peterborough, 1811. Also held appointment of Organist of St. John's Church, Peterborough. Died August 7, 1869. He is buried in the South Choir Aisle of the Cathedral, where there is a tablet to his memory.

HAYDN KEETON, Mus.D., Oxon., 1877 F.R.C.O. 1870 1921
Born at Mosborough, Derbyshire, October 26, 1847. Chorister in St. George's Chapel, Windsor. Pupil of Sir George Elvey. Organist of Datchet Parish Church, 1867, and afterwards at Hawtrey's School at Slough, which he resigned on his appointment to Peterborough. Conductor of Peterborough Choral and Orchestral Societies. Conductor and Organist of Peterborough and Lincoln Festivals. Died May 27, 1921. Composer of Church Music, a Symphony for orchestra, Pianoforte pieces, Part-Songs, Songs, &c. Author of "Church and Cathedral Choristers' Singing Method."
The year after Dr. Keeton was appointed Dean Saunders, with the idea of shortening the services during Holy Week, suggested that Single Chants should be sung, instead of Double Chants, for the Psalms! It is needless to add that the suggestion was not acted upon. On March 24, 1920, Dr. Keeton completed the fiftieth year of his Organistship at Peterborough. During this long period he had effected many improvements in the Cathedral Services there. The present four-manual Organ, by Messrs. W. Hill & Son, was built under his direction, and opened in 1894

RICHARD HENRY PINWILL COLEMAN, Mus.B., Dub.; F.R.C.O.... ... ... 1921 ——
Born at Dartmouth, April 3, 1888 Chorister in St. George's Church, Ramsgate, and in Denstone College, where he was educated. Articled pupil of Sydney H. Nicholson, M.A., Mus.B., at Carlisle and Manchester Cathedrals. Successively Organist of St. Stephen's, Carlisle; Sub-Organist of Manchester Cathedral; Organist of Blackburn Parish Church, Londonderry Cathedral and the Heritage Schools of Arts and Crafts, Chailey, Sussex. Organist of Peterborough Cathedral, 1921. Compositions include an Evening Service in D, pianoforte pieces, and Folk-Song arrangements.

RIPON.

This was a See for a short period (681–686) in Saxon times. Its first and only Bishop, for some centuries, was Eadhead.

SEE RE-ESTABLISHED IN 1836.

(PREVIOUSLY A COLLEGIATE CHURCH.)

The first mention of "Organs" in the Fabric Rolls of Ripon Cathedral is in 1399, and the first payment to an Organist in 1447, when THOMAS LITSTER received the annual fee of 10s. for playing on the organs

In 1478 LAURENCE LANCASTER was Organist, and received a like sum, but out of this only 3s. 6d. was for playing on the organs, and the remainder was for singing Mass in the Lady Chapel.

In 1546 occurs "a rent of 13/4 payd yerlie to the organ player, comynge furthe of the comon of the saide Church."—("Memorials of Ripon," edited or the Surtees Society, by J. T. Fowler.)

—— WANLASS ... ... —— ——

Probably a relative of Thomas Wanless, Organist of York.

—— WILSON ... ... 1670 (?)1677

"Singing-man," appointed to play instead of Wanlass, who had become deaf.

WILLIAM SORRELL ... ... 1677 ——

"May 31, 1679. Ordered that Mr. Sorrell have five shillings out of y^e^ fabrick per ann. for wire and his paines for repairing y^e^ Organ, and that Mr. Deane pay him soe much for y^e^ last yeare and charge it in his next audit's accounts"

—— SHAW ... ... —— (?)1682

JOHN HAWKINS ... ... 1682 (?)1690

THOMAS PRESTON (Senr.) 1690 1730

Born 1662. Died 1730. Buried in South Transept of the Cathedral. A Chant by him is to be found in one or two Collections.

"May 29, 1708. Whereas the organ of this church hath been much damaged, occasioned by the fall of the Trumpett stop amongst the other small pipes, which hath been repaired by Mr. Thomas Preston, the Organist, for which the Chapter is well satisfyed that he deserves the sume of Tenne pounds which sume is therefore ordered to be paid to him as followeth, viz., five pounds part thereof at Martainemasse next, and five pounds the remainder so soone as the same can be spaired out of the fabrick money." There are also entries in the Chapter books of payments to Preston for copying music into the "song books."

THOMAS PRESTON (Junr.) 1731 1748

Son of the foregoing.

WILLIAM AYRTON 1748 1799

Born 1726. Died February 2, 1799. The Cathedral records state that he was son of Edward Ayrton, Chirurgeon (who in 1760-61 was Mayor of Ripon), and that he was baptized in the Cathedral on November 18, 1726. Dr. Edmund Ayrton (see under Southwell) was his brother.

WILLIAM FRANCIS MORRALL AYRTON 1799 1802

THOMAS AYRTON 1802 1822

Born 178½. Died October 24, 1822, having been Organist for twenty years.

JOHN HENRY BOND ... ... 1823 (?)1829

Previously Organist of Portsmouth Dockyard Chapel.

GEORGE BATES 1829 1873

Born at Halifax, July 6, 1802. Organist of Ripon Cathedral, 1829. Retired 1873. Died January 24, 1881. Buried in Holy Trinity Churchyard. Composer of a Volume of Sacred Music, Hymns, &c. There is a brass to Bates in the North Nave Aisle of the Cathedral on which is engraved his Veni Creator.

EDWIN JOHN CROW, Mus.D., Cantab., 1883; F.R.C.O. 1873 1902

Born at Sittingbourne, September 17, 1841. Chorister in Rochester Cathedral, and pupil of Dr. J. L. and Mr. John Hopkins. Afterwards studied under G. A. Löhr, at Leicester. Organist successively of Trinity, St. Andrew's, and St. John's Churches, Leicester. Organist of Ripon Cathedral, 1873, commencing duty January 1, 1874. Conductor of the Cathedral Festival Choir and of Ripon Orchestral Society. Music Master of Ripon Grammar School. Retired from the Organistship at Ripon, 1902. Died at Harrogate, December 6, 1908. Composer of a Harvest Cantata, Services, Anthems, Organ pieces, Pianoforte pieces, Songs, &c.

CHARLES HARRY MOODY, C.B.E.,* 1920; F.R.C.O., honoris causâ ... ... 1902 ——

Born at Dennis Park, Stourbridge, March 22, 1874. Articled pupil of T. Westlake Morgan at Bangor Cathedral. Successively Acting-Organist of St. Michael's College, Tenbury; Deputy-Organist, afterwards Acting-Organist of Wells Cathedral. Organist of Wigan Parish Church, 1895; Holy Trinity Church, Coventry, 1899; Ripon Cathedral, 1902. Lecturer in Music at Ripon and Wakefield Diocesan Training College since 1902. * Awarded for his successful organization of numerous Military Services, Organ Recitals, and Concerts for the Troops, and for raising various funds in connection with the War.

ROCHESTER.

Through the kindness of Mr. Thomas Shindler, M.A., LL.B., Registrar of the Royal College of Organists, I have been enabled to quote much valuable information regarding the earlier Organists of Rochester Cathedral from his interesting and researchful book, "Registers of the Cathedral of Rochester."

The particulars concerning the first five Organists below-mentioned are taken literally from that work.

JAMES PLOMLEY was Organist in 1559.

"He is mentioned in a Patent of this date, as 'Organist and Teacher of the Children.' The Patent is to Peter Rowle, to feed, lodge, and clothe the choristers after the death of Plomley."

ROPER BLUNDELL was Organist in 1588.

"He was appointed by Patent of this date to the office of 'Master of the Coristers or Singinge Children and player upon the Organs in the said Cathedral.' He was described as 'one of the ministers or companye of the Quire,' and was granted the 'Chambers being at the east side of the long gallery called the Cannon Place lately in the tenure of John Bartlett or Kinge deceased.' John Bartlett or Kinge was Curate of Chatham and Vicar of Dartford."—(Denne's Repertorium.)

JOHN WILLIAMS (the elder) was Organist in 1599.

"He was appointed Petty Canon by Patent of this date, and also 'teacher of the Children.' He is described as 'one of the ministers or company of the Quire,' and had the house of Roper Blundell deceased. In 1609 a Patent was granted to 'John Williams the elder, one of the ministers or company of the Quyer, and John Robinson the younger, one of the clerks or company of the Quyer,' to be 'Master of the Choristers' for the life of the longest liver."

JOHN HEATH was Organist in 1614.

"In the Treasurer's book of this date he appears as Organist, but I cannot find this Patent. In the Survey of the Parsonage of Chatham (Parliamentary Surveys, 1649, Lambeth Library) is the following: In 1608, the Dean 'granted unto Phillipp Heath and John Heath sonne of the sayd Phillipp Heath the office of Clerke and Organiste dureing the tearme of their naturall lives and the longest liver of either of them, with the annuall ffee or stipend of Twelve pounds of lawfull English Money, issueing and payeable out of the foresaide parsonage of Chatham. . . . Phillipp Heath is deceased. John Heath aged about sixty years.' John Heath appears as Organist of the Cathedral so late as 1668."

[Heath is probably the composer of Anthems mentioned under this name in Clifford's Collection, and an Evening Service in the Peterhouse Collection at Cambridge.]

CHARLES WREN was Organist in 1672.

"He appears as Organist in the Treasurer's book of this date In the 'Red' Book of 1661 it was 'Ordered that Mr. William Rothwell for the reversion of the Organist's place at Mr. John Heath's death should have a Patent.' William Wrothwell had a Patent for a Petty Canon's place in 1662; I do not find him mentioned as Organist."

[Wren was afterwards Organist of Gloucester Cathedral.]

ROBERT BOWERS 1699 1704
Died 1704. Buried in the Cathedral Yard.

JOHN SPAIN 1704 1721
The Baptismal Registers of the Cathedral include the names of four of his children. Died 1721. Buried in the Cathedral.

CHARLES PEACH 1721 1753
Died 1753. Buried in the Cathedral.

JOSEPH HOWE ... ... 1753 (?)1781
There are Baptismal entries of four of his children in the Cathedral Registers.

RICHARD HOWE ... ... 1781 (?)1790
Son of the preceding.

RALPH BANKS 1790 1841
Born at Durham, 1762. Chorister in Durham Cathedral, and afterwards Assistant-Organist there, under Ebdon; also Organist of Houghton-le-Spring Parish Church. Organist of Rochester Cathedral, 1790. During a part of the period of his appointment at Rochester he was also Voluntary Organist at the Evening Services at St. John's, Chatham. Died September 20, 1841, aged 79. Buried in the Nave of the Cathedral.

He published a Selection of Hymn Tunes from Purcell, Croft, &c. A volume of his Cathedral Music was published posthumously by Messrs. Chappell. It includes an Anthem, "O Sing unto the Lord," composed for the re-opening of the organ at Rochester Cathedral, after additions to it by Hill, on November 22nd (St. Cecilia's Day), 1840.

At the time of Banks's appointment the prayers at Rochester Cathedral were read, not chanted, by the Minor Canons. Through Banks's exertions this abuse was rectified.—(See Dr. Jebb on the "Choral Service.") The following entry, made by Banks in an Organ Book belonging to the Cathedral, has been kindly supplied to me by a past Organist. John Hopkins, and throws an additional light upon the limited scope of the musical services there at this time: "When I came from Durham to this Cathedral in 1790, only one Lay Clerk attended during each week. The daily service was chanted. Two Services (Aldrich in G and Rogers in D) and seven Anthems had been in rotation on Sundays for twelve years!!!—R. B." This entry appears in one of four Organ Books in the handwriting of Banks, who grouped their contents as follows: 1, Full Services; 2, Full Anthems; 3, Verse Services; 4, Verse Anthems.

JOHN LARKIN HOPKINS, Mus.D., Cantab., 1857 ... 1841 1856
Cousin to Dr. E. J. Hopkins. Born at Westminster, 1820. Chorister in Westminster Abbey. First President of the Abbey Glee Club, 1841. Organist of Rochester Cathedral, 1841. Left Rochester on his appointment as Organist of Trinity College, Cambridge, 1856; Organist to Cambridge University, 1856 Died at Ventnor, April 25, 1873. Buried in Ventnor Cemetery. Composer of Church Music, Glees, Songs, &c.

JOHN HOPKINS, F.R.C.O. 1856 1900

Cousin to the foregoing, and brother to Dr. E. J. Hopkins. Born at Westminster, April 30, 1822. Chorister in St. Paul's Cathedral. Organist of Mitcham Parish Church, 1838; St. Stephen's, Islington, 1839; Holy Trinity, Islington, 1843; St. Mark's, Jersey, 1845; St. Michael's, Chester Square, London, 1846; and the Parish Church, Epsom, which he resigned on his appointment to Rochester Cathedral in 1856. Died August 27, 1900. There is a mural tablet to his memory in the South Aisle of the Choir. Composer of Church Music, Organ pieces, Pianoforte pieces, &c.

BERTRAM LUARD-SELBY 1900 1916

ST. ALBAN'S.

SEE ESTABLISHED IN 1877.

ROBERT FAYRFAX, Mus.D., Cantab., 1501-02, et Oxon., 1511 ... ... 1498 ——

He is worthy of mention as one of the Organists of St. Alban's before its suppression as an Abbey. In his day he was "in great renowne and accounted the prime musitian of the nation" (Anthony à Wood). It is said that the organ then in use, presented to the Church in 1462 by John of Wheathampsted, was the finest in England.

Born (probably) at Bayford (Herts), circa 1465. Gentleman of the Chapel Royal in 1496. On March 28, 1502, he received, at St. Alban's, the sum of 2 s. from Queen Elizabeth of York "for setting an Anthem of Oure Lady and Saint Elizabeth." On September 10, 1514, he was appointed "one of the Poor Knights of Windsor," with 12d. a day. In the list of the King's Chapel at the Field of Cloth of Gold, in June, 1520, the name of Fayrfax stands at the head of the Singing-men. Died October 24, 1521. Buried in the Presbytery of St. Alban's Abbey. Composer of both sacred and secular music.* Some of his compositions are to be found in the music libraries at Oxford, Cambridge, the British Museum, and elsewhere.

* Praiseworthy efforts have been made in recent years, by Dr. R. R. Terry and others, to revive an interest in the compositions of Fayrfax, and on March 23, 1920, a lecture was given on the subject in St. Alban's Cathedral by Mr. S. Royle Shore, with musical illustrations under the direction of the present Organist, Mr. W. L. Luttman.

The Organist at the establishment of the See in 1877 was—

JOHN STOCKS BOOTH 1858 1880

Born at Sheffield, 1828. Pupil of Gauntlett, Thalberg, Sterndale Bennett, and Molique. Organist, successively, of Queen Street Chapel, Sheffield, and Wortley Church and St. Philip's, Sheffield (double appointment). Removed to Watford (Herts), and was shortly afterwards appointed Organist at St. Alban's Abbey. Died of cerebral paralysis, December 7, 1879. Buried in the Cathedral Yard.

At the time of his appointment the Abbey organ was a small instrument by Father Smith and the Services were of a very primitive character. The Tate and Brady versions of the Psalms were the only hymns in use. These were announced by the organ blower, who emerged from his corner in a surplice yellow with age, and performed his task in broad Hertfordshire brogue. The character of the Services was, however, gradually improved, and a new organ was erected from Mr. Booth's specification (with the valuable help of Dr. E. J. Hopkins) by Messrs. Hill & Son, at a cost of £1,300, and opened with a special Musical Festival. Mr. Booth directed the musical arrangements at the Service of the enthronement of the first Bishop (Dr. Claughton, previously Bishop of Rochester), on June 12, 1877.

GEORGE GAFFE, F.R.C.O.... ... ... 1880 1907

Born at Cawston, Norfolk, July 27, 1849. Chorister in Norwich Cathedral, and pupil of and assistant to Dr. Z. Buck. Organist of Oswestry Parish Church, 1874, and afterwards appointed to St. Alban's. Founder and Principal of the St. Alban's School of Music; Fellow and Member of the Council of the Royal College of Organists. Died 1907. Composer of an Evening Service, a set of Offertory Sentences, &c.

WILLIAM LEWIS LUTTMAN, M.A., 1897; Mus.B., Cantab., 1903; F.R.C.O. ... ... 1907 ——

Born February 20, 1874, at High Wycombe, Bucks. Pupil of and Assistant-Organist to J. G. Wrigley, Mus.B., at High Wycombe Parish Church. Student of the Royal College of Music. Organist of Tyler's Green Church, 1888; Organ Scholar of St. Peter's College, Cambridge, 1893; Organist of Hughenden Parish Church, 1894; Banbury Parish Church, 1898; St. Alban's Cathedral, 1907. Principal of the St. Alban's School of Music.

In 1907 the Hill Organ was rebuilt and enlarged to a four-manual instrument by Messrs. Abbott & Smith, of Leeds.

ST. ASAPH.

JOHN DAY ... ... —— 1630
"Mr. of the Quire." Buried April 26, 1630.

ABEDNEGO G. PERKINS 1630 1631
"Mr of the Quire." "Choristu, mg'r sepultus fuit in eccl'ia Cathedrali Asaphen 13° die Octobris, 1631."

JOHN WILSON ... ... —— 1641
Buried November 30, 1641.

THOMAS OTTEY ... ... 1669 ——
"Vicar, Precentor, and Organist of this Cathedral." Died March 19, 1670. A Mr. Ottey, Senior Minor Canon and Master of the Choristers at Chester Cathedral in 1690, was possibly a son or some other relative.

WILLIAM KEY (Vicar Choral) 1680 1686
Previously Organist of Manchester Collegiate Church (now the Cathedral). William Kay, afterwards Organist of Chester Cathedral, may have been the same person, or a son.

THOMAS HUGHES 1686 1693
"Organist of ye Cathedral Church of St. Asaph." Buried September 6, 1693.

ALEXANDER GERARD 1694 1738
Died March, 1738. An Alexander Gerrard was a Chorister in the Chapel Royal until about 1694. There is some Church Music by him in the MS. Books of the Cathedral.

JOHN GERARD ... ... 1738 (?)1779
Son of Alexander Gerard. Singing-boy, retired, 1737. Supernumerary Singing-man, 1737. Organist, May, 1738. Appointed Organist of Wrexham Parish Church, 1779. Died 1788. There is a Song by J. Gerrard in "Clio and Euterpe" (1758-1762). (See also Richard Jarred or Gerard, Organist of Bangor Cathedral, 1778-1782.)

JOHN JONES 1782 1785
The Organ had been taken down, so he was paid only £20.

EDWARD BAILEY 1785 1791
"Organist and Singing-man."
Afterwards Organist of Chester Cathedral. (See under Chester.)

CHARLES SPENCE 1791 1794
Probably a relative of Thomas Spence, who was for seventy-nine years a member of the Choir of Chester Cathedral, and lies buried in the North Transept there.

HENRY HAYDEN 1794 1834

Chorister of Norwich Cathedral, and pupil of Dr. Beckwith there. Appointed Organist and Singing-man at St. Asaph Cathedral at the age of twenty. Buried at Llanbeblig, 1848. There is some Church Music by him in the MS. Books of the Cathedral.

[WILLIAM ROBERT HAYDEN] 1829 1833

On his tombstone in the Cathedral Churchyard he is described as Organist, but he must have been Deputy-Organist for his father. Died 1833.

ROBERT AUGUSTUS ATKINS 1834 1889

Son of Robert Atkins, Lay Vicar of Chichester Cathedral. Born at Chichester, October 2, 1811. Chorister in Chichester Cathedral, and afterwards Assistant-Organist there. Organist of St. Asaph Cathedral for fifty-five years. Died at St. Asaph, August 3, 1889. Composer of Church Music, including MS. Services in A and G, and several Chants.

LLEWELYN LLOYD 1889 1897

Chorister in St. Asaph Cathedral. Pupil of R. A. Atkins, and afterwards Assistant-Organist. Organist, 1889. Retired 1897.

HUGH PERCY ALLEN, M.A., Mus.D., Oxon., 1898; F.R.C.O. 1897 1898

NOW SIR HUGH ALLEN, Kt.

Born at Reading, 1870. Pupil of Dr. F. J. Read. Organist (when only eleven years of age) of St. Saviour's, Reading. Organist of Tilehurst Church, 1884; Eversley Parish Church, 1886; Assistant-Organist at Chichester Cathedral, 1887; Organist to the Merchant Taylors' Schools, Bognor, 1890; Christ's College, Cambridge, 1892; St. Asaph Cathedral, 1897; Ely Cathedral, 1898; New College, Oxford, 1901. Professor of Music in the University of Oxford, 1918. Director of Royal College of Music, London, 1919. For some years Director of Music at University College, Reading, and Conductor of the Oxford Bach Choir and Oxford Philharmonic Society. Conductor of the Bach Choir, London. Knighted in 1920. Composer of an Ode to the Passions, Church Music, &c. Lecturer on music, &c.

ARCHIBALD WAYET WILSON, Mus.D., Oxon., 1897; F.R.C.O. 1898 1901

Born at Pinchbeck, Lincolnshire, 1869. Student at the Royal College of Music under Sir Walter Parratt, Sir F. Bridge, &c. Organist of St. Paul's, East Moulsey, 1888. Organ Scholar at Keble College, Oxford, 1890. Music Master, Temple Grove, 1894. Organist of St. John's, St. Leonard's, 1896; St. Asaph Cathedral, 1898; Ely Cathedral, 1901; Manchester Cathedral, 1919. Composer of Church Music, a Choral Ballad, Part-songs, &c.

CYRIL BRADLEY ROOTHAM, M.A., Mus.D., Cantab. 1901 1901 (6 months only).

WILLIAM EDWARD BELCHER, M.A., Cantab., F.R.C.O., A.R.C.M. 1901 1917

Born at Handsworth, 1864. Student of the Royal College of Music. Choral Scholar in King's College, Cambridge. Organist of the Parish Church, Kingston-on-Thames, 1891; St. Michael's, Headingley, Leeds, 1893. Deputy-Organist to the Leeds Corporation, 1895. Organist of St. Asaph, 1901. Resigned 1917. Composer of Church Music.

HAROLD CARPENTER LAMB STOCKS ... ... 1917 ——

Born at Essendon, Herts, 1884. Pupil of Dr. A. W. Wilson and others. Organist of Littleport Parish Church, 1902; St. Mary's, Ely, 1906. Assistant-Organist of Ely Cathedral, 1906. Organist of Yeovil Parish Church, 1909; Ludlow Parish Church, 1911. Invalided from Army after active service in Egypt and Salonika, 1916. Organist of St. Asaph Cathedral, 1917. Composer of Church Music, Songs, &c.

ST. DAVID'S.

WALTER WARRYN ... ...

Was Organist, 1490.

Archdeacon Yardley, in his MSS. entitled "Memoria Sacra." mentions that in Bishop Vaughan's time (1509-1522) "Mr. JOHN NORMAN, a Skillful and Learned Musician, was Organist and Master of y^e^ Choristers."*

LEWIS MORRIES was Organist, 1551.

THOMAS ELLIOT was Organist, 1563.

THOMAS TOMKINS (Senr.) ... ...

Father of the Thomas Tomkins who became Organist of Worcester Cathedral. Was Vicar Choral in 1571, when on July 12 he was admonished by the Precentor. On April 29, 1577, he is described as "Master of the Choristers and Organ Player," when, upon his declaration that he was unable to live upon the "wages and commodity" then offered to him, his son—Thomas Tomkins, Junr.†—was granted a Vicar's Stall which had become vacant, "to the end that his poor father, at whose finding he is, may thereby the rather be relieved." This, however, he forfeited in 1586, for misbehaviour.

Thomas Tomkins, Senr., afterwards became Precentor of Gloucester Cathedral. He is probably the composer of the Madrigal "The fauns and satyrs tripping," included in "The Triumphs of Oriana," 1601.

The Records give no names of Organists from 1577 until 1713.

* Probably the John Norman mentioned in Hawkins's "History" as one of the famous musicians who flourished before the Reformation.

† This must have been another Thomas Tomkins, Junr., an elder brother of the Organist of Worcester Cathedral.

The following incident concerning the Organist of St. David's, at the time of the attack upon the Cathedral by the Parliamentary troops during the Civil Wars, is worth quoting: "The rebels were consulting in the Choir about what other sacrilegious mischiefs they should perform; it was at length agreed to destroy the organ. The Organist, who had secreted himself within the organ loft, heard the same, and knowing that, if they perpetrated their intended mischief, he should lose his bread, he threw a large stone into the Choir; which falling on the head of one of Cromwell's aides-de-camp killed him. Dreading the consequence of his being discovered and taken by the rebels, he fled; they perceived, and pursued him, when he had the presence of mind to get into one of the bells which hung low, and there supported himself by the clapper, until they had given up the search."—("History and Antiquities of the Parish of St. David's," by Captain Geo. W. Manby, R.N.)

R. MORDANT 1713 1714
Lay Vicar Choral.

HENRY MORDANT 1714 1719
Son of the preceding. Lay Vicar Choral.

RICHARD TOMKINS 1719 1719
Lay Vicar Choral. He was dismissed for neglect of duty.

WILLIAM BISHOP 1719 1720
Lay Vicar Choral. Dismissed for inebriety, afterwards restored, and finally dismissed in 1725.

MATTHEW MADDOX 1725 1733
Lay Vicar Choral.

MATTHEW PHILPOTT 1733 1739
Lay Vicar Choral.

MATTHEW PHILLIPS 1739 1782
Possibly the Matthew Phillips who had officiated as Organist of Magdalen College, Oxford, for three months in 1734.

JOHN DAY 1782 1787

ARTHUR RICHARDSON 1787 1826
Lay Vicar Choral. Formerly Assistant-Organist of Armagh Cathedral. He appears, from entries in the St. David's books, to have also been tuner of the organ. Died 1826.

JOHN BARRETT 1827 1851
Lay Vicar Choral. Died 1851.

WILLIAM PEREGRINE PROPERT, LL.D. and M.A., Cantab.; Mus.B., Oxon., 1850. et Cantab. (?) ... 1851 1883
Successively Chorister, Lay Vicar Choral and Organist, retaining his post as Lay Vicar Choral, 1883-1906. Died at St. David's, November 1, 1906, aged 75. Composer of Church Music.

During the restoration of the Cathedral, 1864-1883, the organ was not in use.

FREDERICK S. GARTON 1883 1894

Pupil of Dr. Done, and Assistant-Organist of Worcester Cathedral. Organist of Dudley Parish Church; St. David's Cathedral, 1883. Organist of St. Martin's, Haverfordwest. 1894.

D. JOHN D. CODNER 1894 1896

Born 1851. Organist of St. Bride's, Fleet Street, E.C. Organist of St. David's Cathedral, 1894. Retired through ill-health, 1896. Composer of Church Music.

HERBERT C. MORRIS, M.A., F.R.C.O. ... ... 1896 ——

Born at Coventry, June 18, 1873. Pupil of Frank Spinney, at Leamington; A. H. Brewer, at Coventry; and Sir Walter Parratt and others, at the Royal College of Music. Organist successively at the Parish Church, Kenilworth, various Churches in London, and Boscombe Pavilion. Assistant-Organist of Manchester Cathedral; Organist of St. Andrew's, Bath, 1896; Organist of St. David's Cathedral, 1896. Composer of Anthems, Services, &c.

SALISBURY.

There is record of an early Organist, THOMAS, described as "Organista," in 1454; also THOMAS KNYGHT, "lusor ad organa," circa 1531-1543. SIR BECKWYTH is paid "for playing on the organs for the whole year, 26s. 8d., 1558-1559." MR. CHAMBERLAYNE, Organist, paid for the whole year, 26s. 8d., 1561-1562.

RICHARD FULLER 1595 1598

JOHN FARRANT 1598 1602

(See under Ely.)

JOHN HOLMES 1602 1610

Previously Organist of Winchester Cathedral. Adrian Batten (Organist of St. Paul's) and Edward Lowe (Organist of Christ Church, Oxford) were among his pupils. Composer of Church Music, Madrigals, &c. Contributor to "The Triumphs of Oriana."

ELLIS GIBBONS ... ... —— ——

Brother of Orlando and Edward Gibbons. Born at Cambridge. Composer. Contributor to "The Triumphs of Oriana."

EDWARD TUCKER ... ...(?)1626 (?)1638

Composer of Church Music. The Anthem, "This is the day," generally attributed to the Rev. Wm. Tucker (Minor Canon of Westminster, 1660), is more probably the composition of Edward Tucker, from the fact that it appears in an old MS. Bass part-book, formerly in the possession of the late J. S. Bumpus, bearing evidences of belonging to a pre-Restoration period. It is there attributed to "Mr. Tucker."

GILES TOMKINS (Senr.) 1631 1668

According to the records at Salisbury his appointment there was made "Salvo Jure Ed. Tucker, Organiste." He had previously (1629) been appointed Altarist.

Brother of Thomas and John Tomkins. Organist of King's College, Cambridge, 1624-1626; Salisbury Cathedral, 1631. Reappointed to the latter post at the Restoration. Appointed a "Musician for the Virginalls with the voices in ordinary" to Charles I., April 2, 1630. Joint-Organist with his brother John to the King on his journey to Scotland, 1633. Re-appointed a "virginal player" in 1660. Died 1668.

(See also under Cambridge—King's College.)

MICHAEL WISE 1668 1687

Born at Salisbury, 1638. Chorister in the Chapel Royal, and afterwards a Gentleman of the same, 1675. Organist of Salisbury Cathedral, 1668. According to the Cathedral Records there appears to have been some trouble between Wise and the authorities there in connection with his duties, and on April 20, 1679, one MITTERNACHT was appointed to play as his deputy, his salary being deducted from that of Wise. Fines are recorded against the latter, on several occasions, for irregular attendance. Appointed Almoner and Master of the Choristers at St. Paul's Cathedral, 1687. He was a man of very quick temper, and was killed in a quarrel with the midnight watch, August 24, 1687.* Composer of Church Music.

"He is said to have been in great favour with Charles II., and being appointed to attend him in progress, claimed, as King's Organist for the time, the privilege of playing to his Majesty on the organ, at whatever church he went."—(Burney's "History of Music.") On one occasion, however, he incurred the King's displeasure by interrupting a sermon with a voluntary of his own. Notwithstanding his hasty temper, he seems to have exhibited a character of some pleasantry, for we are told that when in Charles II.'s reign he was asked to set his hand to a petition of which he did not approve (it was for the sitting of the Parliament), he wittily answered, "No, gentlemen, that is not my business; but I'll set a tune to it an you please."

The particulars of his death are said to have been these: "He had quarrelled with his wife on some trivial matter, and rushed out of his house. The watchman met him while he was boiling with rage, and commanding him to stand and give an account of himself, he struck the guardian of the peace to the ground, who in return aimed a blow at his assailant with his bill, which broke his skull, of the consequence whereof he died." (Hawkins's "History of Music.")

PETER ISAAC(KE) 1688 1692

(See under Dublin—Christ Church Cathedral.)

DANIEL ROSINGRAVE† 1692 1698

(See under Dublin—Christ Church Cathedral.)

* No entry of his burial is to be found at Salisbury, and the tradition that his grave was once to be found near the West door of the Cathedral is now supposed to have been derived from the fact that his wife was buried at that spot. Possibly he died and was buried in London, but whether his death was caused by the circumstances mentioned in Hawkins's "History" there is no substantial evidence to prove.

† When Rosingrave was appointed, Stephen Jeffries (of Gloucester Cathedral), Vaughan Richardson, and John Freeman were also candidates for the office. Richardson was successful, however, in obtaining the post at Winchester Cathedral vacated by Rosingrave.

ANTHONY WALKELEY ... ... (?) 1698 1717

Born 1672. Chorister in Wells Cathedral, and afterwards Vicar Choral there. Organist of Salisbury Cathedral, (?) 1698. Died at Salisbury, 1717. Buried in the Cathedral Nave. A Morning Service by him in E flat is included in Tudway's Collection, and some of his Anthems are extant in MS. His Morning Service in A was for a long time a favourite at Salisbury.

EDWARD THOMPSON 1718 1746

Was previously a Chorister in Magdalen College, Oxford, and probably an articled pupil to his cousin, Thomas Hecht, the Organist there.

JOHN STEPHENS, Mus.D., Cantab., 1763 ... ... 1746 (?) 1780

Previously a Chorister in Gloucester Cathedral. He conducted the Gloucester Festival of 1766. Died at Salisbury, December 15, 1780. Buried in the Cathedral, North Aisle of Nave. A volume of his Church Music was issued in 1805, edited by Highmore Skeats, Senr. He composed one of the four melodies still to be heard on the Gloucester Cathedral chimes.

ROBERT PARRY 1781 1792

Previously Organist of Wells Cathedral. Two very florid Double Chants by him, in E flat and F, are in a Collection edited by George Cleland, Organist of St. Mary's (Episcopal) Chapel, Bath, 1823.

JOSEPH CORFE 1792 1804

Born at Salisbury, 1740. Chorister in Salisbury Cathedral. Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, 1783. Succeeded R. Parry at Salisbury, 1792. Resigned in favour of his son, A. T. Corfe, 1804. Died July 29, 1820. Buried in the North-West Transept of Cathedral. Composer of Church Music, Glees, &c. Author of a treatise on Singing, &c.

ARTHUR THOMAS CORFE 1804 1863

Son of the preceding. Born at Salisbury, April 9, 1773. Chorister in Westminster Abbey. Pupil of Dr. Cooke and Clementi. Succeeded his father at Salisbury. Died suddenly whilst kneeling in prayer at his bedside, January 28, 1863. Buried in the Cathedral Cloisters. Composer of Church Music, Pianoforte pieces, &c. Author of a book on Harmony and Thorough Bass.

JOHN ELLIOTT RICHARDSON 1863 1881

Born at Salisbury. Pupil of A. T. Corfe, and Assistant-Organist at Salisbury for eighteen years. Succeeded his master, 1863. Resigned the appointment owing to ill-health, 1881. Afterwards became Organist of a Roman Catholic Church at Bognor. Composer of Church Music. Editor of the Salisbury Chant Book, a Collection of Sanctuses and Kyries, and a book of Voluntaries for the Organ.

BERTRAM LUARD-SELBY 1881 1883

Born at Ightham, Kent, February 12, 1853. Studied at the Leipzig Conservatorium under Reinecke and Jadassohn. Organist of St. Barnabas, Marylebone, and of Highgate School, 1876; Salisbury Cathedral, 1881; St. John's, Torquay, 1884; St. Barnabas, Pimlico, 1887; St. Andrew's, Willesden Green; All Saints', Norfolk Square; Rochester Cathedral, 1900. Director of Music at Bradfield College, Berks, 1916. Died December 26, 1918. Composer of Operas, Church Music, Orchestral Music, Chamber Music, Organ pieces, Part-songs, Pianoforte pieces, Songs, Chamber Music, &c.

CHARLES FREDERICK SOUTH 1883 1916

Born in London, February 6, 1850. Pupil of his brother, H. J. South, and George Cooper, occasionally deputising for the latter at St. Paul's Cathedral. Organist of Aske's Hospital, Hoxton, 1866; St. Augustine and St. Faith, E.C., 1868, resigning the latter post on his appointment to Salisbury. Conductor for a few years of the Sarum Choral Society. Died August 12, 1916. Composer of Church Music.

THOMAS WILLIAM HANFORTH, Mus.D., Dunelm., 1892 1892 ——

Born at Hunslet, Leeds, March 6, 1867. Chorister in York Minster. Pupil of W. H. Garland and Dr. J. Naylor. Organist to Archbishop Thomson, 1885. Deputy-Organist of York Minster, 1891. Organist of Sheffield Parish Church, 1892. Bandmaster 4th W.R.Y. Vol. Artillery, 1900-1903. Conductor of various choirs in the district. Composer of Church Music, Pianoforte pieces, Organ Music, &c.

SOUTHWELL.

(PREVIOUSLY A COLLEGIATE CHURCH.)

SEE ESTABLISHED IN 1884.

Before the Reformation the post of Organist at Southwell was held by one of the fifteen Vicars. This is confirmed by the mention of one GEORGE VINCENT, who was admitted Vicar Choral in 1505 and was Organist in 1519, the entry in records stating that in that year he was "presented" for frequent absence from the Choir, "so that the organs are not played." The new statutes, ordained by Queen Elizabeth in 1585, which are in force at the present day, required the appointment of a "Magister Puerorum" and "Rector Chori," one of whose duties was "Organa pulsanda."

It is to be regretted that, owing to the incomplete and illegible state of the record books at Southwell, so little information can be furnished between that given above and the eighteenth century.

JOHN HUTCHINSON was Organist some time before 1633.

(See under York.)

WILLIAM POPELY ... ... —— 1718

Possibly he had been a Chorister in Rochester Cathedral, as the Treasurer's books there contain an entry in 1679, ordering that "the sum of ten shillings be given to Popeley to encourage him in his learning to play upon the organ."

Died 1718. Buried in the South Transept of the Cathedral.

Two Anthems, "Not unto us" and "O be joyful," and a Psalm tune by him are included in an old book formerly in the possession of the late J. S. Bumpus.

WILLIAM LEE 1718 1754

Died 1754. Buried in the South Transept His Single Chant in G is still to be found in various Collections.

SAMUEL WISE, Auditor, officiated as Organist for a short time. This is possibly the Samuel Wise who took temporary duty as Organist some years earlier at Lincoln Cathedral (see page 65). One of this name published a collection of Anthems when Organist of St. Mary's Church, Nottingham.

EDMUND AYRTON, Mus.B., Cantab., 1784; (?)Mus.D., Oxon., 1788 ... ... 1755 1764

Born at Ripon, 1734. Son of Edward Ayrton, Barber Chirurgeon, of Ripon. Pupil of Nares. Succeeded William Lee as Organist at Southwell. Was also Auditor of the Cathedral. Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, 1764. Vicar Choral of St. Paul's Cathedral, 1767. Lay Vicar of Westminster Abbey, 1780. Master of the Choristers of the Chapel Royal, 1780-1805. Died at 24, James Street, Buckingham Gate, May 22, 1808. Buried in the North Cloister of Westminster Abbey. Composer of Church Music, Glees, &c. His degree exercise, the Anthem "Begin unto my God with timbrels," was sung at St. Paul's Cathedral at the Service of Thanksgiving for the close of the American Revolution, 1784.

"1756. Ap: 22. Mr. Ayrton to have leave to go to London for three months further instruction by Mr. Nares the Organist."

THOMAS SPOFFORTH 1764 1818

Born 1742. Uncle and Musical Instructor of Reginald Spofforth and of Samuel Spofforth. Retired on a pension, 1818. Died May 16, 1826. Buried in the South Transept of the Cathedral, to which he was a considerable benefactor. A Double Chant in F by him was inserted in Cleland's Bath Collection in 1823.

EDWARD HEATHCOTE 1818 1835

Previously Organist of Bakewell Church, Derbyshire, for the use of which he compiled a book of Words of Anthems. Died 1835. Buried in the South-East portion of the Cathedral Yard. Set to music the Ordination Hymn, "Come, Holy Ghost, Eternal God." Some of his Church Music in MS. is at Southwell, including a once popular Service in B flat.

1818. July 23. Mr. Spofforth allowed £25 per ann: for his long services. Ed. Heathcote Organist vice Mr. Spofforth, "to receive the ancient salary as Organist, as Rector Chori, and as one of the singing men, making together the annual sum of £30."

FREDERICK GUNTON 1835 1841

(See under Chester.)

CHAPPELL BATCHELOR 1841 1857

Born at Southwell, 1822. Chorister in Southwell Cathedral, 1830. King's Scholar of the Royal Academy of Music, 1838, under Potter, Goss, and others. Organist of Southwell Cathedral, 1841. Resigned 1857, and removed to Belper, afterwards to Derby.

HERBERT STEPHEN IRONS 1857 1872

Born at Canterbury, January 19, 1834, and Chorister in the Cathedral there, of which his father was a Lay Vicar. Pupil of Dr. Stephen Elvey at Oxford. Organist and Precentor of St. Columba's College, Rathfarnham, 1856. Organist of Southwell Cathedral, 1857. Assistant-Organist of Chester Cathedral, 1873. Organist of St. Andrew's, Nottingham, 1876. Composer of Church Music, Organ pieces, &c. His Tunes "Columba" ("The sun is sinking fast") and "Southwell" ("Jerusalem, my happy home") are well-known to most choirs and congregations.

CEDRIC BUCKNALL, Mus.B., Oxon., 1878 ... ... 1872 1876

Some years Assistant-Organist to Professor W. H. Monk at King's College, London, and St. Matthias', Stoke Newington; Organist of St. Thomas's, Clapton, 1870; Organist of Southwell Cathedral, 1872. Resigned 1876, and since then Organist of All Saints', Clifton, and of the Clifton Victoria Rooms; also Lecturer on Music at the University. Composer of Church Music, Part-songs, &c.

WILLIAM WEAVER RINGROSE, Mus.B., Oxon., 1870 1876 1879

Previously Organist of All Saints', Clifton, where he was succeeded by Cedric Bucknall. Shortly after leaving Southwell his mind gave way, and he died.*

ARTHUR MARRIOTT... ... ... 1879 1888

Son of Frederick Marriott, Lay Clerk, St. George's Chapel, Windsor. Pupil of Sir George Elvey. Resigned the post at Southwell, 1888, and went to Denver, America.

ROBERT WILLIAM LIDDLE 1888 1917

Born at Durham, March 14, 1864. Chorister in the Cathedral, and afterwards pupil of Dr. Armes. Organist of North Berwick Parish Church, 1886; Organist of Southwell Cathedral, 1888. Died at Southwell, December 23, 1917. Buried in the south-east portion of the Churchyard. Like Mr. Hubert Hunt (Organist of Bristol Cathedral), Mr. Liddle was also an excellent Violinist. Composer of Church Music.

HARRY WILLIAM TUPPER, Mus.B., Oxon., 1898; F.R.C.O. ... ... 1918 ——

Born at Dartford, Kent. Pupil of Drs. C. W. Pearce and E. H. Turpin and Sir John Stainer. Organist of St. Peter's, Staines, 1889; Parish Church, Bishop's Stortford, 1891; Parish Church, Burton-on-Trent, 1898. Acting-Organist and Master of the Choristers at Lichfield Cathedral for a time during 1904. Organist of Hexham Abbey, 1917; Southwell Cathedral, 1918.

* These are all the particulars I have been able to gather concerning him.

TRURO.

SEE ESTABLISHED IN 1876.

NEW CATHEDRAL CONSECRATED IN 1887.

GEORGE ROBERTSON SINCLAIR 1881 1889
(See under Hereford.)

MARK JAMES MONK, Mus.D., Oxon., 1888; F.R.C.O. 1890 1920
Born at Hunmanby, March 16, 1858. Chorister in York Cathedral, and afterwards pupil of his namesake, Dr. E. G. Monk. Organist of several churches in York; St. John's, Ladywood, Birmingham, 1879; Ashby-de-la-Zouch Parish Church, 1880; Banbury Parish Church, 1883, leaving the latter on his appointment to Truro. Conductor of the Diocesan Festivals and of various choral bodies. Retired 1920. Composer of Church Music, an Elegiac Ode, a Madrigal, pieces for Pianoforte and Organ, &c.

HUBERT STANLEY MIDDLETON, M.A., Mus.B., Cantab., 1920; F.R.C.O. ... ... 1920 ——
Born at Windsor, May 11, 1890. Student of the Royal Academy of Music. Scholar at Peterhouse, Cambridge. Organist of Truro Cathedral, 1920. Conductor of Truro and District Choral and Orchestral Society. Composer of Church Music, Organ pieces, &c.

Organist of the Roman Catholic Chapel, Wakefield, 1875; West Parade Chapel, Wakefield, 1878; Parish Church, Wakefield—now the Cathedral—1886. The Choirmaster of the Cathedral is Matthew Henry Peacock, M.A., Mus.D., Oxon.

WELLS.

Much interesting information regarding the early Organists has now been made available by means of a recent publication entitled "Calendar of the Manuscripts of the Dean and Chapter of Wells" (Hist. MSS. Com.), edited by William Paley Baildon, for extracts from which, supplied to me privately or contributed to the Musical Times, I owe my best obligations to Dr. W. H. Grattan Flood.

The accounts of Nicholas Taunton, the Communar, for 1428-1430, include payment of 13s. 4d. per annum to JOHN MARSHALL for keeping and playing the Organs.

RICHARD HYGONS ... ...(?)1487 1507

Studied under Abyngdon (Succentor of Wells). Died 1509. Composer of Church Music. A "Salva Regina" by him is to be found in the Eton College MS.

The Dean and Chapter awarded him, "for his diligent labour and good service to the honour of God and St. Andrew, 26s. 8d. annually in augmentation of his annual pension from the proceeds of a vacant stall, for the term of his life."

RICHARD BRAMSTON (Temporary Organist) (July 23) 1507 (May) 1508

Chorister in Wells Cathedral. On January 23, 1507, he was admitted, on probation, a Vicar Choral. Appointed permanent Vicar Choral January 25, 1508, which office he held for some years. Died a short time after the Reformation. Composer of Church Music.

"Master Hygons, with the consent of the Chapter, promised to pay Richard Bramston, Vicar Choral, 40s. per annum to teach the Choristers to sing well and faithfully as Richard Hygons had done in times past, and that Richard Bramston would take care of and play at the Organs in the Great Choir, and also in the Lady Chapel."

JOHN CLAUSY, Mus.B., Oxon., 1509 ... ... 1508 1509

Died (?) 1509.

The Sub-Dean and Chapter ordered that John Clausy should have the Office of instructing and teaching the Choristers, "et Tabellarios ad cantandam et discantandam et singula alia facienda quæ ad hujus modi officium pertinent." He was also to play the Organ in the Great Choir as well as in the Lady Chapel behind the High Altar "temporibus congruis," as Richard Hygons had done.

His payment:—

(a) Four marcs from two vacant stalls.
(b) All the annual fines and perquisites which would belong to a vicar, not perpetuated, during the lifetime of Richard Hygons.
(c) A house of the annual value of 26/8.
(d) The payment of a deputy for Richard Hygons as before, 40/- ann., with power to appoint a fit deputy, should he become ill or too old.

JOHN GYE ... ...(?)1509 1546

Vicar Choral. In the Chapter Acts he appears as Organist and Master of the Choristers in 1511. In 1512 he was rewarded for "his praiseworthy organ-playing and diligent instruction of the boys and choristers." (Dr. Grattan Flood, Musical Times, March, 1921.)

WILLIAM LYDE 1559 1561

Was paid 13s. 4d. for keeping the organs, but is mentioned later as Organist. At this early period the Keeper of the organs at Wells was probably Organist also. There is record of payments of "13½d. for a good song, viz., Te Deum in Englishe which he broughte from Harforde" (Hereford?), and "2s. 8d. for viii quairs off paper to make bokes for to pricke the same songes and others."

THOMAS TANNER 1562 1567

Was paid 13s. 4d. per annum for keeping the organs, 1562-1564.

MATTHEW NAILER 1568 1578

Was paid 13s. 4d. per annum for keeping the organs.

ELWAY BEVIN (Vicar Choral) acted as Organist 1578-1588.

(See under Bristol.)

JOHN CLERK (Senr.) ... ... 1588 ——

Vicar and Organist. Was suspended for six months, in 1592, for refusing the Office of Escheator.

John Clerk, Junr., was a Vicar Choral, 1617-1636.

JAMES WEARE 1608 1613

Admitted as Vicar Choral and Organist for a year of probation. In 1609 he was admitted a perpetual Vicar Choral.

RICHARD BROWN 1614 1619

Admitted Organist and Vicar Choral, March 26, 1614.

The name of Richard Brown occurs as one of the composers in Barnard's MS. Collection at the Royal College of Music, and also in Clifford's Words of Anthems.

JOHN OKER (or OKEOVER), Mus.B., Oxon., 1633 ... 1619-20 1640

He was Vicar, Organist, and Master of the Choristers. Organist of Gloucester Cathedral, 1640. Reappointed at Wells, 1660. The MS. Bass part-book formerly belonging to the late J. S. Bumpus, before referred to, contains an Anthem by John Oker—"God shall send forth His mercy and truth." His name also occurs as a composer in Barnard's MS. Collection mentioned above. Some pieces for Viols by him are included in the Add. MSS., British Museum.

During this period (in 1620) Dean Meredith gave £100 for a new organ, and promised a further sum of £100.

[Between 1644 and the Restoration the Chapter Records are blank—"per Bella Civilia."]

Reappointed at Wells, 1660.

In 1662 (after the Restoration) an agreement was drawn up between the Dean and Chapter and Robert Taunton, of Bristol, Organ-Maker, to build "a fair, well-tuned, useful double-organ" in the Cathedral, for the sum of £800.

JOHN OKER (or OKEOVER) 1660 1663

Reappointed.

JOHN BROWN, ... 1664 (?)1674

Keeper of the organs.

Buried May 7, 1674.

In 1677 £5 was paid to Mr. Hall for two months as Organist, not allowed in the accounts for 1674. This was probably Henry Hall (Senr.), who was appointed Organist of Exeter Cathedral in the last-mentioned year.

JOHN JACKSON 1674 1688

Admitted Organist and Vicar, his payment being £50 "for this year only." He was previously "Instructor in Music to the Choristers" at Ely Cathedral. An Anthem by him, "The Lord said unto my Lord," is included in the Tudway Collection, one in the Ely Collection, and two are to be found in Playford's "Cantica Sacra." There is also a Service in C in MS. at Wells, and Organ parts to eight Anthems, &c., in a MS. in the Library of the Royal College of Music.

ROBERT HODGE 1688 1689

Vicar and Organist. Corrected and admonished for breaking windows, July 5, 1688.* On August 7 of the same year £5 a quarter and the stall of Henstridge were appropriated to him, but only during the pleasure of the Dean and Chapter.

He was evidently the Robert Hodge who afterwards became Organist of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin, as in 1690 it was "ordered that the stall of Henstridge shall be and is hereby given to John Pope, one of the Priest-Vicars, being now vacant by the going off of Mr. Robert Hodge, late Vicar and Organist."

(See also under St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin.)

JOHN GEORGE 1690 1712

Organist, at a salary of £5 a quarter, during the pleasure of the Dean and Chapter, and no longer. There is an entry in the Chapter books, "John George—pro modulandis organis—£20." On July 1, 1709, "John George, the Organist and one of the Vicars, was warned not to leave the Church before prayers were ended."

WILLIAM BRODERIP 1713 1726

Born 1683. Appointed a Vicar Choral in 1701, and Organist in 1713. Payments were made to him for "entering Antiphons" and for "tuning the organs." Died 1726. A Service in D and an Anthem—"God is our hope and strength" (written in commemoration of the Peace of Utrecht)—by him are contained in the Tudway Collection.

WILLIAM EVANS 1727 1740

Appointed February 27, 1726-7.

He was paid £3 9s. 6d. for a new Service composed by him and approved by Dr. Creyghton, which was entered in the Choir books.

An Anthem by him, "Unto Thee, O Lord," is also in the Choir books.

Died September 22, 1740. Buried in the South Aisle of Cathedral Nave.

* In the matter of window-breaking, history appears to have repeated itself among the musical staff at Wells. Some years ago the vergers there, when showing visitors round the Cathedral, were accustomed to point out a hole in one of the windows (through St. Andrew's nose!) as the work of "the Organist of Westminster Abbey" (James Turle) when a Chorister of Wells.

JOHN BRODERIP 1741 1774

Son (?) of William Broderip. Vicar Choral (on probation) in 1740, and Organist and Master of the Choristers in 1741. In his later years he was Organist of Shepton Mallet. Died 1785. Composer of Songs, Psalms, Glees, &c.

ROBERT PARRY 1774 1781

(See under Salisbury.)

DODD PERKINS 1781 1819

Died April 9, 1820. Buried in the "Palm Churchyard," Wells. Composer of Songs, Glees, &c. Two Chants by him are contained in Dr. Beckwith's Collection.

WILLIAM PERKINS 1819 1860

Son of the foregoing. He wrote a Double Chant in E, traditionally known at Wells as "Malibran's Chant," from the circumstance of that great singer joining in it at Wells Cathedral, August 22, 1830. Died November 11, 1860. Buried by the side of his father. Two Anthems by him, "I cried unto the Lord" and "O Lord, our Governour," are in the Cathedral books.

CHARLES WILLIAMS LAVINGTON 1860 1895

Born at Wells, February, 1819. Chorister in the Cathedral. Pupil of William Perkins, and afterwards of James Turle at Westminster Abbey. Assistant-Organist of Wells Cathedral, and, in 1842, Acting-Organist. Appointed to the full office on the death of William Perkins; also Organist of the Theological College. Died at Wells, October 27, 1895. Buried in the Cloister Churchyard. Composer of Anthems, Chants, &c.

PERCY CARTER BUCK, M.A., Mus.D., Oxon., 1897: F.R.C.O. 1895 1899

Born at West Ham, 1871. Chorister in West Ham Parish Church. Student of the Guildhall School of Music. Afterwards won an Organ Scholarship at the Royal College of Music. Organist successively at Kingston-on-Thames and Worcester College, Oxford. Music Master at Rugby School. Organist of Wells Cathedral, 1895. Organist of Bristol Cathedral, 1899. Director of Music at Harrow School since 1901. Professor of Music in Dublin University, 1910-1920. Composer of Church Music, Organ Sonatas, Vocal Trios, Songs, &c. Composer and Editor of music for School use. Author of a Primer on the Organ. Lecturer on Music, &c.

THOMAS HENRY DAVIS, B.A., Mus.D., Lond., 1900 1899 ——

Priest in Orders.

Born at Birmingham, September 25, 1867. Educated at King Edward School, Birmingham, and afterwards Mathematical Master there. Studied music under Dr. Belcher, and was Organist of St. Matthew's, Birmingham. Curate of St. Mary's, Warwick, 1892. Priest-Vicar of Wells, 1895. Organist, 1899. Prebendary of Combe VIII., 1912. Precentor and Canon Residentiary, 1920. Conductor of the Wells Musical Association, Wells Orchestral Society, and Street Choral Society.

WINCHESTER.

The earlier Chapter books of Winchester are incomplete, and do not distinguish by name the Organists from among the Lay Clerks, previous to the appointment of Christopher Gibbons in 1638. Hence the meagre information concerning the Organists before that year.

At the Restoration it appears that the Organist of Winchester Cathedral, although technically a Lay Clerk* (see Preface, p. vi.), was an important officer of the Cathedral staff, being amply rewarded for his services. His salary was £57 5s., while that of the Precentor was only £34, a Minor Canon £30, and a Lay Clerk £13 10s.

JOHN LANGTON ... ... —— ——

Buried in the Cathedral. His stone, formerly in the South Aisle, has now disappeared.

JOHN HOLMES .. .. —— 1602

(See under Salisbury.)

(?)JOHN LANT (or LANTE)... ... ...(?)1602 1615

Buried in the Cathedral, July 28, 1615. (Registers.)

Thomas Oliphant, in his "Musica Madrigalesca," p. 232, says: "I have a MS. book, about 70 years old, containing a number of Catches stated to have been collected by John Lant, Org. of Winchester Cathedral, d. 1615."

GEORGE BATH ... ...(?)1615 1630

Buried in the Cathedral.

In the register he is described as Master of the Choristers and Organist. His wife was also buried beside him in the Cathedral, "beneath a stone which bears, in large characters, a curious Latin inscription, which may be rendered as follows:—

'I, George Bath, son of Thomas Bath,
Also play the organ and teach the Choristers,
Lament a good wife, Mary,
Buried here 1625, February 8.'"

("Winchester Cathedral, its Monuments and Memorials"—Canon Vaughan.)

It now appears that there is no record of GEORGE KING as Organist of the Cathedral, although he held that office at the College.

* It has been pointed out by Dr. Prendergast (the present Organist of Winchester Cathedral) that this statement (and that bearing on the same matter in the Preface) is not strictly correct. The Statutes of Henry VIII. specifically required that the Master of the Choristers should play the organ "skilfully." The Statutes of Charles I. allowed the appointment of Master of the Choristers to be made from either the Minor Canons or the Lay Clerks, but the office, with defined duties, is entirely distinct and ranks with that of the Minor Canons. At a General Chapter Meeting, where the whole of the Body attend, the official is described as "Organist and Master of the Choristers."

CHRISTOPHER GIBBONS, Mus.D., Oxon. 1638 1661
Organist, not Master of the Choristers.
(See under Westminster Abbey.)

The new Chapter met on September 6, 1660, when the name of C. Gibbons was still given as Organist, and he appears to have retained the appointment, nominally, until June 23, 1661.

JOHN SILVER ... ... 1661 (?)1666
Previously Organist of King's College, Cambridge.
He had been Master of the Choristers of Winchester Cathedral since 1638, and was appointed Organist at the Restoration. From this time the offices of Master of the Choristers and Organist were combined.
The MS. parts of a Service in F and two Anthems by him were in the possession of the late J. S. Bumpus.
The Survey of Houses in the Cathedral Close, July, 1649, includes the following:—
"A Howse in the possession of one Mr. Silver, formerly Organist of the Cathedrall Church, and did hold the same in right of his place. The said Howse consistinge of three chambers and three small roomes, all above staires, valued at Forty Shillings p. ann. (&c.)"
From this it would appear that John Silver had also been Organist before the period of the Rebellion. Probably he undertook the duties of this office from the time Gibbons joined the Royalist Army until the Cathedral Services were suspended in the Autumn of 1645.
The name of John Silver also occurs in the records of Dulwich College (1627-1631), and Wimborne Minster (in 1663), as Organist. It cannot be ascertained, however, whether all the appointments above-mentioned were held by the same person.
(See also under Cambridge—King's College.)

RANDALL (or RANDOLPH) JEWITT, Mus.B., Dub. 1666 1675
Son of Randall Jewitt, a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, and one of a distinguished family of Chester citizens.
Chorister in Chester Cathedral. Pupil of Dr. Orlando Gibbons. Organist of Christ Church and St. Patrick's Cathedrals, Dublin 1631. Returned to England for a short time and became Organist of Chester Cathedral, 1643. After the siege of Chester he again went to Ireland, and became Vicar Choral of Christ Church and St. Patrick's Cathedrals, Dublin. Returning a second time to England, he was appointed Almoner of St. Paul's Cathedral, 1660, and Minor Canon and Junior Cardinal there, 1661. Organist of Winchester Cathedral, 1666. Died July 3, 1675. Buried in the North Transept of Winchester Cathedral. Composer of Church Music.

JOHN READING 1675 1681
Lay Vicar of Lincoln Cathedral, 1667, and Master of the Choristers there, 1670.
Organist of Winchester Cathedral, 1675; Organist of Winchester College, 1681. Died at Winchester, 1692. Probably buried in the Cloisters of Winchester College. Composer of Church Music, and of the Winchester College "Graces."*
(See also under Winchester College.)

* The words of the Grace "Dulce Domum" are said to have been written by a boy named Turner, whilst confined to the College during the holidays for some offence.—(See Kirby's "Annals of Winchester College.")

From the following letter it would seem that, at this time, the Organist's duty as a singer in the choir was taken by another Lay Clerk, who objected, apparently, to sing gratuitously:—

"Reverend Sir,

"Excuse I pray my presumption in writeing to you, but it is oppression causes itt, in way of Appeall to you; I have faithfully performed my owne duty in the Church Service, and because I am unwilling to doe anothers I am suspended, and my pay withheld from mee. I humbly appeal to your worship, whither it is equitable that I should reade for the Organist his Corse, without consideration for the same; or why I should be imposed upon in the performance of this his duty; this is the true state of my condition; I submitt wholey to your decision in the case, and shall willingly obay your order herein; I confesse whilest Mr. Jewett lived and was organist, by your worshipp's Command and order I did willingly perform the service for him; but I humbly conceive now he is dead, that I am not bound to doe the same for his successor. If it please your worp to take this into your serious consideration and releive mee herein, I shall (as in bounden duty) approve myselfe

"Your most humble and dutifull Servant

There is no record as to how this curious point was settled at that time, but it is certain that the duties of the Organist as a singer in the choir have now long ceased to be recognised.

DANIEL ROSINGRAVE 1682 1692

(See under Dublin—Christ Church Cathedral.)

VAUGHAN RICHARDSON 1692 1729

Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Pupil of Blow. Temporary Organist for a short time at Worcester Cathedral, before his appointment to Winchester. Died 1729. Composer of Church Music, Odes, Cantatas, Songs, &c. His Anthem, "O how amiable," is still in frequent use in all choirs and places where they sing."

The late J. S. Bumpus possessed a volume of music, entirely in Richardson's autograph, containing a Service in C, fourteen Anthems, a Song for the King (1697), a Song for St. Cecilia's Day, and six Sonatas for Strings.

JOHN BISHOP 1729 1737

Born 1665. Pupil of Daniel Rosingrave. Lay Vicar of King's College, Cambridge, 1687; also Organist of the same from Michaelmas to Christmas of the same year. Organist of Winchester College, 1695; Lay Clerk of the Cathedral, 1696; afterwards succeeding Vaughan Richardson as Organist of the Cathedral.* Died at Winchester, December 19, 1737. Buried in the Cloisters of the College Chapel.

* Bishop's rival for the post of Organist at Winchester Cathedral was James Kent, who was esteemed a better player, but the "age and amiable disposition" of the former, coupled with the sympathy felt for some family misfortune he had suffered, induced the Dean and Chapter to give him the appointment.

Bishop's epitaph in Cloisters of Winchester College:—

Decimo Nono Die Decembris,
Anno { Dom. 1737.
{ Ætat. 72.

Composer of Church Music, a Collection of Airs for two Flutes, daily Grace for Winchester College, Hymn, "Te de profundis, summe Rex," &c. Some MS. compositions by him are in the British Museum. His fine Service in D (with Benedictus) is unpublished. Some of his Anthems were edited by Rev. Sir W. H. Cope.

JAMES KENT... ... ... 1737 1774

Son of a glazier. Born at Winchester, March 13, 1700. Chorister in Winchester Cathedral, and afterwards in the Chapel Royal. Organist of Finedon Parish Church,* 1717; Trinity College, Cambridge, 1731; Winchester Cathedral and College, 1737. Resigned these last two appointments, 1774. Died at Winchester, May 6, 1776. Buried in the North Transept of the Cathedral. Composer of a number of Services and Anthems, Organ pieces, &c.

"A few years before his death he presented some of his compositions to Trinity College, Cambridge, for which he received the thanks of that body, from the Master, informing him at the same time that the College had voted him a piece of plate, value ten pounds, and desiring to know in what form it should be presented. Mr. Kent chose a tankard."—(From the "Succinct Account" in Arnold's "Cathedral Music")

The following paragraph occurs in Bishop Huntingford's (of Hereford) account of James Kent, written for Joseph Corfe's edition of the second volume of Kent's Anthems, published in 1796. (The autograph of this account was in the possession of the late J. S. Bumpus):—

"As an Organist he was conscientiously diligent, not only in punctual attendance at times of Choral Prayers, but also in the more laborious and indispensably requisite part of an Organist's duty, the teaching of the boys. His manner of playing was neither indecorously rapid, nor heavily slow; but such as became the sanctity of the Church and the solemnity of the Service. He was reputed to be one of the best players of Dr. Croft's music in the kingdom."

PETER FUSSELL 1774 1802

Pupil of James Kent, eventually succeeding him in the two appointments at Winchester. Taught Charles Dibdin (Senr.) his notes at Winchester College. Died July, 1802. Buried in the North Transept of the Cathedral. Composer of Church Music. His Cantate Service in A was once popular.

* An organ stool preserved at Finedon Church has the initials "J. K." and the date "1717" carved upon it.

GEORGE WILLIAM CHARD, Mus.D., Cantab., 1812 1802 1849

Born at Winchester, 1765. Chorister in St. Paul's Cathedral. Lay Clerk and Assistant-Organist of Winchester Cathedral, 1787. Organist of the Cathedral and of the College, 1802. Also for some years Organist of St. Maurice with St. Mary Kalendar Church, Winchester. Died at Winchester, May 23, 1849. Buried in the Cloisters of Winchester College Chapel. Composer of Church Music, Glees, &c.*

An "Offertorio" by him was performed at the Hereford Festival of 1825. Dr. Chard (like Dr. Buck, of Norwich) gained some considerable reputation as a trainer of boys' voices.

There is a story extant that he was very fond of hunting, and frequently neglected his pupils for this pastime, when his wife used to have to invent all sorts of excuses for his non-appearance at lessons.

BENJAMIN LONG, Mus.B., Oxon., was Deputy-Organist from 1834 to 1849.

(See under Winchester College.)

SAMUEL SEBASTIAN WESLEY, Mus.D., Oxon. ... 1849 1865

(See under Gloucester.)

GEORGE BENJAMIN ARNOLD, Mus.D., Oxon., 1861; F.R.C.O. 1865 1902

Born at Petworth, December 22, 1832. Pupil of Dr. S. S. Wesley. Organist of St. Columba's College, Rathfarnham, 1853; St. Mary's, Torquay, 1856; New College, Oxford, 1860; succeeding his master at Winchester Cathedral, 1865. Conductor of Dr. Arnold's Choir. Died January 31, 1902. There is a mural tablet to his memory in the North Transept of the Cathedral. Composer of Oratorios, Cantatas, Church Music, Part-songs, Songs, Pianoforte pieces, &c. His Cantata, "Sennacherib," was produced at the Gloucester Festival, 1883.

WILLIAM PRENDERGAST, Mus.D., Oxon., 1904 ... 1902 ——

Born at Burneston, Yorks, November 4, 1868. Pupil of Dr. Arnold. Assistant-Organist of Winchester Cathedral, and Organist of St. Laurence, Winchester; St. Baldred's, North Berwick, 1888; St. Paul's, York Place, Edinburgh, 1891; Winchester Cathedral, 1902. General Choirmaster of the Winchester Diocesan Choral Association. Conductor of the Cathedral Oratorio Choir and Orchestra. President of the Hampshire Association of Organists. Composer of Church Music, Part-songs, &c.

* A number of Services and Anthems by Dr. Chard, in his autograph, were in the possession of the late J. S. Bumpus.

WORCESTER.

For information regarding the earlier Organists of Worcester Cathedral my grateful acknowledgments are due to Sir Ivor Atkins, and his valuable contribution to the records of the Worcestershire Historical Society, entitled "The Early Occupants of the Office of Organist and Master of the Choristers of Worcester Cathedral," a work which deals with this subject in a very able and exhaustive manner.

"The earliest mention of an Organist is in the reign of Henry III., when the name of THOMAS the Organist occurs as a witness in three Deeds of Bedwardine. In 1415 the name of T. HULET is given, and no further reference is at present known until 1468."

RICHARD GRENE 1468 1484

"In stipendio Ricardi Grene, Organiste, xl^{s}."

JOHN HAMPTON 1484 1522

Probably a son of John Hampton, a Mercer and one of the Bailiffs of Worcester in 1477.

In the Deed of Appointment it is stated that for services past and future he is to receive an annual payment of fourteen white loaves ("Monken lovus"), fourteen gists of ale, and the sum of £3 13s. 4d. in equal portions each quarter.

In 1495 he was rewarded with £1 "for making of Balades," in connection with the King's visit to Worcester.

A five-part setting of Salve Regina by him is included in the Eton MS.

DANIEL BOYSE 1522 1540

He probably held the appointment until the dissolution of the Monastery. According to the St. Michael's Accounts he was Churchwarden there in 1543.

RICHARD FISHER 1541 1569

The first Master of the Choristers, "per cartam Regie Majestatis," under the New Foundation.

Churchwarden of St. Michael's in 1543: "Keeper of the Church Stock," and one of the Overseers in 1551.

Buried January 23, 1568-9.

JOHN COLDEN 1569 1581

Previously a Lay Clerk. His Will was proved in 1581, and may be found in extenso in Sir Ivor Atkins's book.

NATHANIEL GILES 1581 1585

(See under St. George's Chapel, Windsor.)

ROBERT COTTERELL 1585 1590

Previously a Lay Clerk.

(?) JOHN TOMKINS (probably uncle of the Thomas Tomkins who was Organist subsequently), is said to have been Organist in 1590.

Possibly he officiated for only a short time.

NATHANIEL PATRICK 1590 1595

Member of an old Worcester family, and possibly a son of Giles Patrick, a Worcester doctor. Buried March 23, 1595.

His Will is given in Sir Ivor Atkins's book. Composer of Church Music and "Songs of Sundrie Natures." Entered at Stationers' Hall as printed by Este in 1597.

His Service in G minor, for many years attributed, in a much altered form, to Richard Patrick, has in recent years been revised and published in 8vo size by Messrs. Novello.

JOHN FIDO (OR FIDOW) 1595 1596

(See under Hereford.)

THOMAS TOMKINS, Mus.B. Oxon., 1607 ... ... 1596 *1656

Son of Thomas Tomkins, Senr., a Vicar-Choral and Organist of St. David's Cathedral. Born at St. David's about 1575.

Possibly a Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Pupil of Bird. Gentleman and Organist of the Chapel Royal, 1621; afterwards Organist of Worcester Cathedral. Died 1656. Buried at Martin Hussingtree, near Worcester. Composer of "Musica Deo Sacra et Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ; or, Musick dedicated to the Honor and Service of God," † and other Church Music, Madrigals, pieces for Virginals, &c.

In 1613-14, and again in 1639-40, Tomkins appears to have been actively concerned in the erection of new organs in the Cathedral.

In 1625, 40 shillings was paid to him "for composing of many songes against the Coronation of Kinge Charles."

From the Treasurer's Accounts, 1643:—

"To the Mason for tyles, lyme and worke, done in repacion of
Mr. Organist's house, ruined by a canon shott

When Waller attempted the taking of the city, May 29, 1643 . . . 4s. 4d"

GILES TOMKINS (Junr.) 1661 1662

Nephew of Thomas Tomkins and son of Giles Tomkins of Salisbury. Born at Salisbury, 1633. Dismissed for absence, April 26, 1662.

RICHARD BROWNE (Minor Canon) 1662 1664

Previously Chorister (1639), Sub-Deacon (1642), and Minor Canon (1644). Died 1664. Buried in the South Aisle of the Cathedral Nave.

RICHARD DAVIS 1664 1688

He was allowed 40s. "for his paines in setting the lesser organs in order in the body of the Church." Died 1688. Buried in the North Cloister of the Cathedral.

VAUGHAN RICHARDSON.

(Temporary Organist, 1686-1688.) Afterwards Organist of Winchester Cathedral.

---

* His duties, however, must have ceased with the suppression of Choral Service, more than ten years before his death.

† This interesting work consists of five Services and ninety-eight Anthems. In the Preface are included directions for counting time and for the pitch to which organs should be tuned.

R. CHERINGTON 1688 1724

In October, 1697, he was ordered to do penance in the Cathedral for quarrelling and fighting with a Lay Clerk.

JOHN HODDINOTT 1724 1731

Born 1688. Chorister, 1700. Died August 23, 1731. Buried in the North Cloister of the Cathedral

WILLIAM HAYES, Mus.D., Oxon., 1749 ... ... 1731 1734

Born at Hanbury, Worcestershire, December, 1706. Chorister in Gloucester Cathedral, and afterwards pupil of William Hine. Organist of St. Mary's, Shrewsbury, 1729; Worcester Cathedral, 1731; Magdalen College, Oxford, 1734. Conductor of the Worcester Festival of 1734. University Professor of Music, Oxford, 1742. Conductor of the Gloucester Festival of 1763. Died at Oxford, July 27, 1777. Buried in the Churchyard of St. Peter-in-the-East, Oxford. Composer of Church Music, Cantatas, Odes, &c. Author of "Remarks on Mr. Avison's Essay on Musical Expression."

"After a paralytic stroke, which he bore with Christian resignation for nearly three years, in a tottering state, more deranged in health than in his faculties, he resigned his breath to Him who had bestowed it, in July, 1777, in his 70th year; being called from hence by the Lord and Giver of Life, to join the Heavenly Choir above, amid the noble army of Martyrs, Saints, and Angels, with good men made perfect."—(From a short account of the Author attached to a volume of his Cathedral Music, edited by his son, Dr. Philip Hayes.)

During the period between the resignation of William Hayes and the appointment of John Merifield, the duty was filled by one MORLEY—probably James Morley, Organist of Bristol Cathedral, 1734-1756.

JOHN MERIFIELD... ... ... 1734 1747

Elected November 25, 1734. Commenced duty in March, 1735. Died 1748. Buried in the North Cloister of the Cathedral.

ELIAS ISAAC 1747 1793

Born 1725. Pupil of Dr. Greene. Conductor for some years of the Worcester Festivals. Died July 14, 1793. Buried in the North Cloister of the Cathedral. At his funeral the choir sang as an Anthem, Greene's "Lord, let me know mine end." Composer of a Cantata, "The Blackbirds." There is an Anthem by him in the Books of Durham Cathedral.

THOMAS PITT 1793 1806

Chorister in Worcester Cathedral, and afterwards Pupil-Assistant to Isaac, succeeding him as Organist of the Cathedral and Conductor of the Worcester Festivals. Resigned April 19, 1806. Died April 21, 1806. Buried in the North Cloister. Composer of Church Music. Author of "A selection of Sacred Music, principally from the Works of Handel, inscribed by permission to the Hon. and Rev. The Dean and Chapter of the Cathedral Church of Worcester."

It is related that on one occasion a Lay Clerk of the Cathedral, named Griffiths, took offence at Pitt's accompaniment to one of his solos, and being a man of rather eccentric manners, he surprised the choir and congregation by slamming his book and shouting "Pitt's wrong, Pitt's wrong!"

JEREMIAH CLARKE, Mus.B., Oxon., 1799 ... ... 1806 1807

Chorister in Worcester Cathedral. Violinist at the Three Choirs and other Festivals. Succeeded Pitt as Cathedral Organist and Conductor of the Worcester Festivals. Resigned, 1807. Died at Bromsgrove, May, 1809. Composer of Glees, Songs, Harpsichord Sonatas, &c.

WILLIAM KENGE 1807 1813

Conductor of the Worcester Festivals of 1809 and 1812. Resigned in 1813.

CHARLES ERLIN JACKSON CLARKE 1813 1844

(See under Durham.)

WILLIAM DONE, Mus.D., Cantuar., 1894 ... ... 1844 1895

Born at Worcester, October 4, 1815. Pupil-Assistant to C. E. J. Clarke, whom he eventually succeeded as Cathedral Organist. The degree of Mus.D. was conferred on him by the Archbishop of Canterbury upon the celebration of his Jubilee as Cathedral Organist, in 1894. Conductor of the Worcester Festivals from 1845 to 1887, and of the Worcester Philharmonic Society. Died August 17, 1895. Composer of Church Music.

During Dr. Done's Organistship great improvements were effected in the Cathedral Services. A large voluntary choir was formed, and Oratorios were performed on special occasions.

HUGH BLAIR, M.A., 1896; Mus.D., Cantab., 1906... 1895 1897

Born at Worcester, May 26, 1864. Pupil of Dr. Done, and afterwards of Professor Macfarren and Dr. Garrett. Organ Scholar at Christ's College, Cambridge, 1883. Assistant-Organist of Worcester Cathedral, 1886; Acting-Organist, 1889; succeeding to the full office on the death of Dr. Done, 1895. Conductor of the Worcester Festivals, 1893 and 1896. Resigned 1897. Now Organist of Holy Trinity, Marylebone, London. Composer of Cantatas, Anthems, Services, Orchestral Music, Organ pieces, Part-songs, Violin pieces, &c.

SIR IVOR ALGERNON ATKINS, Kn^t., Mus.D., Oxon., 1920; F.S.A., F.R.C.O.... ... ... 1897 ——

Son of Frederick Atkins, Mus.B. Born at Cardiff, November 29, 1869. Chorister in Cardiff Parish Church. Pupil of G. R. Sinclair and Assistant-Organist to him at Truro and Hereford Cathedrals. Organist of Ludlow Parish Church, 1893; Worcester Cathedral, 1897. Conductor of the Worcester Festivals Knighted, 1921. Composer of a Cantata, "Hymn of Faith," Church Music, Part-songs, Songs, &c. Co-Editor, with Sir Edward Elgar, of Bach's "St. Matthew" Passion. Editor of Bach's "Orgelbüchlein," and other music.

YORK.

LEONARD MASON ... ... 1520 (?)1540
Vicar Choral.

JOHN THORNE ... ...(?)1550 1573
He was probably Organist. According to Drake's "Eboracum" he lies "buried in the middle aisle, from the West Door." His inscription has been quoted by Drake ("Eboracum"), Hawkins ("History of Music"), and others, and runs thus:—

Here lyeth Thorne, muſician moſt perfect in his art,
In Logick's Lore who did excell; all vice who ſet apart:
Whose Lief and converſation did all men's Love allure,
And now doth reign above the Skies in joys moſt firm and pure.
Who dyed Decemb. 7, 1573.

There is a Motet, "Stella cœli extirpavit," by him in Hawkins's "History of Music," and other music in Add. MSS., British Museum. His name is included in the Catalogue of Great Musicians in Morley's "Introduction to Practicall Musicke" (1597).

JOHN WYRNAL ... ... —— ——
Buried under the Window of the Clock (rose window), in the South Transept.
The following is the inscription on his tomb:—

Muſicus et logicus Wyrnal hic jacet ecce Johannes Organa namque quaſi fecerat ille loqui.

Translated thus in Hawkins's "History":—

Musician and Logician both,
John Wyrnal lieth here;
Who made the organs erst to speak
As if, or as it were.

And in Drake's "Eboracum":—
Here lies John Wyrnal, so well skilled in theArt of Music and speech, that he made even the Organ speak.

—— KIRBY (or KIRKBY) ... ... —— (?)1633
Also buried under the Window of the Clock (Drake):—

Hic jacet egregius cantor Kirkbius in urna,
Organa qui ſcite tangeret unus erat.
Edidit inſignes cantus modulamine dulci,
Hujus erat templi gloria, ſplendor, honor.
Magna hujus fuerat probitas, sapientia, virtus,
Conſilio enituit, moribus, ingenio.

Translation: "Here lie the ashes of Kirby, an excellent Chanter and incomparable Organist. He sang extraordinary songs to charming tunes. He was the boast, glory, and honour of this Church. Great were his probity, wisdom, and virtue; and his understanding, morality, and genius remarkable."

JOHN HUTCHINSON ... ... 1633 ——
Doubtless a relative of Richard Hutchinson, of Durham. John Hutchinson was previously Organist of Southwell Minster. There are three Anthems by him in the Durham Cathedral Library. Three Anthems by him are also included in the Ely Collection, one being entitled the Southwell Anthem. The Very Rev. A. P. Purey-Cust, late Dean of York, had in his possession some MS. notes by Dr. Naylor upon former Organists of York Minster, from which he very kindly favoured me with extracts. Speaking of John Hutchinson, Dr. Naylor says: "Canon Raine once shewed me a copy of Morley's 'Introduction' (1597), and in it was the name—J. Hutchinson—written in a bold hand, and the Canon said that Hutchinson was a former Organist of York Minster."

J. CHARLES ... ... 1662 (?)1691

Vol. III. of "The Cathedral Magazine of Divine Harmony" (York Minster Library Collection) contains an Anthem for four voices, "Out of the deep," composed by "Mr. Charles, late Organist at York." According to Dr. Naylor's notes upon this Anthem, "There are several serious errors in the print, and if rectified the Anthem might be considered a fair composition." Also, "From a note beneath the Table of Contents of the above volume the date of its publication was probably about 1777-8." Is it not possible, therefore, that this Anthem is by Charles Quarles, Organist from 1722-1727? (See below.)

THOMAS WANLESS, Mus.B., Cantab., 1698 ... 1691 ——

Probably son of John Wanless(e), of Lincoln. In the Chapter books he is described as "in musicis expertium." He published at York a collection of Words of Anthems sung in the Cathedral. Composer of the "York Litany," of which there are different versions extant. An Anthem by him is in the Tudway Collection.

CHARLES MURGATROYD (or MURGETROYD) was Organist in 1715.
(See under Lincoln.)

CHARLES QUARLES, Mus.B., Cantab., 1698 ... 1722 1727

Probably son of Charles Quarles, the builder of the Organs at Pembroke and Christ Colleges, Cambridge, in 1707.

Organist of Trinity College, Cambridge, 1688. Composer of Church Music, &c. A "Lesson for the Harpsichord" by him was published by Goodison in 1788.

EDWARD SALISBURY 1727 1734

Resigned his post at York. Afterwards (1737) Organist of Trinity College, Cambridge.

JAMES NARES, Mus.D., Cantab., 1757 ... ... 1734 1756

Brother of Sir George Nares, Justice of Common Pleas.

Born at Stanwell, 1715. Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Pupil of Dr. Pepusch. Assistant-Organist of St. George's Chapel, Windsor. Organist of York Minster in succession to Edward Salisbury. Resigned at York and was appointed Organist, Master of the Children, and Composer of the Chapel Royal. Died in London, February 10, 1783. Buried in St. Margaret's, Westminster. Composer of an Ode, Church Music, Organ pieces, Harpsichord Lessons, Glees, &c. Author of two treatises on Singing and one on the Harpsichord or Organ. Arranger of Six Choruses of Handel for the Organ or Harpsichord.

He was an excellent trainer of boys' voices, and some of his Anthems are said to have been written to display the fine voices of his young pupils.

I am indebted to the late J. S. Bumpus for the following interesting anecdote concerning Nares:—

On the resignation of Salisbury in 1734, Nares was chosen to succeed him as Organist of York Minster, being then only nineteen. It is related, on undoubted authority, that when the old musician first saw his intended successor, he said rather angrily: "What! is that child to succeed me?" which being mentioned to the organist-elect, he took an early opportunity, on a difficult service being appointed, to play it throughout half a note below the pitch, which brought it into a very remote key, and went through it without the slightest error. Being asked why he did so, he said that he "only wished to show Mr. Salisbury what a child could do."

JOHN CAMIDGE 1756 1803

Born about 1734. Chorister in York Cathedral. Pupil of Dr. Greene and Handel. Organist of Doncaster Parish Church, 1755. Succeeded Nares at York. Died at York, April 25, 1803. Buried in St. Olave's Churchyard, York. Composer of Church Music, "Six Easy Lessons for the Harpsichord," Glees, Songs, "The Duke of York's March," &c.

MATTHEW CAMIDGE 1803 1842

Son of the preceding. Born at York, 1764. Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Pupil of Nares. Assistant-Organist to his father at York, and afterwards Organist. Resigned in 1842. Died October 23, 1844. Buried in St. Olave's Churchyard. Composer of Church Music, Sonatas, Marches for the Pianoforte, &c. Compiler of a Collection of Tunes, set to Sandy's Version of the Psalms, and Author of a "Method of Instruction in Music by Questions and Answers," &c.

JOHN CAMIDGE, Mus.D., Cantab., 1819 et Cantuar., 1855 ... ... 1842 1859

Son of the preceding and grandson of the John Camidge before mentioned. Born at York, 1790. Pupil of his father. Was Acting-Organist for his father some years before being appointed his successor. Died September 21, 1859, having latterly been afflicted with paralysis. Composer of Church Music, Glees, &c.

The large organ, by Hill, was built under his direction, the previous instrument having perished when the Choir of the Minster was destroyed by fire at the hands of a maniac, named Jonathan Martin, in 1829.

Dr. Camidge was first seized with paralysis on November 28, 1848, whilst playing the Evening Service, and never afterwards touched the organ. His duties, from that time until his death, were performed by his son, Thomas Simpson Camidge.

At the farewell Service for the Right Rev. Canon Charles E. Camidge, D.D., after his consecration as Bishop of Bathurst, at York Minster, on October 19, 1887, the music included compositions from five generations of the Camidge family, relatives of the Bishop. Such a circumstance is probably unique in history. The processional hymn was to a tune adapted from a short Anthem by John Camidge, Organist of York Minster, 1756-1803. The Psalms and Canticles were sung to Chants composed by Matthew Camidge, the son of the latter. The Anthem, "Sing unto the Lord," was by Dr. Camidge, son of Matthew Camidge. The Kyrie, Creed, Sanctus, and Gloria were by John Camidge, grandson of Dr. Camidge, and the present Organist of Beverley Minster; and during the Offertory was sung "Be merciful after Thy power," by Thomas S. Camidge, son of Dr. Camidge, his Deputy at the Minster, and father of Mr. J. Camidge, of Beverley.—(See Musical Times, November, 1887.)

EDWIN GEORGE MONK, Mus.D., Oxon.,[1856]; F.R.A.S. 1859 1883

Born at Frome, December 13, 1819. Pupil of Henry and George Field, John Hullah, Henry Phillips, and afterwards of Professor Macfarren. Organist successively of Midsomer-Norton Parish Church, and Christ Church, Frome. Organist and Precentor of St. Columba's College, Navan, Ireland, 1844. Organist and Music Master of St. Peter's College, Radley, 1848. Organist of York Minster, 1859. Retired from the latter post, 1883, and removed to Radley. Died January 3, 1900. Composer of two Odes, Church Music, Part-songs, &c. Editor of the "Anglican Chant Book," &c. Compiler of the libretti of two Oratorios set to music by his friend Professor Macfarren. Author of "A Descriptive Account of the York Minster Organ" (Novello, 1863).

Dr. Monk also devoted considerable attention to the study of Astronomy, and was a Fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society.

JOHN NAYLOR, Mus.D., Oxon., [1872] 1883 1897

Born at Stanningley, June 8, 1838. Chorister in Leeds Parish Church, and afterwards Assistant-Organist there. Organist of St. Mary's, Scarborough, 1856; All Saints', Scarborough, 1873; York Cathedral, 1883. Resigned at York, owing to ill-health, 1897. Died May 15, 1897, during a voyage to Australia. Composer of Church Cantatas, Services, Anthems, Part-songs, &c.

THOMAS TERTIUS NOBLE 1898 1913

Born at Bath, May 5, 1867. Organist, at the age of fourteen, of All Saints', Colchester, 1881. Pupil of Edwin Nunn, and afterwards student of the Royal College of Music, 1885. Organist of St. John's, Wilton Road, London, 1889, and afterwards Assistant-Organist of Trinity College, Cambridge. Organist of Ely Cathedral, 1892; York Minster, 1898. COLLEGIATE CHURCHES AND CHAPELS, &c.

CAMBRIDGE—KING'S COLLEGE.

EDWARD GIBBONS, Mus.B., Cantab. et Oxon. ... 1592 (?)1599
(See under Bristol.)

JOHN TOMKINS, Mus.B., Cantab. ... ... 1606 { 1619 or 1621

His stipend on appointment was 50s. a quarter as Organist and 11s. 8d. for instructing the Choristers. The stipend as Organist was afterwards augmented to 58s. 4d.

According to the records his payment as Organist ceased in 1619; but his name appears from time to time in the list of resident members of the College who were entitled to allowances for Commons, until 1621.

(See also under St. Paul's Cathedral.)

MATTHEW BARTON 1622 1624

His stipend on appointment was 50s. a quarter; afterwards augmented to 58s. 4d.

GILES TOMKINS (Senr.) 1624 1626

His stipend on appointment was 50s. a quarter; afterwards augmented to 58s. 4d. At Christmas, 1626, he received 30s. as "nuper Organistæ," his successor, George Marshall, at the time receiving 10s. "pro pulsandis organis."

(See also under Salisbury.)

GEORGE MARSHALL 1626 1627

He was appointed on the recommendation of the Earl of Sheffield, as appears from a letter dated September 29, 1626. Soon afterwards, however, he was granted permission to travel abroad, and was furnished with a protection, under the College Charter, against a press for the wars.

JOHN SILVER ... ... —— 27

At Michaelmas, 1627, Mr. Silver, Organist, received 30s. "pro expensis in itinere de Winton."

(See also under Winchester.)

HENRY LOOSEMORE, Mus.B., Cantab., 1640 ... 1627 1670

His stipend on appointment was £2 10s. a quarter; at Christmas, 1628, it was £3; at Lady Day, 1629, £3 6s. 8d.; and at Lady Day, 1634, £5. At Christmas, 1627, he received £5 in payment for a new organ book.

He was not appointed Organist of Exeter Cathedral after the Restoration, as has frequently been stated, but continued as Organist of King's College, Cambridge, during the whole of the period from 1627 until his death at Cambridge in 1670, his services and those of the Lay Clerks being retained by the College throughout the time of the Commonwealth. Further evidence bearing upon this point has been supplied by the following extract from a valuable paper on Organs and Organ building at Cambridge in 1606, by T. Brocklebank (sometime Bursar and Vice-Provost of King's College, Cambridge), which appeared in the Ecclesiologist for 1859:—

"The year after the Restoration the College set about reviving the Choral Service, which had been grievously interrupted by the troubles of the times, and we find Mr. Henry Loosemore, the Organist, lending his Chamber Organ for use in the Chapel, 35s. being charged for its removal thither from his room by Lancelot Pease. It did not, however, remain there long."

Compositions by him are included in the Tudway, Ely, and other Collections. His pathetic Litany in D minor, first published in Dr. Jebb's "Choral Responses and Litanies" (1847), and afterwards edited by Mr. J. B. Lott, Mus.B. (Novello), is still in frequent use in Lichfield Cathedral.

THOMAS TUDWAY, Mus.D., Cantab., 1705 ... ... 1670 1726

Born about 1650. Is said to have been a Chorister in the Chapel Royal and afterwards a Lay Vicar of St. George's Chapel, Windsor. Organist of King's College, Cambridge, 1670; also Organist to the University and of Pembroke Hall. University Professor of Music, 1705. Composer and Organist Extraordinary to Queen Anne, 1705. Deprived of his appointments owing to some remarks which he made being considered disloyal to the Queen, 1706, but re-instated in all these posts the following year.* Eventually resigned them in 1726, and spent the latter portion of his life in forming, at the instigation of Lord Harley, the valuable collection of English Music known as the "Tudway" Collection (British Museum, Harleian MSS., 7337-7342). Died 1730. Composer of Church Music, Songs, &c.

Tudway was an inveterate punster, and part of the offence which deprived him of his appointments was a remark complaining of the paucity of the patronage of the Chancellor, the Duke of Somerset: "The Chancellor rides us all, without a bit in our mouths."

ROBERT FULLER, Mus.B., Cantab., 1724 ... ... 1727 1742

Also Organist to the University, 1731. Died 1743. Buried in All Saints Church.

There are seven Anthems by him in the Ely Collection.

JOHN RANDALL, Mus.D., Cantab., 1756 ... ... 1743 1799

Born 1715. Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Organist of King's College, Cambridge, 1743; Trinity College, 1777; also Organist to the University and Pembroke Hall. University Professor of Music, 1755. Died March 18, 1799. Buried in St. Benet's Churchyard, Cambridge. Composer of Church Music, Songs, &c. One or two of his Chants are well known at the present day.

JOHN PRATT... ... ... 1799 1855

Son of Jonas Pratt, a music-dealer. Born at Cambridge, 1772. Chorister in King's College, and afterwards pupil of Dr. Randall. Succeeded Randall as Organist of King's College and to the University, 1799. Organist of St. Peter's College, 1813. Died at Cambridge, March 9, 1855. Buried in the Cambridge Cemetery, Mill Road. Composer of Church Music. Compiler of a Collection of Anthems in Score, selected from the works of Handel, Haydn, Mozart, and others.

A Service by Pratt, in E flat, in triple time throughout, was in use some years ago at Ely.

* John Bishop (see under Winchester) officiated as Organist during the vacancy.

WILLIAM AMPS, M.A., Cantab. 1855 1876

Organist also of Peterhouse and Christ's College, Cambridge. Conductor of the University Musical Society. Resigned the appointment at King's College, 1876. Died May 20, 1910. Composer of Pianoforte Sonatas, Part-songs, &c.

ARTHUR HENRY MANN, M.A., Cantab.; propter merita, Mus.D., Oxon., 1882; Hon. R.A.M., F.R.C.O. ... ... 1876 ——

Born at Norwich, May 16, 1850. Chorister in Norwich Cathedral, and Assistant-Organist there to Dr. Z. Buck. Organist of St. Peter's, Wolverhampton, 1870; Tettenhall Parish Church, 1871; Beverley Minster, 1875; King's College, Cambridge, 1876. Organist to the University, 1897. Composer of Church Music, Organ Music, Part-songs, &c. Editor of Tallis's Motet for forty voices, and other music. One of the Compilers of the Music Catalogue of the Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge. Musical Editor of Church of England Hymnal, &c.

CAMBRIDGE—ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE.

JOHN BRIMBLE was Organist before 1670.

The inscription on his tomb, in the New Building, Peterborough Cathedral, gives the date of his death as July 25, 1670.

THOMAS WILLIAMS

was Organist in 1680. There is an Anthem by him, "Arise, arise," in the Ely Collection, and two others in the books of King's College, Cambridge.

GEORGE MASON ... ... 1612 (?)1629

Composed, with John Earsden, "The Ayres that were sung and played at Brougham Castle in Westmoreland, in the King's Entertainment, given by the right honourable the Earl of Cumberland, and his right noble sonne the Lord Clifford." His name is given as one of the composers in Clifford's Words of Anthems.

ROBERT RAMSEY, Mus.B., Cantab., 1616 ... ... 1628 (?) 1644

Was required to compose for his degree a "Canticum" to be performed at St. Mary's Church. A Service in F by him is in the Tudway Collection. There are also Services, Anthems, &c., at the British Museum, Ely, and Peterhouse, Cambridge. Dr. Jebb has included settings of the Litany (to English and Latin words), by Ramsey, in his "Choral Responses and Litanies." He is also one of the composers mentioned in Clifford's Words of Anthems.

GEORGE LOOSEMORE, Mus.D., Cantab., 1665 ... 1660 1682

Probably a son of Henry Loosemore, Organist of King's College, and a Chorister there under his father. Anthems by him are to be found in the Tudway and Ely Collections. There is a MS. collection of Graces by him in the Library of Trinity College.

ROBERT WILDBORE 1682 1688

JOHN RANDALL, Mus.D., Cantab. 1777 1799

(See under King's College.)

JOHN CLARKE-WHITFELD, Mus.D., Dub., Cantab., et Oxon. 1799 1820

(See under Hereford.)

WILLIAM BEALE 1820 1821

Born at Landrake, Cornwall, January 1, 1784. Chorister in Westminster Abbey. Pupil of Drs. Arnold and Cooke. Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, 1816. Organist, successively, of Wandsworth Parish Church and St. John's, Clapham Rise. Organist of Trinity and St. John's Colleges, Cambridge, 1820. Afterwards returned to London, where he died, May 3, 1854. Composer of Glees, Madrigals, and one or two pieces of Church Music. His Anthem, "Bow down Thine ear," has been edited by Dr. A. H. Mann.

SAMUEL MATTHEWS, Mus.B., Cantab., 1828 ... 1821 1832

Born 1769. Chorister in Westminster Abbey. Lay Clerk of Winchester Cathedral. Organist of Trinity and St. John's Colleges, Cambridge, 1821. Died December 9, 1832. THOMAS ATTWOOD WALMISLEY, M.A., Cantab., 1841; Mus.D., Cantab., 1848 ... ... 1833 1856

Born at Westminster, January 21, 1814. Pupil of his father, Thomas Forbes Walmisley, and of his godfather, Thomas Attwood. Organist of Croydon Church, 1830; Trinity and St. John's Colleges, Cambridge, 1833. University Professor of Music, 1836, while he was still in residence for his B.A. degree. It is said that about this time he was playing the organ at as many as eight services every Sunday—twice at each of the following places: King's College, Trinity College, St. John's College, and the University Church. Died at Caroline Place, Hastings, January 17, 1856. Buried in Fairlight Churchyard. Composer of Odes, Church Music, Organ pieces, Songs, Duets for Pianoforte and Oboe, &c. His Cathedral music was edited by his father, T. Forbes Walmisley.

It is said that his death was hastened by an unwise indulgence in lethal remedies, taken as a sedative to an active brain and over-sensitive mind.

Inscription on the gravestone of Walmisley:—

"Here lies the body of Thomas Attwood Walmisley,
M.A. and Mus.D.,
Professor of Music
in the University of Cambridge,
Born Jan. 21st, 1814. Died Jan. 17th, 1856.
He fell asleep in the humble hope that when Christ, Who is our Life, shall appear, then shall we also appear with Him in glory."

There is a memorial brass to him in the Ante-Chapel of Trinity College.

Composer of Cantatas, Odes, Church Music, Orchestral Music, Chamber Music, Sonatas for Organ, Songs, &c. Lecturer on Music, &c.

ETON COLLEGE.

It is impossible to give a complete and reliable succession of the Organists of Eton College, owing to the fact that for two hundred years or more previous to 1867 the choir was supplied by that of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and the post of Organist was often held by either the Organist or one of the Lay Clerks of the latter. In 1867 a separate Choral Establishment and Organist were instituted at Eton, the holder of the latter office being designated Precentor.

Much of the information given below is the result of a long and laborious search through the College account books, for which I am greatly indebted to Mr. Richard Cope, Clerk to the College.

JOHN MUNDY (MUNDAY, or MUNDIE), Mus.D., Oxon. ... ... circa 1575

(See under St. George's Chapel, Windsor.)

WILLIAM ELLIS, Mus.B., Oxon. ... ... —— ——

(See under St. John's College, Oxford.)

LEONARD WOODSON ... ... 1615 1641 (or later.)

Lay Clerk of St. George's Chapel, Windsor.

According to the Chapter Acts of St. George's Chapel (April 5, 1605), "It is decreed, at the request of Nathanaell Giles, esquier, Master of the Choristers of this free Chapel, that Leonard Woodeson, one of the singing-men of the same, shall have the teaching, keeping, dieting, ordering, and lodging of the said choristers for so long time as it shall be thought meet by the Dean and Chapter. And whensoever the said Dean and Chapter shall mislike (sic) therewith then upon one quarter's warning from them to be given to the said Nathanaell he shall take them again to his own ordering and government as before."

There is a Te Deum in D minor by him in Barnard's Collection, and two Anthems—"Arise, O Lord God" and "Hear, O Lord, hear my prayer"—are included in a MS. collection of Church Music in the Library of the Royal College of Music.

The words of the first-named Anthem are given in Clifford's "Divine Service and Anthems," 1664 edition.

A Leonard Wooddeson, probably a son or other descendant, was sworn in as a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal on August 15, 1681.

The accounts for 1642-1646 are missing.

CHARLES PEARSE ... ... 1648 1653 (or later.)

From 1654 till 1660 an Organist's salary was paid but no name is given.

BENJAMIN ROGERS, Mus.D., Oxon. .. ...(?)1661 (?)1664

His name appears in the accounts, but he is not mentioned as Organist. In fact, from this time until 1701, the word Organist is not to be found in the books.

(See also under Magdalen College, Oxford.)

BENJAMIN LAMB ... ... circa 1687

He also held the office of Verger of St. George's Chapel, Windsor.

Composer of Church Music, Organ pieces, Songs, &c. An Evening Service and four Anthems by him are included in the Tudway Collection. His Single Chant in F is included in most of the Collections of the present day.

JOHN WALTER ... ... circa 1690

He may have been Organist, but probably he was merely a Lay Clerk. One of the musical instructors of John Weldon. Composer of Church Music.

FRANCIS PIGOTT (Junr.) ... ...(?)1733 1756

His name first appears as Organist in 1733.

(See also under St. George's Chapel, Windsor.)

EDWARD WEBB 1756 1788

(See under St. George's Chapel, Windsor.)

STEPHEN HEATHER 1788 1831

Born 1748. Lay Clerk of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and Organist of Eton College. Died at Windsor, November 14, 1831.

JOHN MITCHELL 1831 1867

Born at Eton, 1809. Chorister, and afterwards Lay Clerk in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and Organist of Eton College. Resigned the latter post on the establishment of a separate Choir and Organist, 1867. Died at Windsor, January 6, 1892.

Mitchell sang at the Coronations of George IV., William IV., and Queen Victoria, and also at the Jubilee Service in Westminster Abbey, June 21, 1887. After the latter event Her Majesty the Queen presented him with an engraved portrait of herself as a recognition of his long musical services.

LEIGHTON GEORGE HAYNE, Mus.D., Oxon., 1860 1867 1871

Born at Exeter, February 28, 1836. Organist of Queen's College, Oxford, 1857; Precentor ditto, 1860. Took Holy Orders, 1861. Coryphæus of Oxford University, 1863. Vicar of Helston, 1866. Precentor of Eton, 1867. Rector of Mistley (Essex), 1871. Died at Bradfield (Essex), March 3, 1883. Composer of Psalm Tunes, &c. Editor (with the Rev. H. W. Sargeant) of "The Merton Tune Book."

The organ was his special hobby. He had a large instrument of five manuals built in the music room of Eton College. This was eventually divided between the churches of Mistley and Bradfield.

CHARLES DONALD MACLEAN, M.A., Oxon., 1875: Mus.D., Oxon., 1865 ... ... 1872 1875

Born at Cambridge, March 27, 1843. Pupil of Ferdinand Hiller at Cologne. Organist of Exeter College, Oxford, 1862. Organist and Director of the Music at Eton College, 1872. Resigned the post at Eton and was for some years resident in India. Eventually settled in London. Died June 23, 1916. Composer of an Oratorio, "Noah," a Cantata, "Sulmala," a Requiem Mass, Church Music, Orchestral Music, Chamber Music, Songs, Pianoforte pieces, &c.

SIR JOSEPH BARNBY, Knt., F.R.C.O. 1875 1892

Born at York, August 12, 1838. Chorister in York Minster. Student of the Royal Academy of Music. Organist of Mitcham Parish Church for a short period, after which he returned to York for four years. Then Organist successively of St. Michael's, Queenhithe; St. James the Less, Westminster; and (in 1863) St. Andrew's, Wells Street, London. Musical Adviser to Messrs. Novello & Co. Conducted a performance of Bach's Passion Music ("St. Matthew") at Westminster Abbey, April 6 (Maundy Thursday), 1871. Director of the music at St. Anne's, Soho, 1871. Founded "Mr. Joseph Barnby's Choir" in 1867, which afterwards gave its performances under the title of "The Oratorio Concerts," and eventually amalgamated with M. Gounod's Choir as The (Royal) Albert Hall Choral Society. Precentor of Eton College, 1875-1892. Conductor of the Concerts of the Royal Academy of Music, 1886-1888. Principal of the Guildhall School of Music, 1892. Conductor of the Cardiff Musical Festivals, 1892 and 1895. Knighted in 1892. Died suddenly in London, January 28, 1896. Composer of a Sacred Idyll, "Rebekah," a setting of Psalm 97, Church Music, Part-songs, Trios, Songs, Carols, Organ pieces, &c. Musical Editor of the Hymnary, &c.

CHARLES HARFORD LLOYD, M.A.; Mus.D., Oxon. 1892 1914

(See under Gloucester.)

BASIL JOHNSON, B.A., Oxon., 1883; (Hon.) F.R.C.O. 1914 ——

Son of the Very Rev. G. H. S. Johnson, Dean of Wells. Born at Oxford, 1861. Educated at Malvern College and Magdalen College, Oxford: Organist of the former, Academical Clerk of the latter. Student of the Royal College of Music. Organist for a short time at St. James's, Norlands, and St. Gabriel's, Pimlico. Organist and Musical Director at Rugby School, 1886. Conductor of the Rugby Philharmonic Society for twenty-seven years. Examiner for the Associated Board of R.A.M. and R.C.M. Precentor of Eton College, 1914.

LONDON—CHAPEL ROYAL (First at Whitehall; afterwards at St. James's).

"The old Chapel Royal, Whitehall, was consumed by fire January 5, 1698; and the new Chapel opened December 9, in the same year. The Chapel Royal, St. James's, was occasionally used in the 16th and 17th centuries, but the service was not regularly instituted there until the beginning of the 18th century."—("The Old Cheque Book of the Chapel Royal." Edited by E. F. Rimbault.)

The Chapel Royal has generally possessed, until comparatively recently, two or more organists at a time, the duties of the office being divided according to certain arrangements.

In the "Orders for the Attendance of the Gentlemen of his Majestes Chapell," about the year 1604, occur the following paragraphs concerning the attendance of the organists:—

"(8.) If ther be above two Organistes at once, two shall allwaies attend: if ther be but two in all, then they shall wayte by course, one after another, weekly or monethly, as they shall agree betwixt them selves, givinge notice to the Subdeane and the Clark of the Check how they do dispose of their waytinge, that therby it may be knowne who is at all tymes to be expected for the service, and they shalbe subject to such orders, and to such checks, in the same manner as the other gentlemen are.

"(9.) The check for absence from morning prayers, holy dayes, festivall tymes, and sermon dayes, shalbe 4d., from evening prayer uppon such dayes and their festivall eves 3d., from eveninge prayer 2d.

"(10.) The check for late cominge, viz., after the first Gloria Patri 1d., after the first lesson 2d., after the second as for absent from the whole service."—("The Old Cheque Book of the Chapel Royal.")

The office of Composer to the Chapel Royal was created in 1699, Dr. Blow being its first holder.* It has generally, though not always, been held by one of the Organists of the Chapel. The holder of the office is expected to compose music for the Services on State or other occasions when required by the Sovereign. A second Composer's post was established in 1715. John Weldon was the first appointed second Composer, his initial undertaking being a setting of the Sanctus and Gloria in E flat.

(?) Christopher Tye, Mus.D., Cantab. et Oxon. 1562 ——

(See under Ely.)

Thomas Tallis (or Tallys) ... ... circa 1545 1585

Often called the Father of English Church Music. Born about 1520. Is supposed to have been a Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Organist of Waltham Abbey for some years, until its dissolution, 1540. Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, and afterwards Organist of the same. Held letters patent, jointly with Bird, for the exclusive right to print music. Died, November 23, 1585.

* His salary as Composer was £40 per annum.

Buried in Greenwich Parish Church. Composer of a large number of works for the Church, some with Latin and others with English words. Known at the present day chiefly by his harmonies to the old Plain-song Responses, called "Tallis's Responses."

It is said that Tallis was in attendance upon Queen Elizabeth at Greenwich Palace at the time when he died. There was an epitaph to him engraved upon a brass plate in the chancel of the old church of Greenwich, where he was buried. The church was pulled down during the last century, when all trace of the brass plate was lost.

The epitaph occurs, however, in Strype's continuation of Stow's "Survey of London," and is as follows:-

Enterred here doth ly a worthy wyght,
Who for long tyme in musick bore the bell;
His name to shew was Thomas Tallis hyght,
In honest vertuous lyff he dyd excell.

He served long tyme in Chappel with grete prayse,
Fower sovereygnes reignes (a thing not often seene),
I mean King Henry and Prince Edward's dayes,
Quene Marie, and Elizabeth our Quene.

He maryed was, though children he had none,
And lyv'd in love full three and thirty yeres
With loyal spowse, whos name yclept was Jone,
Who here entomb'd, him company now bears.

As he dyd lyve, so also dyd he dy,
In myld and quyet sort, O happy man,
To God ful oft for mercy did he cry,
Wherefore he lyves, let Deth do what he can.

WILLIAM BLITHEMAN, Mus.B., Cantab., 1586 ... 1585 1591
Master of the Choristers, Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford, 1564. Organist of the Chapel Royal, 1585. Died 1591. Buried in St. Nicholas Olave Church, Queenhithe. Composer of Church Music and pieces for the Organ, Virginals, &c. The following Epitaph to him was to be found in St. Nicholas Olive Church before the Great Fire:—

Here Blitheman lies, a worthy wight,
Who feared God above,
A friend to all, a foe to none,
Whom rich and poor did love;
Of princes chappell gentleman
Unto his dying day,
Whom all tooke great delight to heare
Him on the organs play;
Whose passing skill in musicke's art
A scholar left behind,
John Bull by name, his master's veine
Expressing in each kinde;
But nothing here continues long,
Nor resting-place can have,
His soule departed hence to heaven,
His body here in grave.

JOHN BULL, Mus.D., Cantab. et Oxon. ... ... 1591 (?)1613
Was Joint-Organist with Blitheman, 1588-1591.

ORLANDO GIBBONS, Mus.B., Cantab., 1606; Mus.D., Oxon., 1622 ... ... 1604 1625

Son of William Gibbons, one of the "Wayts" of Cambridge.

Born at Cambridge, 1583. Chorister in King's College, Cambridge, under his brother, Edward Gibbons. Organist of the Chapel Royal, 1604. Organist of Westminster Abbey, 1623. Died at Canterbury, June 5, 1625, whilst undertaking the commission of Charles I. to direct the music for the reception of Henrietta Maria. Buried in the Nave of Canterbury Cathedral. Celebrated composer of Church Music, Madrigals, pieces for Virginals, Fantasias for Viols, &c.

Inscription to Orlando Gibbons on the wall of the North Aisle at Canterbury:—

Orlando Gibbons, Cantabridgiæ inter Musas et Musicam nato, sacræ R. Capellæ Organistæ, Sphærarum
Harmoniæ digitorum; pulsu æmulo cantionum complurium quæque eum non canunt minus quam
Canuntor Canditori; viro integerrimo et cujus certavit ad nupt: C. R. cum M. P. Doroberii accito ictuque heu sanguinis crudo et crudeli fato extincto, choroque cælesti transcripto die Pentecostes A. D. N. MDCXXV. Elizabetha conjux semptemque ex eo liberorum parens, tanti vix doloris superstes merentissimo mærentissima posuit.

Dart's translation:—

To Orlando Gibbons of Cambridge, born among the muses and music; Organist of the Royal Chapel; emulating by the touch of his fingers the harmony of the spheres; composer of many hymns which sound his praise no less than that of his Maker; a man of integrity whose manner of life and sweetness of temper vy'd with that of his art:
being sent for to Dover to attend the nuptials of King Charles and Mary; he died of the small pox,* and was conveyed to the Heavenly choir on Whitsun Day, anno 1625. Elizabeth his wife, who bore him seven children, little able to survive such a loss, to her most deserving Husband hath, with tears, erected this monument.

This inscription is surmounted by a bust of the eminent musician.

EDMUND HOOPER ... ...(?)1603 1621

Is said to have succeeded Randall as Organist.

(See under Westminster Abbey.)

* Dart's translation is rather free. He renders ictu sanguinis crudo "small-pox" (!!), and other writers have copied him.

THOMAS TOMKINS, Mus.B., Oxon. 1621 1656

(See under Worcester.)

THOMAS WARROCK (or WARWICK) ... ... 1625 ——

Descendant of an old Cumberland family, and father of Sir Philip Warwick, Secretary to the Treasury in the reign of Charles II. Organist of Hereford Cathedral, 1586-1589. Gentleman and Organist of the Chapel Royal, 1625. In 1641 he appears in the list of the King's musicians as "For the Virginall." The year of his death is unknown. Composer of Church Music, and a Song in forty parts, which is said to have been performed before Charles I. There are two pieces by him in the Fitzwilliam Virginal Book.

His name appears among the benefactors to the Library of the Vicars Choral at Hereford.

During his appointment as Organist of the Chapel Royal, he had (on March 29, 1630) to forfeit a month's salary "because he presumed to play verses on the organ at service tyme, being formerly inhibited by the Deane from doinge the same, by reason of his insufficiency for that solemn service."

WILLIAM CHILD, Mus.D., Oxon., 1663 ... ... 1632 1697

Born at Bristol, 1606. Pupil of Elway Bevin. Appointed Lay Clerk and Organist of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, 1632; Organist of the Chapel Royal, 1632. During the Civil Wars he devoted himself to composition, and at the Restoration he was reappointed Organist of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and made Private Musician to Charles II., "Chanter of the King's Chapel at Whitehall," retaining his post as one of the Organists. As Senior Gentleman, or "Father" of the Chapel Royal, he walked first in the procession at the Coronation of James II. The Choir of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, was re-paved at his expense.* Died March 23, 1697, aged ninety. Buried in the North Choir Aisle of St. George's Chapel. Composer of Church Music, Catches, Airs, &c.

His Service in D was a favourite of Charles I. It is more than usually intricate for music of that period, and was supposed to have been written as a "teaser" for his choir, who had previously ridiculed the simplicity of his music.

In the Registers of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, occurs the following entry:—

Wm. Child, buried in woollen, March 26th, 1697.

EPITAPH ON DR. CHILD, at St. George's Chapel, Windsor:—

Heare lyes y bodye of Will. Childe, Doctor of Musick, one of y organists of y Chapple Royale at Whitehall, & of His Majestie's Free Chapel at Windsor 65 years. He was born in Bristol, and dyed heare y 23rd of March, 169⅞, in y 91st yeare of his age. He paved y body of y Quire.

* "While he was at St. George's, the salaries of the officers were very much in arrear, and Child, not expecting ever to see his, which amounted to some £500, said to one of the Canons that he would be glad to take £5 and some bottles of wine for his arrears. The Canons accepted this offer, and had sealed articles drawn up confirming the bargain. When James II. came to the throne, the arrears in the official salaries were paid off; but Dr. Child had lost all claim, owing to his bargain. The Canons, however, released him, on condition of his promising to pave the Choir of the Chapel, which he accordingly did, and it is recorded on his tombstone."—("Dictionary of National Biography.")

"Go, happy soul, and in the seats above,
Sing endless hymns of thy great Maker's love.
"How fit, in Heavenlie Choirs to bear thy part,
"Before well practised in y sacred art.
"Whilst hearing us sometimes y Choir divine
"Will sure descend, and in our concert join.
"So much y musick thou to us hast given,
"Has made our earth to represent their Heaven."*

LONDON—TEMPLE CHURCH.

Cathedral Service was first established here on the Restoration of the Church and removal of the organ from the West Gallery to its present position, in 1842. For the sake of completeness, however, a record is given of the Organists from 1688, when Father Smith's organ was finally accepted by the Benchers.* This record is based upon a list of the Organists given in Mr. Edmund Macrory's interesting little book, entitled "A Few Notes on the Temple Organ," where may also be found a long Agreement between the Hon. Societies of the Inner and Middle Temple and the first mentioned Organist, Francis Pigott.

FRANCIS PIGOTT, Mus.B., Cantab. 1688 1704
(See under Magdalen College, Oxford.)

J. PIGOTT .. .. 1704 ——

GEORGE PRICE 1814 1826
Died 1826.

* The circumstances of the competition between the two organ builders, "Father Smith" and Renatus Harris, for supplying the Temple Organ at this period are too well known to need a description here.
† Colleagues of John Stanley.

GEORGE WARNE 1826 1843

Born 1792. He was blind. Retired from the post, 1843. Died at Bath, October 29, 1868. Composer of a "Set of Psalm Tunes, as sung at the Temple Church, London" (1838), several Songs, and Pianoforte pieces.

EDWARD JOHN HOPKINS, Mus.D., Cantuar., 1882. F.R.C.O. 1843 1898

Brother of John Hopkins, of Rochester Cathedral, and cousin of Dr. J. L. Hopkins, of Rochester and Trinity College, Cambridge. Born at Westminster, June 30, 1818. Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Pupil of Thomas Forbes Walmisley (the father of Dr. T. A. Walmisley). Organist of Mitcham Parish Church, 1834; St. Peter's, Islington, 1838; St. Luke's, Berwick Street, 1841; Temple Church, 1843. Retired from the latter post, 1898. One of the Founders of the (Royal) College of Organists. Granted the honorary degree of Mus.D. by the Archbishop of Canterbury, 1882. A testimonial was presented to him on attaining his Jubilee as an Organist in 1884, and also on his completion of fifty years office as Organist to the Temple Church in 1893. He was for many years Professor of the Organ at the Royal Normal College for the Blind, Norwood. Died February 4, 1901. Buried in Hampstead Cemetery. Composer of Church Music, Organ pieces, Madrigals, Songs, Part-songs, &c. Arranger of Organ Music. Editor of Madrigals, Organ pieces, Hymnals, Chant Books, &c. Joint-Author, with Dr. E. F. Assistant-Organist of St. George's Chapel, Windsor; also Organist of Park Chapel, Windsor. Organist of St. Anne's, Soho, 1890; Christ Church, Hampstead, 1891; Temple Church, 1898. Associate and sometime Professor of the Royal College of Music. Conductor for some years of the Bach Choir, London. During the Great War he undertook the organization of musical work among the Forces, and in 1918 was granted the military rank of Major. Appointed Professor of Music in the University of Wales, 1919. Composer of Cantatas, Church Music, Organ pieces, Orchestral and Chamber Music, Songs, &c.

LONDON—WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

The names of John Howe, 1549, and Master Whitt (or White?) 1560, were given as Organists in the first edition; but they were probably makers or repairers of the organs.

JOHN TAYLOR 1562 1569

Also Master of the Choristers.

ROBERT WHITE (or WHYTE), B.A., Mus.B., Cantab. 1570 1574

(See under Ely.)

HENRY LEÉVE 1575 1606
Also Master of the Choristers.

EDMUND HOOPER ... { Master of the Choristers 1588 / Organist ... 1606 } 1621
Supposed to be the first regular appointment of Organist at the Abbey.
Born at North Halberton, Devon, and said to have been a Chorister in Exeter Cathedral. Died July 14, 1621. Buried in the Abbey Cloisters. Also Gentleman and Organist of the Chapel Royal. Composer of Church Music. Contributor to Este's "Whole Booke of Psalms."
His Patent (for life) from the Dean and Chapter as Organist of Westminster Abbey bears the date May 9, 1606, one having previously been taken out by him as Master of the Choristers on December 3, 1588.
According to the Abbey records he was occasionally employed in "mending the organs" and "pricking new song-books."

JOHN PARSONS 1621 1623
Previously one of the Parish Clerks and Organist of St. Margaret's, Westminster.
His salary at Westminster Abbey was £16 per annum as Organist, and £36 13s. 4d. for "teaching and finding the children." Died July, 1623. Buried in the Abbey Cloisters. A Burial Service by him is included in Ed. Lowe's "Review" of his "Short Directions for the performance of the Cathedral Service."
Camden's "Remaines concerning Britain" (1657) contains the following epitaph upon Parsons*:—

Death passing by and hearing Parsons play
Stood much amazèd at his depth of skill,
And said, "This artist must with me away,"
For death bereaves us of the better still;
But let the quire, while he keeps time, sing on,
For Parsons rests, his service being done.

ORLANDO GIBBONS, Mus.B., Cantab.; Mus.D., Oxon. 1623 1625
(See under Chapel Royal.)

THOMAS DAY 1625 1632
Also Master of the Choristers.
In 1612 he was one of the musicians to Prince Henry, and when Charles I. came to the throne he served him in a similar capacity. Master of the Children of the Chapel Royal, 1637. Died about 1654.

RICHARD PORTMAN ... ... 1633 (?)1648
Pupil of Orlando Gibbons, and succeeded Thomas Day as Organist. Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, 1638. According to the Abbey records his salary as Organist continued until 1648. Died November, 1659. He is said to have lived some time in France with the then Dean of Westminster, The Very Rev. Dr. Williams, who was a patron of music and musicians. Composer of Church Music. One of the composers of Services in Clifford's Collection. There is a complete Service by him in the Tudway Collection.

* Hawkins assigns this epitaph to Robert Parsons, but it more probably refers to John.

CHRISTOPHER GIBBONS, Mus.D., Oxon. [Per Literas Regias, 1664] 1660 1666†

Son of Orlando Gibbons. Born 1615. Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Pupil of his uncle, Edward Gibbons, at Exeter. Organist of Winchester Cathedral from 1638 until the Rebellion, when he joined the Royalist Army. His appointment at Winchester appears to have been retained (nominally at all events) until June 23, 1661. (See under Winchester.) At the Restoration he became Organist of Westminster Abbey and the Chapel Royal, and was appointed one of the Musicians of the Virginals to Charles II., in the place of Thomas Warwick. Died October 20, 1676. Buried in the Abbey Cloisters. Composer of Church Music, an Act Song (performed for his Degree), Music to a Masque, &c.

According to Wood, he was "a grand debauchee. He would often sleep at Morning Prayer when he was to play the organ."

It is said that he carried the £1,000 lent to the King by his uncle Edward. (See also under Exeter.)

The Royal Letter to the University of Oxford, directing them to confer the degree of Doctor of Music on Christopher Gibbons, is as follows:—

"Whereas the bearer, Christopher Gibbons, one of the Organists of our Royal Chapel, hath from his youth, served our royal Father and ourselves, and hath so well improved himself in musick as well in our judgement as the judgement of all men well skilled in the science, as that he may worthily receive the honor and degree of Doctor therein. We in consideration of his merit and fitness thereunto, have thought fit by these our Letters to recommend him unto you, and to signify our gracious pleasure to you that he be forthwith admitted and created Doctor in Music."

On the occasion of his being created Doctor of Music the Dean and Chapter of Westminster made him a present of £5.

ALBERTUS BRYAN (BRIAN or BRYNE) ... ... 1666 1668†

(See under St. Paul's.)

JOHN BLOW, Mus.D., Cantuar., 1677 ... ... 1668† 1679†

Born at North Collingham, or Newark-on-Trent, 1648 or 1649.‡ Probably educated in the Song-School, Newark-on-Trent. Chorister in the Chapel Royal at the Restoration. Pupil of Captain Cooke and Dr. Christopher Gibbons. Organist of Westminster Abbey, 1668. Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, 1673. Master of the Children of the Chapel Royal, 1674. Organist of the Chapel Royal, 1676. Resigned the organistship of Westminster Abbey in favour of his pupil, Henry Purcell, 1679. Member of the Royal Band of James II., 1685. Almoner and Master of the Choristers of St. Paul's Cathedral, 1687-1693. Re-appointed Organist of Westminster Abbey on the death of Purcell, 1695. (See page 145.) Tuner of the Regals, &c., to the King, in succession to Henry Purcell, 1695.

* The name of Thomas Warwick (Warrock) was given here as Organist in the first edition. He was Organist of the Chapel Royal at this period, but the statement of Anthony à Wood that he was Organist of Westminster Abbey now appears to be unsupported by evidence in the Abbey Records.

† For these amended figures, which are now correctly printed for the first time, I am indebted to Rev. Minor Canon Westlake, Custodian of the Abbey Records. That they were wrongly given in the first edition of this book and elsewhere is undoubtedly owing to the fact that the Treasurer's accounts ran from Michaelmas to Michaelmas in each year, and are incorrectly labelled outside.

‡ No record is known of his birth. He was baptized in the Parish Church of Newark-on-Trent, February 23, 1649. (Dr. W. H. Cummings, "Proceedings of the Mus. Assoc.," March 16, 1909.)

Composer of the Chapel Royal (the first appointed to that office), 1699. Died October 1, 1708. Buried in North Aisle of the Choir of the Abbey, where a tablet is erected to his memory. On his tombstone is engraved an open book, showing the "Gloria Patri" from his Service in Gamut. Composer of Church Music (much of which unfortunately has never been published), an "Ode for St. Cecilia's Day," an "Elegy on Queen Mary," Lessons for the Harpsichord, &c.

When the late Emperor of Brazil visited Westminster Abbey some years ago, the first thing he asked Dean Stanley to show him was Dr. Blow's monument.

In the epistle dedicatory to his "Amphion Anglicus" (a collection of songs) to the Princess Ann of Denmark, the author (Blow) informs her Royal Highness that he was preparing to publish his Church Services and Divine Compositions. It seems, however, that he did not live to carry out this design. From some verses prefixed to this Collection, it appears that a Canon composed by Blow had been much admired at Rome:—

> His Gloria Patri long ago reach'd Rome;
> Sung and rever'd too in S. Peter's dome;
> A Canon will outlive her jubilees to come.

This is the Canon in his Service in Gamut already referred to. That it should be sung at Rome may seem strange, yet it is true; as some compositions of Blow and Purcell had been sent to Cardinal Howard, at his particular request, from Dr. Ralph Battell, Sub-dean of the Chapel Royal. The Canon also was printed separately in the editions of Playford's "Introduction" subsequent to the year 1700.

Henry Purcell 1679* 1695

Son of Henry Purcell, a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal. Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Pupil of his predecessor at Westminster Abbey, Dr. Blow, who retired from the post in his favour. Previously held the appointments of Tuner of the Regals, &c., to the King (1673-1677) and Copyist to the Abbey (1676-1678). Organist of the Chapel Royal, 1682. Appointed one of the Composers to the King, 1683. Appointed with Dr. Blow to play on Father Smith's organ at the Temple Church, during the latter's competition with Harris for supplying an organ there, 1684. Again Copyist to the Abbey, 1688. In 1689, engaged in a dispute with the Dean and Chapter of Westminster concerning certain monies that he had received for admission to the organ loft of spectators of the Coronation of William and Mary, and which he considered as a perquisite arising from his office as Organist. Died November 21, 1695. Buried in the North Aisle of the Choir of the Abbey. Composer of Church Music, a number of Operas and other Dramatic pieces, Odes, Sonatas for Strings, Lessons for the Harpsichord, Organ pieces, Songs, &c.

The following is the inscription on Purcell's gravestone:—

> Plaudite, felices superi, tanto hospite; nostris
> Præfuerat, vestris additur ille choris:
> Invida nec vobis Purcellum terra reposcat,
> Questa decus sedi deliciasque breves.
> Tam cito decessisse, modos cui singula debet
> Musa, prophana suos, religiosa suos,
> Vivit, Io et vivat, dum vicina organa spirant,
> Dumque colet numeris turba canora Deum."

* See foot-note marked † on page 144.

Translated thus:—

Applaud so great a guest, celestial pow'rs,
Who now resides with you, but once was ours;
Yet let invidious earth no more reclaim
Her short-lived fav'rite and her chiefest fame;
Complaining that so prematurely died
Good-nature's pleasure and devotion's pride.
Died? No, he lives, while yonder organs sound
And sacred echoes to the choir rebound.

On a pillar near to the grave is a tablet with this inscription:—

"Here lyes | HENRY PURCELL, Esq. | Who left this Life | And is gone to that Blessed Place | Where only his Harmony | can be exceeded. Obijt 21 mo die Novembris | Anno Ætatis suæ 37mo. | Annoq. Domini 1695."

The following are the concluding lines of an Ode, written by Henry Hall (Senr.), a fellow pupil of Purcell under Dr. Blow, and afterwards Organist successively of Exeter and Hereford Cathedrals, "To the memory of my Dear Friend, Mr. Henry Purcell:—

Hail! And for ever hail, Harmonious shade,
I lov'd thee living, and admire thee Dead.
Apollo's harp at once our souls did strike;
We learnt together, but not learnt alike:
Though equal care our Master might bestow,
Yet only Purcell e're shall equal Blow:
For thou by Heaven for wondrous things design'd
Left'st thy companion lagging far behind.
Sometimes a Hero in an age appears,
But once a Purcell in a Thousand Years."—

JOHN BLOW, Mus.D., Cantuar. (Reappointed) ... 1695 1708

WILLIAM CROFT, Mus.D., Oxon., 1713 ... ... 1708 1727

Born at Nether Eatington, 1677. Chorister in the Chapel Royal and pupil of Dr. Blow. Organist of St. Anne's, Westminster (Soho), 1700-1711. Joint-Organist of the Chapel Royal with Jeremiah Clark, 1704. Sole Organist (on the death of Clark), 1707. Master of the Chapel Royal Children and Composer to the Chapel Royal (in succession to Blow), 1708. Tuner of the Regals, &c., 1716. Died at Bath, August 14, 1727. Buried in the North Aisle of the Choir of Westminster Abbey. Composer of Church Music, Songs, Sonatas, Instrumental Act Music, &c.

His monument bears a Latin inscription, of which the following is a translation, taken from Dr. W. A. Barrett's "English Church Composers":—

"Near to this place lies interred William Croft, Doctor in Music, Organist of the Royal Chapel and of this Collegiate Church. His harmony he derived from that excellent artist in modulation, who lies on the other side of him.* In his celebrated works, which for the most part he consecrated to God, he made a diligent progress; nor was it by the solemnity of the numbers alone, but by the force of his ingenuity and the sweetness of his manners, and even his countenance, that he excellently recommended them. Having resided among mortals for fifty years, behaving with the utmost candour (not more conspicuous for any other office of humanity than a friendship and love truly paternal to all whom he had instructed), he departed to the heavenly choir on the fourteenth day of August, 1727, that, being near, he might add his own Hallelujah to the Concert of Angels. 'Awake up my glory, awake lute and harp, I myself will awake right early!'"

* Dr. Blow.

JOHN ROBINSON 1727 1762

Born 1682. Chorister in the Chapel Royal, and pupil of Blow. Organist of St. Lawrence, Jewry, 1710; St. Magnus, London Bridge, 1713, retaining both these appointments until his death. Deputy-Organist at Westminster Abbey for some years before succeeding Dr. Croft in the full office. Died April 30, 1762. Buried in the North Aisle of the Choir of the Abbey, in the same grave as Dr. Croft. His Double Chant in E flat, said to have been the favourite of George III., is still very popular.

Boyce, in the biographical notes to his "Cathedral Music," describes Robinson as "a most excellent performer on the organ."

From the following memorandum, in a MS. book at the Abbey, it appears that during Robinson's time the organ was removed from its ancient position in the North Choir Aisle to the Screen:—

"The new organ built by Mr. Shrider and Mr. Jordan was opened on the 1st August, 1730, by Mr. Robinson; the anthem, Purcell's 'O give thanks.'"

BENJAMIN COOKE, Mus.D., {Cantab., 1775 / et Oxon., 1782} ... 1762 1793

Son of Benjamin Cooke, a musicseller in New Street, Covent Garden. Born in London, 1734. Pupil of Dr. Pepusch. Appointed Deputy-Organist to Robinson at Westminster Abbey at the age of twelve. Conductor of Academy of Ancient Music, 1752. Lay Vicar of Westminster Abbey, 1758; Master of the Choristers, 1759; Organist, 1762. Organist of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, 1782. Died at Dorset Court, Cannon Row, Westminster, September 14, 1793. Buried in the West Cloister. Composer of Church Music, Organ pieces, Glees, &c.

His Evening Service in G was composed for the re-opening of the Abbey Organ after the addition of the Pedal Organ (by Avery). There is a tablet to his memory on the wall of the West Cloister of the Abbey, on which is engraved his fine Canon, three in one by augmentation, which he intended to be sung as an appendix to Bird's "Non nobis."

SAMUEL ARNOLD, Mus.D., Oxon., 1773 ... ... 1793* 1802

Born in London, August 10, 1740. Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Composer to Covent Garden Theatre, 1773, afterwards Proprietor of Marylebone Gardens and Director of the music there. Organist and Composer of the Chapel Royal, 1783. Conductor of the Academy of Ancient Music, 1789. Organist (not Master of the Choristers) of Westminster Abbey, 1793.* Died October 22, 1802. Buried in the North Aisle of the Choir of the Abbey. Composer of Church Music, Oratorios, Operas, Burlettas, &c. Editor of the "Arnold Edition" of Handel's works; also of "Cathedral Music" in continuation of Boyce.

MURAL TABLET TO DR. ARNOLD.

To the beloved and respected Memory of SAMUEL ARNOLD, Doctor of Music. Born July 30, O.S., 1740. Died Oct. 22, 1802. Aged 62 years and two months. And is interred near this spot. This tablet is erected by his affectionate widow.

Here lies of genius, probity, and worth
All that belongs to nature and to earth.
The hand that freely felt and warmly gave
The heart that pity stretched to help and save
The form that late a glowing spirit warmed
Whose spirit fled to Him, Who spirit gave,
Now smiles triumphant o'er the feeble grave
That could not chain it here, and joins to raise
With Heaven's own choir the song of prayer and praise.

* On his tombstone in the Abbey, the year of his appointment is wrongly given as 1789.

Oh Shade revered! Our nation's loss and pride
(For mute was harmony when ARNOLD died).
"Oh let thy 'still-loved son' inscribe thy stone
"And with a 'mother's sorrow' mix his own."

[These lines are by Arnold's son, S. J. Arnold (d. 1852), the dramatic author and some time lessee of the English Opera House, now the Lyceum.]

ROBERT COOKE 1802 1814

Son of Dr. B. Cooke. Born 1768. Organist of St. Martin-in-the-Fields (in succession to his father), 1793. Organist of Westminster Abbey, 1802. Master of the Choristers, 1806. Committed suicide, owing to a love affair, by drowning himself in the Thames, August 22, 1814. Buried in the same grave as his father in the West Cloister. Composer of Church Music.

GEORGE EBENEZER WILLIAMS 1814 1819

Born 1783. Chorister in St. Paul's Cathedral. For some time Assistant-Organist at the Temple and (to Dr. Arnold) at Westminster Abbey. Organist of the Philanthropic Chapel, St. George's Road, 1805. Died April 17, 1819. Buried in the South Cloister. Composer of Chants, Sanctuses, &c. Author of "An Introduction to the Art of Playing on the Pianoforte," "Exercises for the Pianoforte," &c.

THOMAS GREATOREX 1819 1831

(See under Carlisle.)

JAMES TURLE 1831 1882

Born at Taunton, March 5, 1802. Chorister in Wells Cathedral. Pupil of J. J. Goss and G. E. Williams. Appointed Deputy-Organist at Westminster Abbey, 1819. Organist of Christ Church, Southwark, 1819; St. James's, Bermondsey, 1829. Music Master to the School for the Indigent Blind, 1829. Succeeded Greatorex as Organist of Westminster Abbey, 1831. Retired from active duties of the post, 1875. Died in London, June 28, 1882. Buried in Norwood Cemetery. Composer of Church Music, Glees, &c. Joint-Author, with E. Taylor, of "The Art of Singing at Sight." Editor of Willbye's First Set of Madrigals; Single and Double Chants, composed for the use of the Choral Service of Westminster Abbey. Joint Editor, with Dr. J. F (now Sir Frederick) Bridge, of the Westminster Abbey Chant Book, &c. Compiler of Hymn and Chant Books, &c.

On the day of Turle's retirement, September 19, 1875, his Service in D was sung at Westminster Abbey.

There is a memorial tablet to him in the West Cloister, and a window in the North Aisle of the Choir.

"He had an enormous hand. On one occasion, at the Prussian Embassy, he met the Chevalier Neukomm, who boasted that he could extend his hand on the keyboard over an octave and three notes. Turle quietly approached the pianoforte, and taking an octave and a half into his enormous hand, exclaimed, 'One more for luck!' No wonder that a roar of laughter greeted the triumph of the English organist over the German composer."—(Article by F. G. Edwards, Musical Times, July, 1907.)

SIR FREDERICK BRIDGE, Knt., C.V.O., M.A., propter merita, Mus.D., Oxon., 1874; F.R.C.O. 1882 1918

Born at Oldbury, Worcestershire, December 5, 1844. Chorister in Rochester Cathedral. Pupil of John Hopkins, Sir J. Goss, and Sir George Elvey. Organist of Shorne Church, 1861; Parish Church, Strood, 1862; Holy Trinity, Windsor, 1865; Manchester Cathedral, 1869; Lecturer on Musical Composition, Owens College, Manchester, 1872. Appointed Permanent Deputy-Organist, Westminster Abbey, 1875, succeeding Turle in the full office, 1882. Conductor for some years of the Highbury Philharmonic and Western Madrigal Societies. Afterwards Conductor of the Madrigal Society. Director of the Music at the Royal Jubilee Thanksgiving Service in Westminster Abbey, June 21, 1887. Appointed Gresham Professor of Music, 1890. Conductor of the Purcell Commemoration Festival in Westminster Abbey, November 21, 1895. Conductor of Royal Choral Society, 1896. Knighted in 1897. Professor of Counterpoint and Composition at the Royal College of Music. Director of the Music at the Coronations of King Edward VII. and King George V. Retired from Organistship of Westminster Abbey, 1918, with the title of Emeritus Organist. Composer of Oratorios, Cantatas, Church Music, Organ Music, Madrigals, Part-songs, Songs, &c. Author of works on Counterpoint, Double Counterpoint and Canon, Organ Accompaniment, Musical Gestures, "A Westminster Pilgrim," &c. Editor of various works. Lecturer, &c.

SYDNEY HUGO NICHOLSON, M.A., Mus.B., Oxon., 1902 ... ... 1919 ——

Born in London, February 9, 1875. Student of the Royal College of Music under Sir Walter Parratt and others. Organist of Barnet Parish Church, 1898; Lower Chapel, Eton College, 1903 Acting-Organist of Carlisle Cathedral, 1904; Organist of Manchester Cathedral, 1909. Organist of Westminster Abbey, 1919. Composer of a Choral Ballad "Ivry," a female-voice Cantata, "The Luck of Edenhall," "British Songs for British Boys," a Service in D flat, and other Church Music, &c. President of the Church Music Society. Lecturer, &c.

OXFORD—MAGDALEN COLLEGE.

(For CHRIST CHURCH COLLEGE, OXFORD, see under Cathedrals, p. 83.)

In Bloxam's "Registers of Magdalen College" will be found a complete list of the Instructors of the Choristers and Organists of the College from the year 1483. It should be remembered, however, that at this early period the office of Organist was not the department of a single individual, but of several of the musical staff of the College Chapel in turn.

ROBERT PERROT, Mus.B., Cantab., 1507 (? Mus.D., Oxon., 1515) 1510 1539

Instructor of the Choristers and Organist. (Resigned in 1539.)

A descendant of an ancient Pembrokeshire family. Born at Hackness, Yorks. Was Instructor of the Choristers, 1510-1535. According to Wood's "Fasti" he supplicated in 1515 for the degree of Mus.D., and the request was to be granted on the condition that he composed a Mass and one Song. Whether he actually obtained the degree is not recorded. At one time he was Principal of Trinity Hall, and in 1534 Receiver-General of the Archdeaconry of Buckingham. He died in 1550 and was buried in St. Peter's Church.*

THOMAS APPILBY 1539 1541

(See under Lincoln.)

JOHN SHEPPARD, (?) Mus.B., Oxon.† 1542 1554

Instructor of the Choristers and probably also Organist. Fellow, 1549-1551. Chorister in St. Paul's Cathedral under Thomas Mulliner. He appears to have supplicated, as a "student of music for the space of twenty years," for the degree of Mus.D., but it is not known whether he was admitted. Admonished three times by his College for offences "contra formam statuti." One of these was entrapping and carrying away a chorister from Malmesbury without the King's license for so doing. He was a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal under Queen Mary. His music, some of which is preserved in MS., is mentioned by Hawkins, Burney, and Morley ("Introduction"). The words of some of his Anthems appeared in Clifford's Collection. An Anthem by him, "I give you a new Commandment," was printed in "The Parish Choir" (1848).

RICHARD NICHOLSON, Mus.B., Oxon., 1595-6 ... 1595 1639

Instructor of the Choristers, and probably also Organist. Afterwards became the first University Professor of Music (or rather Choragus) under the endowment of Dr. William Heather. Died 1639. Composer of Madrigals, &c. Contributor to "The Triumphs of Oriana." Died 1639. In 1637 Nicholson appears to have had an assistant named COURTEIS or CURTIS.

ARTHUR PHILLIPS, Mus.B., Oxon. ... ... 1639 ——

(See under Bristol.)

THEODORE COLEBY (or COLBY) 1661 1664

(See under Exeter.)

BENJAMIN ROGERS, Mus.B., Cantab., 1658: Mus.D., Oxon., 1669 ... ... 1664 1685-6

"Informator Choristarum" and Organist.

Born at Windsor, 1614. Chorister in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and afterwards Lay Clerk there. Organist of Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin, 1639. Returned to England owing to the Rebellion and was again Lay Clerk of Windsor until 1644, when the Choir was disbanded. After the Restoration he became Organist of Eton College and, for the third time, Lay Clerk of Windsor, also Assistant-Organist there to Dr. Child. Organist and "Informator Choristarum" of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1664, at a salary of £60 per annum and rooms in the College.‡ Was dismissed by the College, 1685-6, but was allowed a

* For further information concerning Perrot, see Bloxam's Magdalen Registers.

† According to Grove's "Dictionary of Music and Musicians."

‡ There was considerable opposition to this at first, in consequence of the salary being larger than had been given to any previous organist at the College. But it was explained that it "was little enough for a man of that quality, and at a time when organists were scarce. Nor had any man there to object against it."—(See Bloxam.)

pension of £30, and lived in comparative obscurity at Oxford until his death in June, 1698. Buried at St. Peter-le-Bailey, Oxford. Composer of much Church Music, Glees, Suites for Strings, and the Hymn "Te Deum Patrem colimus," which is sung annually on May 1st at early morning on the Magdalen Tower. Some of his Anthems are in MS. at Magdalen and New Colleges.*

One cause of his dismissal was "his troublesome behaviour in the Chapel, where usually he would talk so loud in the organ loft, that he offended the company, and would not leave it off, though he hath been sent to by the President not to make such a scandalous noise there. There were frequent complaints of him from the Clerks, to whom, especially the Chanter, he used to be very cross, in not playing Services as they were willing and able to sing, but out of a thwarting humour would play nothing but Canterbury Tune, wherein he minded not the honour of the College, but his own ease and laziness."—(See Bloxam.)

FRANCIS PIGOTT, Mus.B., Cantab., 1698 ... ... 1685-6 1687

According to Dr. Clerk's MS. (see Bloxam) he appears to have been previously Organist of St. John's College, and to have "offered his service in Dr. Rogers's place for £40 per annum, and the reversion of £20 more after the decease of Dr. Rogers." Organist of the Temple Church, London, 1688. Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, 1695. Organist of the Chapel Royal, 1697. Died May 15, 1704. Composer of Church Music, Airs for the Harpsichord, &c.

DANIEL PURCELL 1688 1695

Brother of the great Henry Purcell (Organist of Westminster Abbey). Born in London about 1660. Nothing is known of his early career. Organist of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1688. Resigned this post, and went to London, 1695. Organist of St. Andrew's, Holborn, 1713. Died 1717. Composer of Church Music, Operas, Masques, Odes, Songs, Sonatas, "A Lamentation for the Death of Mr. Henry Purcell," &c.

Burney says: "He was a wicked punster, and no less wicked composer." His right to the second title is doubtful, but that to the first is recorded in "Joe Miller," from which the following is a specimen of his "wonderful replies":—

"Dr. Sewel and two or three more gentlemen, walking towards Hampstead on a summer's day, were met by the famous Daniel Purcell, the punster, who was very importunate with them to know upon what account they were going thither. The Doctor merrily answered him 'To make hay,' 'Very well,' replied the other, 'you'll be there at a very convenient season, the country wants rakes.'"—(See Bloxam.)

THOMAS HECHT 1695 1734

Son of Andrew Hecht, Organist of Lincoln Cathedral. Was admitted Organist of Lincoln in succession to his father, but declined office. Appointed Organist of Magdalen College, Oxford, 1695. Matriculated 1714. Died April 5, 1734. Buried in St. Ebbe's Churchyard.

He left £120 towards the enlargement of the College organ. According to his will he was cousin to Edward Thom(p)son, Organist of Salisbury Cathedral.

MATTHEW PHILLIPS was Organist for about three months during the vacancy. Doubtless he was the Matthew Phillips to whom Hecht bequeathed one of his spinets.—(See his Will in Bloxam.)

* The late J. S. Bumpus had in his possession a volume containing the whole of Dr. Benjamin Rogers's compositions for the Church, scored in the autograph of Dr. Phil. Hayes and transcribed from the books of Magdalen and New Colleges.

WILLIAM HAYES, Mus.D., Oxon.... ... ... 1734 1777
(See under Worcester.)

PHILIP HAYES, Mus.D., Oxon., 1777 ... ... 1777 1797

Son of the foregoing. Born at Shrewsbury, 1738. Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Pupil of his father. (Is said to have been Organist of Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford, 1763-1765, and to have been displaced by Thomas Norris.) Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, 1767. Organist of New College, 1776. Organist of Magdalen College, and University Professor of Music, 1777. Organist of St. John's College, Oxford, 1790. Died suddenly, in London, March 19, 1797. Buried in St. Paul's Cathedral. Composer of an Oratorio, "Prophecy," Odes, a Masque, Church Music, Glees, Songs, Concertos for Organ or Harpsichord, &c. Author of "Memoirs of Prince William Henry, Duke of Gloucester."

Dr. Philip Hayes was extremely corpulent, and was supposed to be the largest man in England. His unusual bulk earned for him the name of "Phil. Chaise."* Being of a very conceited and overbearing disposition, he made himself unpopular to his brother musicians on more than one occasion.

"When the Grand Commemoration of Handel, which took place in May, 1784, was in contemplation, two very pompous gentlemen, Dr. Hayes of Oxford and Dr. Miller of Doncaster, came to Town to give their gratuitous assistance as conductors by beating time. After several meetings and some bickerings, it was at length agreed that Dr. Hayes should conduct the first act, and Dr. Miller the second. When the time of performance had arrived, and Mr. Cramer, the leader, had just tapt his bow, (the signal for being ready,) and looked round to catch the eyes of the performers, he saw to his astonishment a tall gigantic figure with an immense powdered toupée, full dressed, with a bag and sword, and a huge roll of parchment in his hand. 'Who is that gentleman?' said Mr. Cramer. 'Dr. Hayes,' was the reply. 'What is he going to do?' 'To beat time.' 'Be so kind,' said Mr. Cramer, 'to tell the gentleman, that when he has sat down I will begin.' The Doctor, who never anticipated such a set down as this, took his seat, and Mr. Cramer did begin."—(Parke's "Musical Memoirs," Vol. I., p. 39.)

WALTER VICARY, Mus.B., Oxon., 1805 ... ... 1797 1845

Born 1770. Chorister in the Chapel Royal. Assistant-Organist to Dr. P. Hayes at Magdalen College; Organist, ditto, 1797. Lay Chaplain of New College, Oxford, 1812-1844. Lay Clerk of St. John's College, Oxford, 1816-1828. Organist to the University, 1830. Died at Oxford, January 5, 1845. Buried in Holywell Churchyard. Composer of Church Music, Songs, &c.

* At a time when the facilities of coach travelling were not very great, it was common to see upon the chimney piece of the public room of an inn, an announcement of "the want of a companion in a chaise." Dr. Philip Hayes, of Oxford (whose unwieldy person rendered his travelling in one of the "six insides" of the time a matter of considerable inconvenience), contemplating a journey to London, accepted the first companionship that offered at the Star; and, to avoid the toil of a walk from his house in Holywell, it was arranged that he should be taken up there. On the morning appointed, the inquiret for a companion jumped into the chaise—luggage all right—and, dashing up to the Doctor's door, he saw a figure little less than the great Daniel Lambert, supported by a servant on either side, slowly advancing from the wall. In amazement, he hastily lowered the front glass, roaring out, "Post-Boy—Hoy, is that the gentleman we are to take up?" "Ees, sir; that be Dr. Phil. Hayes." "Fill chaise, by ——," replied the traveller, "he shan't come in here; drive on, drive on," thus leaving the poor Doctor to get on his journey as well as he could.

BENJAMIN BLYTH, M.A., Oxon. 1845 1859

Son of Benjamin Blyth, Mus.D., Oxon. Born 1824. Chorister in Magdalen College. Matriculated at the College, 1841. Clerk, 1842-1845. Organist, 1845. "A.D. 1845, Jan. 26to. OXFORD—NEW COLLEGE.

WILLIAM MEREDITH ... ... —— 1637

Died January 5, 1637. On his tombstone in the Cloisters he is described as "Vir pius et facultate sua peritissimus." The following epitaph also upon him is from Wood's "Hist. et Antiq. Univ. Oxon.":—

"Here lyes one blowne out of breath,
Who liv'd a merry life, and dyed a merry death."

—— PINK was Organist in 1640.

SIMON COLEMAN was Organist in 1646. He was expelled from the College, together with some of the Chaplains and Fellows, in the year just mentioned.

—— MILES is said to have been Organist and Instructor of the Choristers in 1652; and —— CROUCH in 1657; but as the organs had been taken down and removed in 1646 or 1647, it is difficult to imagine how they carried out the duties of the first-named office.

—— FLEXNEY was Organist at the beginning of 1662.

ROBERT PICKHAVER 1662 1663

(See under Winchester College.)

WILLIAM KING,* B.A., Oxon. 1663 1680

Son of George King (Organist of Winchester College). Clerk of Magdalen College, 1648-1652. Chaplain of Magdalen College, 1652-1654. Died November 17, 1680. Buried in New College Cloisters. Composer of a complete Service in B flat, containing a setting of the Litany still sung at Lichfield Cathedral. It was published by John Bishop, of Cheltenham, half-a-century ago. Composer also of Anthems, Songs, &c.

Inscription on his gravestone: "Hoc sub lapide obdormiscit quicquid mortale reliquum est Gulielmi King, istius Collegii nuperrime Organistæ, cujus in Musicâ singularis eminentia ipsum angelorum consortii participem fecit die mensis Nov. 17, 1680, ætat 57."

JOHN WELDON 1694 1702

(See under Chapel Royal.)

SIMON CHILD 1702 1731

A MS. book of Anthems in score, by Weldon and others, in S. Child's autograph, formerly belonging to Archdeacon Heathcote (who was a Fellow of New College), was in the possession of the late J. S. Bumpus. On the fly-leaf of this book are some notes by Archdeacon Heathcote relating to former Organists of the College, one of which says that Child was succeeded by Richard Church. On the same fly-leaf is scribbled in pencil, "Simon Child, Ejus Liber. 1716." This interesting book contains several unpublished Anthems by Weldon.

* "When appointed to preside over the new organ at New College, the salary of his office was raised to £50 per annum, and the following agreement was made with him by Dr. Woodward, the Warden, viz.: That he should play the organ upon Surplice Days and Litany Days only, unless he should be by some of the House desired at any other time."—(MS. Elvey.)

ISAAC PRING, Mus.B., Oxon., 1799 ... ... 1797 1799
Brother of Dr. Joseph Pring, of Bangor. Born at Kensington, 1777. Chorister in St. Paul's Cathedral. Pupil of Dr. Philip Hayes, and afterwards succeeded him as Organist. Died of consumption, at Oxford, October 18, 1799. Composer of Church Music.

WILLIAM WOODCOCK, Mus.B., Oxon., 1806 ... 1799 1825
Born at Canterbury, 1754. Chorister in Canterbury Cathedral. Assistant-Organist of the Cathedral and St. John's College, Oxford, 1778-1784. Lay-Clerk of the Cathedral, and of Magdalen, New, and St. John's Colleges, resigning the two latter appointments on becoming Organist of New College. Died at Oxford, 1825. Composer of Church Music.

ALFRED BENNETT, Mus.B., Oxon., 1825 ... ... 1825 1830
Son of Thomas Bennett and brother of H. Bennett, of Chichester Cathedral. Born 1805 Pupil of his father. Organist of New College, Oxford, and of the University Church, 1825. Died September 12, 1830, from injuries sustained by a fall from the stage-coach "Aurora," whilst on his way to the Worcester Musical Festival. Buried in the Cloisters of New College. Composer of Church Music. Editor, with (Dr.) William Marshall, of a Collection of Chants. Author of "Instructions for the Spanish Guitar," "Vocalist's Guide," &c.

STEPHEN ELVEY, Mus.D., Oxon., 1838 ... ... 1830 1860
Brother of Sir George Elvey, Organist of Windsor. Born at Canterbury, June, 1805. Chorister in Canterbury Cathedral, and pupil of Skeats (Senr.). Organist of New College, 1830; University Church, 1845; St. John's College, 1846. University Choragus, 1848. Died at Oxford, October 6, 1860. Composer of Church Music. Editor of the work known as "Elvey's Psalter." His Evening Service, in continuation of Croft's Morning Service in A, is well known.

I am indebted to the late J. S. Bumpus for the following particulars concerning Dr. Stephen Elvey:—

Very early in life Dr. Stephen Elvey lost his right leg by an accidental shot, but with a wooden substitute he was enabled to manage the pedals. Notwithstanding this disadvantage, few performers could give greater effect to Handel's choruses in Wykeham's beautiful chapel.

His love for Handel's music was only exceeded by the way in which he interpreted that music to others. At the opening of the Crystal Palace, at Sydenham, in 1854, after listening to the "Hallelujah" Chorus, he turned to a friend, saying, with tears in his eyes: "What will this be like in Heaven?"

J. S. Bumpus had in his possession a Kyrie, Credo, and Sanctus in E flat, and Magnificat and Nunc dimittis in F, by Stephen Elvey (all unpublished). The Kyrie is adapted from Handel's Minuet in "Berenice."

GEORGE BENJAMIN ARNOLD, Mus.D., Oxon.; F.R.C.O. 1860 1865
(See under Winchester.)

JAMES TAYLOR, Mus.B., Oxon., 1873; Mus.D., Oxon., honoris causâ, 1894 ... ... 1865 1900

Born at Gloucester, 1833. Pupil of G. W. Morgan. Organist of St. Mary-le-Crypt, Gloucester, 1850. Organist of New College, Oxford, 1865. Organist also to the University. Died August 1, 1900. There is a memorial tablet to him on the wall of the Cloisters. Composer of Church Music, Organ pieces, Pianoforte pieces, Songs, &c.

HUGH PERCY ALLEN, Mus.D., Oxon., F.R.C.O. 1901 1919

NOW SIR HUGH ALLEN.
(See under St. Asaph.)

WILLIAM HENRY HARRIS, Mus.D., Oxon., 1910; F.R.C.O. ... ... 1919 ——

Born in London, March 28, 1883. Chorister in Holy Trinity, Tulse Hill. Pupil-Assistant-Organist of St. David's Cathedral. Lord Charles Bruce Scholar at the Royal College of Music, 1899-1902, studying the organ under Sir Walter Parratt. Organist successively of St. John the Baptist, Kensington; Wimbledon Parish Church; and Ewell Parish Church. Accompanist to the (London) Bach Choir. Assistant-Organist of the Temple Church. Assistant-Organist of Lichfield Cathedral, holding this appointment concurrently with those of Organist of St. Augustine's, Edgbaston, and Professor of Counterpoint, &c., at the Birmingham and Midland Institute. Organist of New College, Oxford, 1919. His compositions include a Setting for baritone solo, chorus, and orchestra, of Francis Thompson's "The Hound of Heaven." [Carnegie Award, 1919.]

OXFORD—ST. JOHN'S COLLEGE.

Very little information can be obtained of the early Organists of St. John's College, owing to the fact that the College records were many years ago destroyed by damp.

JOHN FRITH, Mus.B., Oxon., 1626 ... ... —— ——

"He was required to compose a piece in seven parts for his degree."—("Degrees in Music," by C. F. Abdy Williams.)

A Service in G by him is included in an old MS. Organ book formerly in the possession of the late J. S. Bumpus, who was of opinion that the book once belonged to St. John's College.

ROBERT LUGG (or LUGGE), Mus.B., Oxon., 1638 ... —— ——

His degree exercise was a Canticum in five parts, which was required to be sung in the music school.—(See "Degrees in Music.")

A Service in G and three Anthems by Robert Lugg are included in the Organ book above mentioned.

According to the "Oxoniensis Alumni" he "changed his religion for that of Rome, and went beyond the seas." (See under John Lugg, pp. 43 and 44.)

WILLIAM ELLIS, Mus.B., Oxon., 1639 ... ... —— (?)1646
Reappointed ... ... circa 1660 1674

Previously Organist of Eton College. On being deprived of his appointment at St. John's College, Oxford, during the Rebellion, he established weekly meetings for the practice of music at his house in Oxford, which were attended by some of the most notable musicians of the period. A detailed account of these gatherings may be found in Hearne's "Life of Anthony Wood," or in Hawkins's "History of Music."

At the Restoration it is supposed that Ellis was reappointed Organist of St. John's College. Died 1674. Some Rounds and Canons by him are included in Hilton's Collection, "Catch who catch can" (1652).

The MS. Organ book above mentioned contains three Anthems by William Ellis. Two of these, "Almighty God" and "This is the record of John," were evidently composed for the Feast of the patron Saint of the College—St. John the Baptist's Day.

FRANCIS PIGOTT, Mus.B., Cantab. ... ... —— ——
(See under Magdalen College, Oxford.)

Nothing is known of the Organists of St. John's College during this period. Probably the Choral Service was suspended.

HEATHCOTE DICKEN STATHAM, Mus.B., Cantab., 1911 ... ... 1920 ——

Chorister in St. Michael's College, Tenbury, 1900. Mus. Scholar, Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge, 1908. Scholar of Royal College of Music, 1912. Organist of Calcutta Cathedral, 1913. St. Michael's College, Tenbury, 1920.

WINCHESTER COLLEGE.

In William of Wykeham's Statutes of 1400 there is no provision for an Organist, and for more than a century one of the Lay Clerks appears to have taken the duty. The first mention of a regular Organist occurs in 1542, when, according to the Bursar's book, held the appointment at a salary of £5 per annum. This seems to have continued to be the amount of the Organist's salary until the time of John Reading.

ROBERT MOSE

JOHN HAWKYNS was Organist in 1548.
His name appears in the Computus Roll for that year. He is said to have been formerly a Monk of Waltham Abbey.

THOMAS WEELKES, Mus. B., Oxon. 1598 1602
(See under Chichester.)

WILLIAM EMES ... ...(?)1602 1637
Succeeded Weelkes. Died 1637. A William Eimes was Organist of Wimborne Minster in 1610.

GEORGE KING ... ... 1645 (?)1665
Father of William King (Organist of New College, Oxford). Died 1665. Buried in the Cloisters of Winchester College.

ROBERT PICKHAVER 1665 1678
Previously Organist of New College, Oxford. In 1665 "he received £4 9s. 6d. in payment for an instrument of music called 'le harpselen' (the harpsichord ?)."—(Kirby's "Annals of Winchester College.") Died 1678.
Two Anthems by him, "Consider and hear me" and "Sing unto the Lord," are included in the MS. Organ book formerly in the possession of the late J. S. Bumpus, mentioned on p. 156.

—— GEFFRYS (JEFFRIES ?) 1678 1681

JOHN READING 1681 1692
During Reading's time the salary was increased from £5 to £50 per annum.
(See also under Winchester Cathedral.)

JEREMIAH CLARK ... . 1692 (?)1695
(See under London—St. Paul's Cathedral.)

JOHN BISHOP 1695 1737

SAMUEL SEBASTIAN WESLEY, Mus.D., Oxon. ... 1850 1865
(See under Gloucester.)

WILLIAM HUTT 1865 1901
Born August 25, 1843. Chorister in Westminster Abbey. Pupil of James Turle, James Coward, and Professor G. A. Macfarren. Organist successively of St. Michael's, Queenhithe; Berkeley Chapel, Mayfair; and the Parish Church, Mitcham. Organist and Music Master of Winchester College, 1865. Retired 1901. Died at Littlehampton, March 18, 1904.

EDWARD THOMAS SWEETING, Mus.D., Oxon. ... 1901 ——
(See under St. John's College, Cambridge.)

WINDSOR—ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL (ROYAL).

JOHN MARBECK (or MERBECK), Mus.B., Oxon., 1550 (?)1541 (?)1585*
Born about 1514. Lay Clerk, and afterwards Organist, of St. George's Chapel, Windsor. Condemned to the stake, for his adherence to the Protestant faith (1544), but escaped through the intervention of Gardiner, Bishop of Winchester. Died about 1585. Adapter of the ancient Plain-Song to the English Service, published in 1550 as "The booke of Common Praier Noted." Composer of Church Music, including a Mass "Per arma justitie," Motets, &c. Author of a Concordance, "The Lives of the Holy Sainctes, Prophets, Patriachs, and others, contained in Holy Scripture," 1574, &c.

In the Dedication, to Edward VI., of his "Concordance," he describes himself as "destitute bothe of learnyng and eloquence, yea, and suche a one as in maner never tasted the swetnes of learned Letters, but altogether brought up in your highnes College at Wyndsore in the study of musike and plaiyng on organs, wherin I consumed vainly the greatest part of my life." According to the "Injunctions newly given by the Kinges Mats Commissioners for the reformation of certain abuses" (4 Edward VI., October 26, 1550), GEORGE THEXTON was evidently a Joint-Organist with Marbeck at that time:—

"And whereas we understand that John Merbeck and George Thexton, hath of your graunt, ffees appointed them severally for playing upon organs. We take ordre that the sayd John and George shall enjoy their severall offices during their Lyves, if they continue in that Colledge, in as large and ample maner as if organ plaing had still continued in the Church."—(Ashmolean MS., No. 1123, f. 38b-41b.)

* He probably relinquished the active duties of his appointment some years earlier.

RICHARD FARRANT 1564 1580

Born about 1530. Gentleman of the Chapel Royal until 1564. Master of the Choristers (and probably one of the Organists) of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, 1564. Reappointed a Gentleman of the Chapel Royal, 1569. Died at Windsor, November 30, 1580. Composer of Church Music. The well-known Anthem, "Lord, for Thy tender mercies' sake," attributed to R. Farrant, is more probably the work of John Hilton.

Farrant had an allowance of £81 6s. 8d. as Master of the Choristers of St. George's Chapel, for their board and education. He resided in a house within the Castle, called Old Commons.

The office-book of the Treasurer of the Chamber, in the reign of Elizabeth, contains several entries of payments to Farrant for the presentation of Plays at the Court by his Choristers.

JOHN MUNDY (MUNDAY, or MUNDIE), Mus.D., Oxon., 1624 ... ... circa 1585 1630

Is said to have succeeded Marbeck as Organist. Pupil of his father, William Mundy, and for some time Organist of Eton College. Organist of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, circa 1580. Died 1630. Buried in the Cloisters, St. George's Chapel. Composer of Church Music, Madrigals, "Songs and Psalms," &c. There are several pieces by him in the Fitzwilliam Virginal Book.

NATHANIEL GILES (or GYLES), Mus.D., Oxon., 1622 1585 1633

Born of a Worcestershire family, about 1558. Possibly a Clerk of Magdalen College, Oxford, in 1577.* Organist of Worcester Cathedral, 1581-1585. Master of the Choristers and one of the Organists of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, 1585. Master of the Children of the Chapel Royal, 1597. Died January 24, 1633. Buried in St. George's Chapel, Windsor. Composer of Church Music, Madrigals, &c. Contributor to Leighton's "Tears and Lamentacions of a Sorrowful Soule."

The Dean and Canons of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, by Deed dated 1st October, 1595, nominate Nathaniel Gyles, B.M., to be Clerk in the Chapel, and one of the Players on the Organs there, and also to be Master, Instructor, Tutor, and Creansor, or Governor of the ten Choristers, agreeing to give him an annuity of £81 6s. 8d. and a dwelling-house within the castle, called the Old Commons, wherein John Mundie did lately inhabit, with all appurtenances, as one Richard Farrante enjoyed the same. The stipend to be paid monthly by the Treasurer, over and beside all other gifts, rewards, or benevolence that may be given to the Choristers for singing of Ballads, Plays, or the like: also such reasonable leave of absence as the statutes allow, except when Her Majesty shall be present, or an Installation or Funeral of any noble person shall be solemnized,—on condition that the said Nathaniel Gyles shall procure meet and apt Choristers within the space of three months after avoidance, (Her Majesty's Commission for the taking of children being allowed unto him,) and that he shall instruct them in Singing, Pricksong, and Descant, and bring up such as be apt to the Instrument; and that he shall find them sufficient meat and drink, apparel, bedding and lodging at his own costs within the New Commons lately appointed for them; and that he shall find a sufficient deputy during the times of sickness and absence."—(Ashmolean MS., No. 1125, 33.)

* Sir Ivor Atkins has found that Giles was not a Chorister of Magdalen College, Oxford, as stated by Bloxem.

At the instigation of Sir Ivor Atkins it was recently discovered, by means of the records in St. George's Chapel, that in 1586 Nathaniel Gyles received a similar annuity as Master of the Choristers there, and that he was first appointed such in 1585. The Indenture given above was probably a document of renewal, the various officials of the Chapter being appointed by the year only.

"Nathaniel Giles, Dr. of mewsicke died y^e^ 24th of Janewary & was bewryed the 29th of the same munneth, 1633."—(Extract from the Registers of St. George's Chapel.)

His son, Nathaniel Giles, became a Canon of Windsor, and afterwards of Worcester.

WILLIAM CHILD, Mus.D., Oxon.... ... ... 1632 1697

(See under Chapel Royal.)

[The Choral Service and Organ were suppressed from 1644 until the Restoration.]

JOHN GOLDWIN (or GOLDING) 1697 1719

Born 1670. Pupil of Dr. Child. Organist of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, 1697; Master of the Choristers there, 1703. Died at Windsor, November 7, 1719. Composer of a Service in F, a few Anthems, and some "Lessons" for the Harpsichord (MS.).

FRANCIS PIGOTT (Junr.) ... ... —— 1756

Probably grandson of Francis Pigott Senr., and son of J. Pigott (Organists of the Temple Church). The year of his appointment to St. George's Chapel is not known. He was also Organist of Eton College.

EDWARD WEBB 1756 1788

Also Organist of Eton College.

Died 1788, through loss of blood, after undergoing an operation for the removal of a wen from the nostril. Buried in the Cloisters.

THEODORE AYLWARD, Mus.D., Oxon., 1791 ... 1788 1801

Born 1730. Organist of Oxford Chapel, London, W., about 1760; St. Lawrence, Jewry, 1762; St. Michael's, Cornhill, 1768; St. George's Chapel, Windsor, 1788. Was also Private Organist to Queen Charlotte. Gresham Professor of Music, 1771. Died in London, February 27, 1801. Buried in St. George's Chapel, Windsor. Composer of Church Music (in MS.), Musical Dramas, pieces for the Harpsichord, Glees, Songs, &c.

Epitaph (by the poet Hayley) on Dr. Aylward, in the Rutland Chapel, North Aisle of St. George's Chapel:—

Aylward, adieu! my pleasing, gentle friend,
Regret and honour on thy grave attend:
Thy rapid hand harmonious skill possest,
And moral harmony enriched thy breast;
For heaven most freely to thy life assign'd
Benevolence, the music of the mind;
Mild as thy nature all thy mortal scene,
Thy death was easy, and thy life serene."

WILLIAM SEXTON 1801 1824

Born 1764. Chorister in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and in Eton College. Pupil of Edward Webb. For some years Assistant-Organist of St. George's Chapel. Organist, Sub-Precentor, and Master of the Choristers, 1801. Died 1824. Composer of Church Music, Glees, Songs, &c.

KARL FRIEDRICH HORN 1824 1830

Born at Nordhausen, Saxony, 1762. Pupil of Schröter. Came to London as valet to the Marquis of Stafford, 1782. Afterwards became a teacher of music, and was Music Master to Queen Charlotte until 1811. Organist of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, 1824. Died August 5, 1830. Composer of Sonatas for the Pianoforte, Twelve Themes with variations for the Pianoforte, with an accompaniment for the Flute or Violin. Author of a Treatise on Thorough Bass. Collaborated with Samuel Wesley in the preparation of an English edition of J. S. Bach's "Wohltemperirte Clavier," which was published in 1810-12.

His son, Charles Edward Horn, was a celebrated Singer and Composer, whose songs "Cherry Ripe" and "I know a bank" have taken a place among our national ballads.

HIGHMORE SKEATS (Junr.) 1830 1835

Born at Canterbury, 1786. Presumably a pupil of his father, whom he succeeded as Organist of Ely Cathedral, 1804. Organist of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, 1830. Died at Windsor, February 24, 1835. Buried in the Cloisters of St. George's Chapel. Composer of Church Music.

SIR GEORGE JOB ELVEY, Kn^t., Mus.D., Oxon., 1840 1835 1882

Born at Canterbury, March 27, 1816. Chorister in Canterbury Cathedral. Pupil of Highmore Skeats (Senr.); also of his brother, Stephen Elvey, and afterwards, at the Royal Academy of Music, of Cipriani Potter and Dr. Crotch. Lay Clerk of Christ Church Cathedral, Oxford, 1833. Organist of St. George's Chapel, Windsor, 1835. Private Organist to Her Majesty, 1837. Knighted 1871. Conductor of the Windsor Glee and Madrigal Society and of the Windsor and Eton Choral Society. Retired from the post at Windsor, 1882. Died at Windlesham, Surrey, December 9, 1893. Buried outside the West Front of St. George's Chapel, Windsor. Composer of Oratorios, Odes, Church Music, Glees, Part-songs, Music for Orchestra, Organ, Pianoforte, Violin, Songs, &c.

SIR WALTER PARRATT, Kn^t., K.C.V.O.; Mus.D., Oxon., 1894; F.R.C.O.... ... ... 1882 ——

Born at Huddersfield, February 10, 1841. Pupil of his father, Thomas Parratt (Organist of Huddersfield Parish Church), and George Cooper. Appointed Organist of Armitage Bridge Church, 1852; St. Paul's, Huddersfield, 1854; Witley Court (Private Organist to Earl Dudley), 1861; Wigan Parish Church, 1868; Magdalen College, Oxford, 1872; St George's Chapel, Windsor, 1882. Conductor of the Windsor and Eton Madrigal Society, 1882. Sometime Conductor of the Windsor and Eton Choral Society. Founder and Conductor of the Windsor and Eton Orchestral Society. Professor of the Organ at the Royal College of Music, 1883. Knighted 1892. Master of the Music to Her Majesty the Queen, 1893. Professor of Music in the University of Oxford, 1908-1918. Knight Commander of the Victorian Order, 1921. Composer of Music to "Agamemnon," "Story of Orestes," "Elegy to Patroclus," Church Music, Organ pieces, Songs, Pianoforte pieces, &c. Lecturer and Writer on Music.
